Arrest Youth In Synagogue Attack

Self-Styled Nazi Seems Remorseless

GASDEN, Ala. (AP) — Remorseless and almost boastful, Jerry Earl Hunt, 16, told police Saturday a grudge against "Jewish swine" led him to stage a fire-bomb and rifle attack on a synagogue Friday night.

Two men were wounded, one seriously, by the rifle fire.

Hunt described himself as a student of Nazism.

Adults who knew him described him as an above-average student, an active church member, a member of the school band, a boy with no record of trouble-making.

"We all knew he had a Nazi armband and read books about Hitler," said Vincent Bria, director of the Etowah County High School band, "but we thought it was just a phase that would pass."

Police picked up a red armband with a swastika on it when they arrested him in a hotel room in the predawn hours.

Circuit solicitor Charles Wright said the slim, crew-cut blond boy, held on two counts of assault with intent to murder, had admitted the assault on the synagogue.

"He shows no remorse," said Wright. "In fact, he seems fairly proud of the act."

The boy told police he had begun planning the attack several weeks ago when he and two Jewish boys exchanged sharp words over his possession of the swasti-

Motorist Strikes Woman, Rocks Car To Shake Her Off

CHICAGO (AP) — A motorist dragged a woman pedestrian beneath the car for half a block Saturday, police said, then rocked the car back and forth to shake her free before speeding on. She died two hours later.

A witness gave police this account of the fatal encounter in suburban Roseland:

Mrs. Jennie Ores, 63, was struck while crossing the street, and the impact threw her upon the auto's hood. The car proceeded down the street, smashing into a light pole.

On went the driver, dragging the woman beneath the auto for half a block. Then, at an intersection, the driver stopped, backed up and raced ahead, repeating this operation until Mrs. Ores fell free.

The victim, mother of three, died in Roseland Community Hospital.

Africa Backs Down On Passbook Law

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — South Africa backed down Saturday on its requirement that Negroes must carry passbooks and show them whenever police demand.

National police headquarters in Petoria announced police had been instructed not to ask black Africans to produce their reference books or arrest them for nonpossession of these documents.

The statement explained the Negroes were afraid to carry such books "as a result of intimidation" and so "it has been decided to ease the tension." It said that as far as possible, police would make use of warnings before hailing anybody to court.

The militant Pan Africanist Congress has been campaigning since Monday against the white-imposed system requiring nonwhites day and night to carry pass reference books—somewhat like passports for internal use — and present them on demand.

The campaign started with crowds of Negroes marching to police stations without passbooks in the hope of getting arrested and clogging the wheels of justice. Police fired into crowds at some points, and scores were killed and more than 200 wounded.

The police announcement came as spreading strikes crippled sections of South Africa's cape peninsula. Sullen, passive resistance continued in the Vereeniging industrial area, where the most se-

To Quiz Minister Who Took Films At Starved Rock

OTTAWA, Ill. (AP)—Investigators left for Rapid City, S. Dak. Saturday to question a touring evangelist who snapped photographs in Starved Rock State Park on the day three Chicago area matrons were slain.

Sheriff Ray Eutsey and three aides left from Chicago's Midway Airport in quest of a description by the Rev. Aubrey W. Heflin of things he might have seen while touring the scenic park.

Earlier, Eutsey announced he would ask the minister, a member of the Church of the Open Bible, to return here voluntarily. Then he quietly booked passage through to Rapid City for himself and three other investigators—

Clamp Restrictions On Operation, Speed Of Electra Airliners

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government Saturday slapped new restrictions on the operation of Lockheed Electra turboprop airliners, pending further investigation of two recent crashes of Electras.

The Federal Aviation Agency sent out the orders, calling for a series of precautionary safety measures, to seven airlines using the Electra.

The measures include a further reduction in operating speeds, on top of those imposed last Sunday, new operating limitations and a series of rigid tests and inspections of all Electras.

The two recent tragedies involving Electras were the crash of a Northwest Airlines plane near Tell City, Ind., March 17, killing all 63 aboard, and that of a Braniff plane which went down near Buffalo, Tex., last Sept. 29 killing 34.

Civil Aeronautics Board Chairman James R. Durfee said last Monday the Northwest plane could have been torn apart by turbulence in the air or an explosion.

The latest order further reduces the Electra's normal operating speed to 225 knots or 259 miles an hour at normal operating altitudes. FAA said this will provide a substantial margin of safety as a precautionary measure until the prescribed test program justifies its removal.

Electras have a top speed of about 450 m.p.h. and a normal cruising speed of around 400 m.p.h.

Last Sunday's order had directed the planes be operated at not more than 316 miles an hour, at elevations up to 15,000 feet, and at still slower speeds at higher altitudes.

FLOAT LOAN WITH PLASTIC BONDS

CANBERRA, Australia (AP)—Bonds made of plastic are being floated in New Guinea in a government loan to educate the natives in economics. Territories Minister Paul Hasluck, whose department administers the area, told Parliament: 'We had to use a durable material because ordinary script would have disappeared in a year under the tropical conditions."

Pioneer In X-Ray Dr. Grubbe, Dies From Radiation

CHICAGO (AP) — Dr. Emil H. Grubbe, pioneer in the field of X-ray and radiation treatment, died Saturday a victim of his own scientific experiments.

The 85-year-old physician succumbed at Swedish Covenant Hospital.

Burned by X-rays in the fall of 1895, Dr. Grubbe was the earliest known victim of made-made radiation. He later said that his radiation burns, which crippled and disfigured him, provided the idea of using radiation for therapeutic purposes.

In 1896, Dr. Grubbe, as a 20-year-old physicist, used a beam of X-rays to treat a woman cancer patient. Late in life, he generally was credited as the father of X-ray treatment.

Death came to him after years of painful treatment of cancer brought on by constant exposure to X-rays. He underwent 93 operations and lost most of both hands and several sections of his face.

Despite his affliction, he continued in his work and outlived all but one of the doctors who treated him.

Last February, the American Cancer Society bestowed its national citation for distinguished service upon him.

Last year, Dr. Grubbe turned over most of his assets to the University of Chicago Cancer Research Foundation. The value of his gift was appraised at $157,992.23.

Khrushchev Starts Tour Of France, Gets Cool Reception

PAU, France (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev launched a six-day tour of France Saturday in a French Caravelle jet named Champagne. Provincial townspeople received him with reserved politeness and little effervescence.

Through Bordeaux, Tarbes, Lacq and Pau in the foothills of the snow-capped Pyrenees, the chunky master salesman pursued his campaign to sell the French the idea of closer ties with the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev spoke genially and smiled readily, even where a sparsity of spectators might have suggested considerable indifference to his presence.

At only a few spots were the crowds large, as in the Bordeaux square where about 10,000 gathered. Most seemed curious and good natured in a Saturday holiday atmosphere.

The airport reception at Bordeaux, a port of 250,000, contrasted cooly with the three days of pageantry, political talks and lively appearances Khrushchev has had in Paris as President Charles de Gaulle's presummit guest.

A handful of spectators watched in silence as Khrushchev left the plane at Bordeaux to start looking over industry, ports, farms, wine caves, and historic spots of the French countryside. There were no applause, no cheers, no bands.

There was only one big banner up on the highway from the airport into the city. Hanging from a bridge, it said: "Long live De Gaulle, champion of liberty and peace."

Khrushchev seemed undisturbed.

Some minor scuffling developed in the city square. At one side a group chanted "Khrushchev! Khrushchev!" A group across the square answered "Budapest! Budapest!"

Security police broke up a flurry of fist fighting.

The majority of the crowd cheered, laughed, and applauded politely when Khrushchev and his wife, Nina, appeared. Some whistled in derision as the Soviet leader inspected the city's National Theater.

He reminded Bordeaux Mayor Jacques Chaban Delmas that great port cities 'have very sensitive fluctuations along with the international climate."

He slacked off his attacks on German militarism but said in a luncheon speech: "In the past war we fought together against the fascist German invaders and, by a common effort, won the victory. The peoples of the Soviet Union and of France are vitally interested in maintaining peace."

Wind Up Hearings On Location Of Interstate Route

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP) — A confident group of southern alignment supporters Saturday wound up three days of testimony at a Bureau of Public Roads hearing on the question of whether to relocate Interstate Highway 64 in Indiana and Illinois.

Proponents of a northern alignment, fearful of losing the route, concluded their testimony in a fiery morning session. About 300 attended the morning meeting and 200 were there in the afternoon.

The northern route, the original Interstate 64, would follow U. S. 50 from St. Louis to Vincennes, Ind., en route to Louisville.

The southern route, recommended by Illinois and Indiana highway departments would reach Louisville by dipping 15 to 35 miles south of U.S. 50 near Evansville, Ind., largest city between St. Louis and Louisville.

Thousands of words of evidence came from both sides at the one-day Centralia hearing and a previous two-day Princeton, Ind., hearing.

Both Princeton and Centralia are in comparatively neutral ground, although Centralia went on record Saturday as opposing both routes because one misses the city by nine miles and the other by 14 miles.

Speakers for both the north and south groups said it would be wasteful to build the east - west Interstate 64 anywhere but in their area. Both sides claimed — and supported statistically—larger populations, more industry, more agriculture and greater significance to national defense.

The Bureau of Roads has the final say on the location of interstate routes.

Armstrong said the bureau will allow two more weeks for additional evidence to be sent to Washington.

Cuba Moves Toward Showdown On U.S. Quantanamo Naval Base

HAVANA (AP) — Cuba moved Saturday toward a showdown with the United States over the U. S. Guantanamo Naval Base.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government asked the United States to rehire a Cuban labor leader fired from his job in the strategic American defense installation in eastern Cuba. It also complained that anti-Castro workers are being hired at the base.

This and two other complaints about Washington's policies toward Cuba appeared to have thrown up a roadblock in the path of U. S. Ambassador Philip W. Bonsal's latest efforts to mend crumbling Cuban-American relations.

The United States was expected to reject the Guantanamo rehiring request made Friday night in a formal note couched in relatively friendly tones.

The note asked "earnestly" for reinstatement of Federico Figueras Larrazabal, a machinist who heads the workers' union at the base. He was fired for making offensive remarks about the U. S. government and for a poor work record.

There was no official reaction to the Cuban notes from the U.S. Embassy, although members of Bonsal's staff expressed surprise that any diplomatic exchange had taken place during the day.

Copies of the notes were made available to the press Friday night by the Cuban Foreign Ministry. The two other notes, also signed by Foreign Minister Raul Roa, complained about U. S. withdrawal of agricultural inspection service technicians from Cuba and about Washington's ban on the sale of helicopters to Cuba.

These developments came as mounting friction between Cuban Communist and anti-Communist factions erupted into an open clash in Havana's streets.

The war of words between an anti-Communist commentator, Luis Conte Aguero, and Castro's powerful propaganda apparatus flared into a near riot in downtown Havana.

Spring Comes To Midwest, Cold Grips Northeast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A rash of sunshine and mild temperatures broke out in the midcontinent Saturday while wintry weather harassed the Northeast with snow and cold.

The mercury bounded into the 50s and 60s from the northern Rockies through the Dakotas and southward across the Plains. The warmup also pushed eastward into the Mississippi Valley.

For many areas, it was the first real batch of spring weather since the season arrived officially a week ago.

A late afternoon reading of 73 degrees at Bismarck, N.D., broke a 65-year-old high temperature record for the date. The previous record, 72 degrees, was set in 1895.

In contrast, portions of the Northeast were gripped for the second day by record low temperatures. The mercury skidded into below-zero territory in Wisconsin and through most of New England. Boston felt its sharpest March 26 chill on record, 13 degrees.

Light snow fell from the Great Lakes region into New Jersey and southern New England. Although accumulations generally were 2 inches or less, below freezing daytime temperatures in some areas froze the light snow to highways and created hazardous driving. Warming melted the new snow in western Great Lakes states.

Stratton, Rentschler Step Up Pace As Election Date Nears

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gov. William Stratton pointed to agricultural accomplishments of his administration Saturday in a campaign address in Jerseyville.

Up north, in Crete, William Rentschler told a group of Republican party workers that he will defeat the man Stratton selected to run for the U.S. Senate nomination on the GOP ticket, Samuel W. Witwer.

"The governor's man runs the kind of race you expect from someone who has no taste for a fight and who hopes the governor's blessing will shoo him in," Rentschler declared.

Both candidates, along with other contenders, were stepping up their pace as the April 12 primary date drew closer. Stratton is seeking re-nomination to a third consecutive term.

Stratton said that during his seven years in office the state's institutional farms showed a 20 per cent increase in the number of hogs produced for slaughter and a 75 per cent boost in beef poundage.

He also promised that a marketing survey now underway "will increase the value of the Illinois egg crop by approximately $7,000,000 a year when it is completed."

"We have fought livestock disease with spectacular success," he said.

Rentschler hit out by name at three of his five fellow contenders.

"Recent jabs at me by Messrs. (Warren) Wright, (John) Lewis, and Witwer sound like frightened cries disguised among whistles in the dark," he said. "All of them know I am way ahead."

"My opponents in the primary," he added, "are born losers who will be rejected by voters who want Douglas defeated."

Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill), unopposed for renomination, will face the Republican nominee in the fall election.

Civil Rights Bill Faces Uncertain Fate In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—A standoff by opposing sides was foreseen Saturday by Sen. Norris Cotton (R-NH) when the Senate Judiciary Committee takes up the House-passed civil rights bill Monday.

Cotton said the committee is likely to get nowhere if it undertakes to amend the measure.

"The liberals will want to make it more far-reaching and the Southerners will want to cut out parts of it," said Cotton, a committee member who advocates a middle-road course.

Cotton told a reporter he understands a move may be made at the committee meeting to report the House bill out "immediately, as is."

From what he has heard, he added, Senate leaders of both parties would like the committee to send the measure back to the Senate without change.

Cotton said he probably would support such a motion but with the understanding that he reserves the right to vote for amendments when the bill is taken up in the Senate.

The Senate, after receiving the five-point civil rights measure

Believe Disarmament Talks Offer Some Hopes For Future

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Western sources said Saturday the 10-nation disarmament conference in its first two weeks has established a negotiating pattern which gives some hope for the future.

Basic East-West differences remain unresolved, but they have been expressed with such care in the conference room that the talks remain very much alive.

There is even some hope, informants said, that a limited achievement such as the drafting of a treaty preamble can be accomplished before the summit meeting opens in Paris May 16. This would give the top leaders a chance to review the conference's work, take any general policy decisions necessary, and send new instructions to the delegates.

As expected, Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin began by insisting that the conference first produce definite pledges of cuts in manpower and weapons before going into the details of how such promises would be enforced. Delegates from Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania, and Bulgaria echoed this demand.

The Western nations—the United States, Britain, France, Italy and Canada—took a different approach. They said if an agreement can be reached on international control and verification measures, actual reductions will be easy to achieve.

This is an old argument at conferences of this type—a "which comes first the chicken or the egg" sort of riddle.

The only apparent compromise in sight would allow the conference to approach the control and military reduction problems on parallel lines. A reading of the conference record thus far shows both sides have been careful to avoid closing off approaches to such a compromise.

Will Seek United Policy For Talks On Nuclear Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan arrived late Saturday for talks with President Eisenhower aimed at producing a united British-American front in critical nuclear test negotiations with the Soviet Union at Geneva.

A "joint decision" is needed on the next Western move in the negotiations, the British Prime Minister said in an arrival statement at Andrews Air Force Base, and "it therefore seems a good idea to take it jointly."

"What happens in these negotiations (at Geneva)," he declared "may affect — indeed must affect the whole future of mankind on earth."

Macmillan and Eisenhower will begin two or three days of talks at Camp David, Md., Monday afternoon. The Prime Minister is expected to urge the President to make an all-out effort during his remaining months in office to reach some accord with the Soviet Union on ways of easing the continuing dispute over Berlin and on initial disarmament steps.

Macmillan's airport statement emphasized that he sees the negotiations with the Soviet Union for a nuclear test ban as a possible first step toward ending the atomic arms race and achieving global disarmament agreements.

Macmillan was met by Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and other State Department and British Embassy officials.

The problem is how to reply to a Soviet proposition of last Saturday. The Russians offered to accept a plan for a limited treaty prohibiting nuclear weapons testing if the Western powers would agree also to an informal moratorium of indefinite duration on small underground explosions which would be excluded from

Abandon Search For Plane That Crashed In Gulf

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Navy has given up its search for the wreckage of a National Air Lines plane that crashed in the Gulf of Mexico off the Louisiana coast Nov. 16.

Officials had hoped to find enough of the C7B to learn whether a bomb blew it up.

The plane was flying from Tampa, Fla., to New Orleans when it crashed. Rescue teams that went to the scene immediately found bits of the wreckage and the bodies of nine of the 42 persons killed. No one survived the attack.

Ships from the Atlantic Fleet mine force went to the scene Nov. 20. They used divers, underwater sounding devices, and underwater television cameras in the hunt for more of the plane and other bodies. They covered more than 150 square miles of the gulf bottom. But no further sign of the wreckage was found.

Robert Vernon Spears of Dallas was listed as a passenger on the plane but was arrested in Phoenix last January. It was revealed his place on the ill-fated craft had been taken by a friend, William Allen Taylor, Tampa, Fla.

Explosives were found in Spears' luggage when arrested and he was questioned for days by the FBI concerning the crash of the airliner. The FBI refused to disclose what, if any, information was obtained during the interrogation.

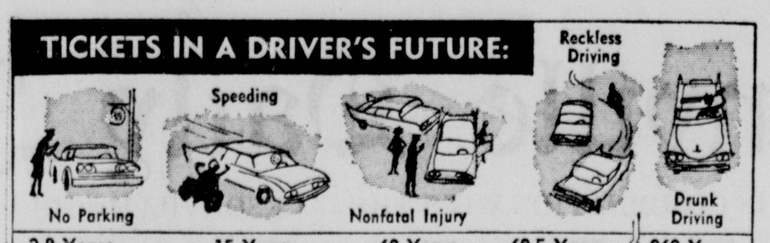
TICKETS IN A DRIVER'S FUTURE:



EVER BEEN GIVEN A TICKET?—Charted, above, are the chances that mythical motorist, the "average" driver, has of getting a ticket for various offenses. Though he might be a teetotaler and live to the Biblical age of Methuselah, the hapless fellow would run the risk of being tagged for driving while drunk twice in 969 years. So figures the law of averages. And he would have to drive some 16,400,000 miles before being involved in a fatal traffic accident. Dieter Hoener, Moultons Leave For Europe

ROODHOUSE — Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Moulton, accompanied by Dieter Hoener, Wednesday flew from St. Louis to New York, where they left by the Sabina Air Line for Europe. They expected to arrive in Manchester, England, Thursday morning, and then continue to Brussels, Belgium.

In Germany they will visit in Stuttgart, Heidelberg, Berlin, and Frankfort. A main stop will be in Bielefeld, Mr. Hoener's home, and also the home of Fischer-Kroecher manufacturing company where he received his technical training. Mr. Moulton is co-owner of the Roodhouse Envelope Co. and Mr. Hoener is a mechanical engineer with the local company.

While in Germany, the Moultons hope to visit with Capt. and Mrs. Byron Battershell, Airman Dennis Hagen and Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Dake. All of the young people are formerly of Roodhouse.

To Attend Music Camp

Mrs. George Plahn, music chairman for the Roodhouse Woman's Club, has announced that two girls have been named from the local high school to attend the Western Music Camp at Macomb next summer. Sarah Martin, daughter of Mrs. Floyd Martin, was selected to represent the band, and Ann Ford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ford, was chosen from the chorus.

Mr. and Mrs. William Israel and son, David, and daughter, Nancy, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bandy have returned home from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bandy, and family, Hillsboro. Accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bandy home were their twin grandsons, Dean and Don, who will remain in Roodhouse while the parents move to Litchfield.

Members of the WSCS of Asbury Methodist church were entertained Wednesday afternoon, Mar. 23, by Mrs. Harry Craig, Mrs. Howard Megginson, and Mrs. Henry Nayor at Hamilton's restaurant.

The hymn, "Count Your Blessings," was sung at the opening of the meeting. Eleven members responded to roll call with "Weather Superstitions."

In the absence of Mrs. Lillian Clark, the devotions were in charge of Mrs. Frank Crawley. Correspondence and minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Paul Barrows.

Mrs. Arvel Becker gave the treasurer's report.

During the social hour Mrs. Howard Becker had charge of a contest, with prizes going to Mrs. William Martin and Mrs. Paul Barrows.

Mrs. William Martin was a guest of the society.

LUCKY FIND

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Owners of an appliance firm were happy they permitted a curious junior high school student to rummage through some old television sets stacked at the rear of the store.

Charles Ruttner, 14, found $50 in cash and $300 in checks stuffed inside the sets. The checks were made out to the appliance company but owners were puzzled how they were misplaced.

Fellowship To Go To Teacher At Pittsfield

PITTSFIELD — Mr. Bernard Carpenter, Pittsfield high school Spanish teacher, has been granted a National Defense Education Act Fellowship for study in romance languages at the University of Oregon to begin in the fall of 1960.

The fellowship is on the graduate level and will provide $2,000 the first year, $2,200 the second and $2,400 the third year, plus $400 a year for each dependent. The government designed this type of fellowship to enable the holder to work toward a doctoral degree to teach at the college level.

Mr. Carpenter is a graduate of Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, and has taught Spanish in the Pittsfield high school the past two years.

Scholarship Examinations

County scholarship examinations to select candidates for scholarships at the University of Illinois will be held in the County Superintendent's office in the court house in Pittsfield on Saturday, March 26, at 9 a.m.

There are six scholarships to be awarded: One county scholarship, one agriculture, one home economics, one for a child of veteran of World War I, one for child of a veteran of World War II, one for a child of a veteran of the Korean conflict, who served between June 25, 1950 and January 31, 1955. All students must take the examinations in the county in which they reside.

Special Meetings

A special meeting will be held at the Calvary Baptist Church in Pittsfield, starting on Sunday night, March 27, and continuing through April 3. Rev. Charles Raley, pastor of the Owesen Heights Baptist church in Hodgenville, Ky., will be the speaker. Rev. Gus Falter is the pastor of this church.

Return From Arizona

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Marshall returned this week from a six week vacation in Phoenix, Ariz. They met Mr. Marshall's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Waack, who spent two weeks with them. They all went to Los Angeles together.

They report the Arizona weather as ideal. There was a snow drift in front of their garage when they returned to Pittsfield and they were unable to drive the car into the garage.

Frances Heberling Bride Of Frank Custer In Greene

WHITE HALL—Rev. H. F. Pack, pastor at Redeemer Lutheran church here performed the single ring ceremony Sunday evening, March 20 at the church which united in marriage Miss Frances Eileen Heberling of White Hall and Franklin Curtis Custer, Carrollton.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Heberling and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Custer.

Mrs. Edward Backs presided at the organ for the prelude.

Miss Janice Snyder, White Hall, was maid of honor and David Custer attended his brother as best man.

The bride wore a ballerina gown of white satin and net. The dress was made with fitted bodice and featured a square neckline. Her shoulder length veil of illusion was attached to a small matching headpiece. Her corsage was of red roses.

Miss Snyder wore a conventional length gown of toast colored lace. Her flowers were red roses.

The bride's mother wore a gray crepe with black accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore blue with matching color accessories and red roses.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Jack Fisher. A three tiered wedding cake, topped with miniature bride and groom, centered the serving table. Assisting with the serving were Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Glen Heberling and Mrs. George Brannan.

The newlyweds will make their home at Godfrey, Illinois. The bride graduated from White Hall high school in 1958. The bridegroom graduated from Carrollton High School in 1954, served three years in the U.S. Navy and is employed by Alton Steel Mills.

Bill Wade To Speak At Club In New Berlin

NEW BERLIN—The April meeting of the New Berlin Woman's club will be held on the regular meeting day, the first Friday, April 1, in the community room of the high school at 2 p.m., rather than in the fairgrounds building as previously announced.

Bill Wade, of Jacksonville, will give the afternoon program. Mrs. Warren Massey, supervisor for Volunteer Services, Jacksonville State Hospital, will also be present and talk to the group about this work. Costumes made by the members for the District Sewing Contest will be modelled by the contestants, and judged.

The program is in charge of the Fine Arts department, whose chairman is Mrs. Alvin Lovekamp. Other hostesses for the day will be Mrs. John Isaacks, Mrs. Wayne Woods, Mrs. William T. Marr, Mrs. Frank Taylor, Mrs. W. C. Zachary, Mrs. Ernest King and Mrs. John A. McCullough.

Brief News Notes

The American Legion Post 743 has scheduled a stag fish fry to be held in the fairgrounds building New Berlin on Friday evening, April 1, with serving to begin at 5 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Knepler and children were honored guests of many friends and relatives Wednesday evening at a potluck dinner served in the community room of the high school. The Knepplers will move to California soon.

The Lloyd Cummings family moved, on Saturday, to the Fromme property near the Island Grove elevator. The Cummings' had the misfortune to lose their home and all possessions in a fire Monday evening. They express their gratitude to the community for the many articles given them and kindness extended following the misfortune.

Franklin Club Combined Meeting At Dahman Home

FRANKLIN—The combined Feb.-March meeting of the Franklin Music Club was held at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Dahman with Mrs. Edgar Bool, assistant hostess from the February meeting plans.

The March hostesses were Mrs. Clarence Duewer and Miss Mary Darley.

Roll Call was answered with a winter hobby, an Irish song or joke.

The group were entertained by the 7th and 8th grade girls of Mrs. Robert Darley's choral group under her direction. They sang "O Blessed Savior" and "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You."

Clarinet duet, Carolyn Haynes and Sharon Stewart; choral group, "I Heard a Forest Praying," "Goodnight My Someone," parody on "Comin Through the Rye," "Dream for Sale" and "Mood Indigo."

Mrs. Duewer sang "School Days" and Miss Darley funny sayings by small school children.

Miss Minnie Spires and Mrs. Roy Davenport will be the hostesses for the April meeting. Tentetive plans are being made for a tour of Jacksonville institutions.

After Andrew Johnson became President of the United States in 1865 he was nicknamed "Sir Veto" because he vetoed so many congressional bills.

NAMED DAD-OF-THE-YEAR

Ned F. Crain, 7068 Emma Ave., Jennings, Mo., is crowned MacMurray Dad-of-the-Year by his daughter Marilee, as part of Dad's Day activities at the college Thursday. He was chosen by a student committee judging the best-written reply to the question: "When in your estimation has your son or daughter hit a homerun—a real grand slam? Crain wrote that his daughter had hit singles, doubles, and triples in class, socially, and financially, but that she cracked a real "grand slam when she transferred to MacMurray." Runner-up was E. W. Leistner, 1600 S. 2nd, Springfield. His son Bob is President of the men's student government. He said Bob scored a homerun when he gave his parents a surprise party on their 40th anniversary.

SUSPENSEFUL MOMENT IN 'LAST VOYAGE'

Aided by Edmond O'Brien, left, Robert Stack makes a last, desperate attempt to free his wife, Dorothy Malone, who has been trapped by fallen debris in the cabin of a sinking ocean liner. The tense scene is from Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer's "The Last Voyage," filmed aboard an actual liner on the high seas off the coast of Japan. The Andrew and Virginia Stone Production, written and directed by Andrew L. Stone, also stars George Sanders and six-year-old Tammy Marihugh. It is in color and wide-screen. Picture starts Sunday, April 3rd at the Times Theatre.

The professor was holding forth. "Safety plays are where you find them. For instance—

"West opened the jack of clubs against my apparently comfortable three no-trump contract. It looked like an automatic situation fo rsecond hand low and if I had played second hand low I would probably have not made the hand."

"How could you have been beaten?" asked the student.

"East would have won the trick with the king and shifted to the queen of hearts. If I went up with the ace I would be held to eight tricks so I would have to duck that lead and the jack of hearth continuation. Then East could play a second club. I would have no way to get to my hand for the ace of hearts or queen of clubs and would have been set."

"However, the ace of clubs play was a sure thing. I led the king of diamonds from dummy and there were my nine tricks."

"Suppose that West held the king of clubs" asked the student.

"I would have made four odd in that case but I suggest that you study the club suit. You will note that no matter how the clubs are distributed I could not lose the hand when I played the ace at trick one."

Big Bold Necklace For Spring

Necklaces, this spring, are bigger and bolder than ever. Composed of really large beads, they come in brilliant, high fashion colors. Necklace in turquoise (left) is designed to fill in the boat neckline or wide away collar. It's worn with matching cuff bracelet and cluster earrings. High-rising necklace (right) is made of many strands of round and nugget frosted pearls, sparkling aurora crystals and frosted crystals. Both necklaces are Richelieu designs. —By GAILE DUGAS, Newspaper Enterprise Women's Editor.

Jersey County Candidates Have 'Easy Sailing'

JERSEYVILLE — The coming primary of April 12 promises to be a quiet one in Jersey county unless some interest can be injected into the situation here by the gubernatorial nomination contest on the two tickets.

On the two county tickets, there are no contests in Jersey county.

On the Democrat ticket, Attorney Claude J. Davis, is seeking renomination without opposition. For Circuit Clerk, the present incumbent Paul Kadell is unopposed. Dr. F. E. Walter, Jerseyville dentist is seeking the nomination of coroner without opposition.

On the Republican ticket, no candidates testified for the offices of state's attorney and circuit clerk. The present incumbent of the coroner's office, Rodney C. Jacoby, is seeking the Republican party renomination without opposition.

G. R. Schwarz, Jerseyville attorney is candidate on the Democratic ticket for member of the Representative Committee from Jersey county without opposition. On the Republican ticket, there is no candidate seeking the post for that party.

Home Bureau Play Day Held

The Morgan-Scott Home Bureau held its annual Play Day on Wednesday, March 23, at the First Presbyterian church in Jacksonville.

Mrs. Lawrence Mallicoat, Home Bureau County President, welcomed all present and introduced Mrs. Donald Houston, County Recreation Chairman, who presided for the day. She was assisted by Mrs. George Thayer, Mrs. Robert Dahman and Mrs. A. K. Beams.

The morning program consisted of group singing led by Mrs. Norman McQueen, accompanied by Mrs. Verne Bergschneider. The following Units presented a varied program: Alexander, Asbury, Berea, Bluffs Day, Harmony, Ebenezer, Jacksonville Evening, Jersey College, Mound, Murrayville, Point West, Progressive, South Jacksonville, Town and Country Evening, Winchester Evening.

At noon a sack lunch was enjoyed by all present. Following lunch, Mrs. A. K. Beams introduced Russell Vernor who presented a most interesting film on "The Making of a Figurine." A history of the figurine was given, including all the painstaking steps that are involved in its creation. Many skillful techniques are required before one appears in our specialty shops. Mr. Vernor also displayed various types of figurines.

On display all day was an interesting bulletin prepared by Mrs. Robert Dahman, which listed all the aims of Home Bureau with pictures exemplifying each.

This county meeting is one that is held annually by the Home Bureau in which all units participate. Included in the day's program are both educational and recreational features, and all attending enjoyed both the morning and afternoon programs.

Junior Women Elect Officers At Meredosia

MEREDOSIA—The Meredosia Junior Women's Club held its regular meeting Monday night in the high school home economics room, with 22 members and six guests attending.

The formal opening included the pledge to the flag, the Lord's Prayer and the first verse of "Faith of Our Fathers."

After the minutes of the last meeting and the treasurer's report were heard, Mrs. Marvin Werries, chairman of the ways and means committee, reported that the recent food sale had brought in $26.00. Mrs. Herbert Hinners thanked everyone for helping with the Heart Fund drive.

Mrs. Earl Lovekamp announced that the club's cooky day for Boys Town will be in July. The members decided to bring small articles—tooth brushes, soap, combs and similar things—to the May meeting instead of having a special shower for the boys.

The club accepted the slate of candidates presented by the nominating committee chairman, Mrs. Robert Fricke: for president, Mrs. Ray Staake; vice-president, Mrs. John Alhorn; recording secretary, Mrs. Herbert Hinners; reporter, Mrs. Leon Smith; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Marvin Werries; treasurer, Mrs. Robert Duvendack; executive committee member, Mrs. John Miller; district department board member, Mrs. Glenn Janes.

Mrs. Lovekamp introduced Miss Jane Ackerman, who sang two songs.

Dr. William Pomares gave an interesting talk about diet.

Mrs. Gail Staake, Mrs. Lovekamp and Mrs. Daryle Tegeder served assorted doughnuts, mints, nuts and coffee.

Pastoral Helpers Monthly Meeting Is Held Recently

CHAPIN—The Pastoral Helpers of the Chapin Christian Church held their monthly meeting recently at the home of Mrs. Delph. The president, Mrs. Wilder, opened the meeting. The group sang "'Tis So Sweet to Trust in Jesus," followed by the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison.

Scripture from Matthew, chapters 16 and 17, was read. Roll call was answered by 14 members by giving a St. Patrick's Day verse. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and accepted. The offering and birthday money were accepted.

A letter from Mrs. Bertha Couchman was read. Mrs. Couchman is at Walker's Nursing Home in Virginia. She will observe her 75th birthday April 4. It was suggested that members might send cards for the occasion.

The members decided to clean the church April 4. They plan to stay all day and to take lunches.

Mrs. Neil conducted the social period. Refreshments were served. Mrs. Edna Kellog and Mrs. Alpha Nergenah were guests.

The April meeting will be at Mrs. Thorndike's in Jacksonville.

Miss Carolyn Criss and Miss Wanda Mattes, college students from Macomb, are home for the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Onken left recently to visit their daughter in Maryland.

Mr. and Mrs. Junior Medlock and daughter of Austin, Tex., and Mrs. Ray Wall and daughter of Indiana are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Medlock.

Mr. Housam is also employed at Memorial Hospital in Springfield

Their wedding will be solemnized at four o'clock Sunday, June twelve, at Arenzville Methodist church. Friends and relatives of the couple are cordially invited.

Janet Elaine Leitze

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Leitze of Alsey announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Janet Elaine, to Donald F. Slater, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Slater, Payson, Illinois.

Miss Leitze is a graduate of Winchester High School, class of 1958 and is employed at Jacksonville State Hospital.

Mr. Slater is a 1954 graduate of Seymour High School, Payson, Illinois and is employed at Electric Wheel Company in Quincy.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald D. Pennell

Shelby Briggs Bride Of Reginald Pennell

Miss Shelby Jean Briggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie W. Briggs, 125 West Walnut street and Reginald Dale Pennell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Pennell, 360 Case avenue, were united in marriage the last Sunday in February. The ceremony took place in the afternoon at First Baptist church with the pastor, Reverend Olson, officiating.

Altar vases held white glads and cut flowers contrasting with palms and ferns decorating the front of the church. Miss Mahala McGehee accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Julian Chandler, who sang "I Love You Truly," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride's sister, Karen Sue, was her only attendant and Farrell Means served as best man.

The bride wore a ballerina length gown of nylon lace over net and taffeta. The scoop cut neckline was bordered in sequins and pearls. Chiffon misted over the back of the skirt caught at the V cut waistline and gently gathered at the hemline.

The sleeves were three-quarter length and she wore mitts of tulle, matching her veil of illusion, scallop finish, attached to a jeweled crown. She carried pink roses and white carnations streamered. Her only jewel accessories were pearls, the gift of the bridegroom.

The maid of honor wore poudre blue conventional length costume with black accessories and carried a nosegay of matching blue and white carnations.

The bride's mother wore coral jersey with black accessories and the bridegroom's mother wore beige accessories with a green costume. Both mothers wore corsages of white carnations.

When the couple left for a brief trip the bride was wearing a gray and white ensemble with red accessories and red and white carnations. They are making their home at Chapin and plan a belated wedding trip in late spring or early summer.

The bride graduated from Chapin high school and is employed at Klines store in Jacksonville. The bridegroom attended Jacksonville schools and manages the Gulf Service Station in Jacksonville.

One Man's War With Subway, Or—Success Came On The Vocal Track

By WARD CANNEL
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Al Holland is one of New York City's 8,000,000 residents. And this story is how he accidentally discovered the way out of the rush-hour subway at his stop—and what happened to him because of it.

Now, at the time this story begins, Holland was selling typewriters and taking singing lessons from a teacher who was not very expensive, but also not very good.

"You might say that teacher was lousy," Holland said. "And what with the typewriters and the lessons, I was too tired to fight my way out of the subway at my stop. So I kept ending up in Brooklyn and have to take a subway back and get home at 8:30 or 9."

Then, one afternoon, Holland could stand it no more. The subway pulled in to his station and he began to holler, "Getting off." But what came was a laryngitic sound surprisingly like a train whistle.

You should have seen them get out of my way," he said. "It was like the Red Sea parting."

So that night he worked on the train whistle in the privacy of his own apartment, and finally got it to sound like the trains he remembered from his boyhood in Bethesda, Md.

He tried it the next day on the subway, and it worked like magic. In fact, it worked for several weeks. But as New Yorkers have learned to put up with soot, teenagers and unemployed actors, Holland's train whistle soon lost its power to part the crowd.

"So," Holland said, "I stayed up all one night working on a dog bark—a Spitz, I believe."

It worked as well as the train whistle. And before it could wear off, he had worked out six other breeds of dog. Then a cat. Then a dog-and-cat fight

"It's not so easy," Holland said, "if you want to do it right. And I couldn't stay up all night. So I used to practice on buses and while I was walking around making my calls on prospective typewriter buyers.

"I had to give up my singing lessons, of course."

But, oddly, his typewriter sales began to increase. By now, he had worked out a barrel organ, a caliope, a folk guitar, a Hawaiian guitar, jungle birds and like that.

I'd walk into a prospect's office and give them a guitar arrangement of "Moon Over Miami" with the tropical birds twittering in the background. They couldn't resist.

Then little things began to happen. A policeman tried to arrest him for playing a barrel organ on the street without a license. A crowd of people, calling out helpful hints, blocked Madison Ave. while he was working out the sound—and gestures—of a golf ball being whacked by a wood. A bus-full of people was halted on Broadway while the driver got out to help Holland who was only practicing hiccups.

"Listen," Holland said, "that drunk act was terrific for getting off the subway or on it—or off or on anything."

In the end, news of his vocal ability drifted back to the typewriter company.

What a bunch of stuffed shirts," he said. "Here I was selling their deluxe electric models at list price—and who buys anything at list price today—and they're sitting in their leather chairs telling me shape up.

"Well, I wasn't going to change. And I wasn't going to quit. I was going to make them fire me."

That afternoon he walked into a prospect's office with his coat awry and his hat on sideways, hollered "Taxi!" and gave them a battery of hiccups, tropical birds, dogs, cats, caliopes and guitars.

"I got another job the next day," Holland said. "I could have got a thousand jobs. I've bet thousands of people on buses, subways, at golf lessons on Broadway, out walking my dog bark on Madison Ave.

"I think they all like me. You know, everybody says New York is such an exciting city. That's another way of saying it's tense. Well, who's going to dislike a guy who breaks the tension?"

Carrollton Lions To Hear Talk On Africa

CARROLLTON—Dr. John Wanamaker, biology professor at Principia College at Elsah, was the guest speaker at the dinner meeting of the Carrollton Lions Club held Thursday evening in the Knights of Columbus hall.

Dr. Wanamaker showed pictures and talked about his recent 16,000 mile trip into Africa. He was presented by F. L. Imus, the program chairman for the evening who was also the acting president in the absence of Guy Petty. Eric Wilson of Carrollton was a guest of the club.

Brief News Notes

SHE FINDS NEW FORTUNE

NEW YORK (AP) — Elizabeth Watts, 71-year-old actress now singing in the Broadway musical hit, "Destry Rides Again," once had a fortune of several million dollars. She lost it in the Wall Street collapse of 1929, and has returned to the stage.

"Yes, money is important," she now says. "But, not as important as good friends."

MISHAP OCCURS ON SOUTH MAIN

An accident occurred in front of the John Ellis Chevrolet Co. on South Main street at 4:38 p.m. Friday. Raymond W. Steiger of St. Louis was backing into a parking place, and Farrell L. Means, Gold Coast Trailer Court, was going south on Main when the accident occurred.

The rear bumper of the Steiger auto and the left front end of the Means auto were damaged. Both autos left the scene under their own power.

Officer Quinlan attended at the scene.

Marine deployed on the operation, called LANTPHIBEX 1-60, are members of the 2nd Marine Division from Camp Lejeune, N.C. It is the largest amphibious training maneuver scheduled for East Coast Navy-Marine Corps units this year.

During the exercise, the combat readiness of the striking arm of the Atlantic Fleet and the combat effectiveness of the Marine Corps' latest developments in equipment and landing techniques will be tested.

D.A.R. Chapter Plans Benefit Card Party

The Rev. James Caldwell Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution held a regular meeting on Thursday, March 24, at the Chapter Home.

The meeting started with dessert served in the dining room. The table was set with a centerpiece of mixed flowers, beautifully arranged. Silver and china completed the settings. Cakes with blue and green icing flowers, salted nut meats, coffee and tea was served.

The hostesses were Mrs. George Vasconcellos, Mrs. Clyde Driver, Mrs. William Hall, Mrs. Lewis Kelly, Mrs. Lawrence Mallicoat and Mrs. Pierce J. Dooling. Mrs. Lawrence Mallicoat and Mrs. William Hall poured.

Guests present were Mrs. Alvin Middendorf, Mrs. Wilfred Rice, Mrs. Charles Ransdell and Mrs. E. C. Ransdell.

Mrs. George Drennan, Regent, opened the meeting at 2:30 p.m. and presided. Mrs. Ruel G. Crum led the Lords Prayer, this was followed with the pledge of allegiance. The group assembled and the National Anthem.

The secretary, Mrs. J. E. Dinwiddie, read the report of the February meeting. Mrs. Drennan gave a report for the treasurer, Mrs. Earl Rexroat, in her absence. Mrs. William H. Jones gave the National Defense report and told of "Our Stand on World Court," and what a world police force could mean.

The Regant reported on material received from the State Conference held recently in Springfield during the worst of our storms. Mrs. John Pollock has been accepted by National Headquarters as a D.A.R. member for this Chapter. Revisions to the by-laws are to be announced at the April meeting.

A third member to the nominating committee, Mrs. Paul S. Black, was elected. Mrs. Albert E. Powers, benefit chairman, reported on the card party and luncheon to be held at the Chapter Home Friday April 29. Tickets are now on sale.

Mrs. Guy Martin, registrar, passed out a new Genealogical form to members which should be filled out and returned to Mrs. Martin. These forms are to be used at headquarters for future applicants for membership in proving lineage.

A quiz, "What do you know about our National Anthem" was conducted by Mrs. Drennan. Few remembered that the music was written by John Stafford Smith, that it was not adopted as the National Anthem until March 3, 1931 or how many times parts of it has been changed, which is reported as many times.

A group of Cub Scouts from Our Saviour's school were chaperoned through the chapter home March 23.

The board will meet at the Chapter Home April 7, starting at 2 p.m. The next regular meeting will be on February 14. Mrs. Carroll Houston will be the speaker on Our American Red Cross.

Franklin Cub Scouts Hold Belated Banquet

FRANKLIN—The annual blue and gold banquet sponsored by Franklin Cub Scout pack 158 was held Tuesday evening, March 22 at the Franklin high school. The banquet had been postponed since February 26 due to unfavorable weather conditions.

Beautifully decorated tables, an appetizing array of food and soft dinner music greeted the Cubs, parents and guests as they arrived. The festivities began at 7 p.m. with the presentation of colors and pledge of allegiance by Den Two. Everyone joined in song singing "If You're Happy." Rev. George Garris gave the invocation and a dinner hour followed.

Recognize Officials

Pack chairman Ray Jones welcomed the group and related the history and progress of Pack 158 during the past two years. In recognizing committeemen and den mothers for their work in scouting, he spoke with pride of the outstanding performance and devotion each has given to the scouting program in Franklin.

Those recognized were F. Byron Smith, Bill Reese, Howard Scott, James Rawlings, Earl Carter, George Mitchell, Milly Jones, Marie Robson, Marilyn Kelly, Eloise McKean, Marjorie Long and Martha Waters.

Several guests and their wives attended the banquet and each gave a short talk highly praising the cubs and leaders of the Franklin Cub pack. Those attending were J. R. Davidsmeyer, district scout chairman; Rev. George Garris, pastor of the Franklin and Durbin Methodist churches; James Adkins, president of the Franklin Lions club and Harry Fitzhugh, principal of Franklin High school.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne McNeely, Franklin PTA representatives; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dodsworth, American Legion representative and Mr. A. B. Caldwell, institutional representative and scheduled toastmaster for the evening, were unable to attend.

Honor Den Mothers

The program portion of the banquet was directed by Cubmaster Byron Smith and included a short skit by the Cubs of den three who are Terry Long, Paul Walters, Jack Hare, Jimmy Courier and Tommy Courier. Cubmaster Smith presented certificates of appreciation to the den mothers, Webelos Leaders Bill Rees and Howard Scott, and two past den mothers Edith Rees and Ann Rawlings. Assistant Cubmaster Bill Rees presented a plaque to Byron Smith for his outstanding service as cubmaster and cubmaster Smith presented a plaque to pack chairman Ray Jones.

Advancement Leader George Mitchell and Cubmaster Smith conducted an impressive candlelight advancement ceremony and the following awards were made: Wolf Badge, Billy McKean. Bear Badge, Terry Long; Lion Badge, George Jones; Arrow Points, Willie Rees, and Jimmy Jones; Webelos patches,Willie Rees, Jimmy Rawlings, Ernie Haynes, Eddie Scott, Randy Scott and George Jones; Den Chief Cord, Den Chief Bobby Darley; and service stars, David Robson, George Jones, Jimmy Jones, Bobby Lair, Terry Long, Paul Waters, Jack Hare, Jimmy Courier, Willie Rees, Jimmy Rawlings, Ernie Haynes, Eddie Scott and Randy Scott.

Announcements were made by Cubmaster Smith and the Webelos den retired the colors. Rev. Garris gave the benediction.

The next scheduled pack meeting will be held at the American Legion Hall in Franklin on Tuesday evening, April 26. The April theme is "The Great Lakes" and the cubs will race their "Pinewood Derby" cars. The "Golden Arrow" attendance award was won by the Webelos den for 100 per cent attendance and advancement leader George Mitchell presented the award to assistant Webelas leader Howard Scott.

Five File For Greene-Jersey School Board

JERSEYVILLE — The annual election for members of the Board of Education of Community Unit District 100, Jersey and Greene counties, will be held from noon until 7 p.m. Saturday, April 9, and a total of five candidates have filed their nominating petitions.

The candidates are as follows: Christ Ringhausen, Robert M. House and Mrs. Rachael Loar of Jerseyville and Avery Gisy of Grafton for three year terms and William F. Gilman of Fieldon, for one year term to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Max Griffith of Fieldon. Because of the present status of membership on the board, not more than two candidates can be elected from Jersey township described as Township 8, Range 11.

Al Schepler who is completing a second term as a member of the board of education is not a candidate for reelection. Gisy of Grafton and Ringhausen are seeking reelection. The holdover members on the board are Hubert Mourning of Kane, president of the board; Mrs. Janet Gorecki of Jerseyville, secretary and W. K. Wieland.

Bluffs Civic Club Observes 'Ladies Night'

BLUFFS — The Bluffs Civic Club observed "Ladies Night" Wednesday evening with a delicious fried chicken dinner served in the Bluffs High school lunch room by the ladies of the Oxville Methodist church. One hundred seventeen members and guests were present. The tables were appropriately decorated in keeping with the approaching Easter season. Carnations were presented to each lady present.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Vernon Haggard. The musical portion was presented by the high school girls trio, Linda Berry, Esther Barnett and Delores Kroencke, accompanied by Sue Bridgman singing "Always." Miss Sharon Dunham sang "Only Smile" accompanied by Miss Bridgman.

Paul Vannier introduced the speaker of the evening, Ross V. Randolph, Warden of Menard State Penitentiary. Randolph gave a most interesting and enlightening talk on his work at Menard and the improved conditions. He spoke of the need of a change in the sentencing practices now in use by the courts. He also told of his work with the FBI. The problems of crime among the youth and methods of corrections were also spoken about with advice to the parents present.

Railroads Find Way To Lure Passengers Back To Rails

NEW YORK (AP)—A number of railroads have discovered a way to lure passengers back to the rails: treat 'em gentle.

Pullman travel on coach tickets, lower roundtrip fares, cheaper sleeping room rates for less ornate space, free coffee, dinners served at coach seats and lunch counter snacks are among the gimmicks offered.

Railroads across the country have abandoned branch line trains —"We didn't desert the passengers, they deserted us," the railroaders say. But it's different with main line, long-haul trains.

The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy is unique in that it has been able to hold its passenger traffic relatively steady and at a high level during the past decade. Passenger revenue increased last year for the fourth gain in five years.

The Burlington's Denver Zephyr was the first train to use "Slumbercoaches," which offer a bed and toilet facilities in a private room at slightly higher rates than coach fare—but not as high as roomettes. Average occupancy has exceeded 80 per cent.

While some Eastern lines have been closing stations, the Burlington has been putting in new ones or refurbishing old ones: at Omaha, Neb.; Denver, Colo.; Kansas City, Mo.; Burlington and Ottumwa, Iowa; Quincy, Ill.; La Crosse, Wis., and St. Joseph, Mo.

"The Burlington intends to remain in the passenger business," says H. C. Murphy, president.

Another Western road, the Union Pacific, spends more money on advertising to drum up passenger business than any other line. It provides counter service in "coffee shops" on several main line trains. It gives free meals on its famous "Gamblers' Special" between Los Angeles and Las Vegas. It has reduced the price of its first-class Denver-Chicago ticket.

Probably the Missouri Pacific has tried more ingenious methods of promoting passenger service than any other line. As a result passenger revenues increased last year for the first time since 1951.

Various reduced fare plans have been put into effect, including a "Thrift-T-Sleeper" which allows a passenger to occupy a Pullman berth at ordinary coach fare on the St. Louis-Denver run. (Occupancy rate is 86 per cent).

Missouri Pacific also operates a Slumbercoach which reduces the regular room fare on a roundtrip ticket between St. Louis and San Antonio by $39.25. (A similar car attached to the New York Central's Twentieth Century Limited gets a passenger from New York to Chicago for $48.06 compared with $81.78 for standard sleeper.)

Another Mopac service is the "Eagle travel tray," which gives coach passengers a full course luncheon or dinner at their coach seats for $1 on certain trains.

The Mopac has discontinued local service on secondardy lines but it is going all out to win passengers back to main line routes.

The Kansas City Southern's president, W. N. Deramus, calls the dual fare system—one for coach, another for first class — "archaic, confusing and costly." The road honors coach tickets in sleeping cars on payment of regular Pullman charge.

Other roads which have special fare reductions of one type or another include the Great Northern, the Northern Pacific, the Chicago and North Western, and the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific.

The Atlantic Coast Line experimented with reduced fares between Jacksonville and Atlanta, but dropped the program as unsuccessful. In the East, the New York, New Haven and Hartford has cut fares sharply on main line trains between New York, Boston and intermediate stations.

Despite its efforts to upgrade major passenger trains, the Chicago and North Western is doubtful about their future.

However, the Chicago and North Western has an unusual attitude toward suburban commuter service: It thinks it can make this type of rail operation pay. The road recently placed a 21-million-dollar order for new suburban equipment.

Within 18 months the North Western's entire Chicago suburban service—largest in the Chicago area—will consist of double-deck, air-conditioned steamliners powered by diesel engines.

Cass Association Plans For 1960 County Fair

VIRGINIA — At the March meeting of the directors of the Fair Association plans were made for the 1960 Fair.

A letter from Venita Rich Talent Revue was read stating that the winners from the 1959 talent contest will audition in New York in June. Dates were also announced for a "Kick-Off" meeting on April 4, with all solicitors being invited to the meeting. The board made plans for refreshments and entertainment.

Plans were completed with the Chevrolet dealers of the county to have them bring in the General Motors Traveling Exhibit.

More work on the grounds will be done during the year. More level ground is needed for exhibit space. A committee is already at work on improving the grounds.

Two contracts have been let. One is with the Illinois Valley Rides. This is the same carnival as last year. The other contract is with the Venita Rich Talent Revue.

The board also read a letter from Virginia Dodds, Miss County Fair Queen of 1959, thanking the board for sponsoring her in the Miss Illinois State Fair contest in January. Plans are to hold another contest during the 1960 county fair.

U.S. Servicemen In Iceland Suffer From Indignities, Restrictions, Embarrassments

Editor's Note — James Elliott, military affairs writer for the Norfolk Ledger-Star, recently spent two weeks in Iceland investigating complaints of American servicemen who man NATO defenses there. His articles on how Americans live behind the glacier curtain were made available to The Associated Press.

By JAMES ELLIOTT

Military Affairs Writer

KEFLAVIK, Iceland (AP)— American servicemen at this bleak, frigid Atlantic outpost are living behind a glacier curtain—an invisible wall as high and as strong as the Iron Curtain.

It is a barrier behind which Americans silently suffer from indignities, restrictions and embarrassments that few persons back home ever hear about.

U.S. forces were invited to Iceland as protectors nearly 10 years ago by a government afraid of being invaded by Communists. The Icelandic government asked them to "go home" in 1956, then changed its mind suddenly during Russia's suppression of the Hungarian Revolt.

The Army contingent of 1,200 men is now being pulled out. It's unlikely the GIs will shed any tears.

The Army says the withdrawal is part of a normal redistribution of troops, a plan which has been under consideration for some time. However, it was announced last year at a time when bad feeling between U.S. military forces and Iceland civilians was at a peak.

Approximately 5,000 Navy, Air Force and—up to now—Army men in Iceland brave blizzard weather, standing their posts in knee-deep snowdrifts, below freezing temperature and howling, relentless winds. They fly through all types of miserable weather and battle seas that would terrify Neptune himself. They spend monotonous hours over radarscopes that scan the arctic horizon toward Russia for unfriendly aircraft.

They are treated with suspicion. They are searched when they leave the base and restricted in their movements around Iceland. The men are required to be in uniform at all times.

Only 130 a day are permitted passes. The liberty period is limited. The men hardly have time to leave the base, drive over the treacherous, winding 35 miles of ice-covered road to Reykjavik and eat a meal before they must be off the streets.

The Icelanders have imposed a 10 p.m. curfew on American servicemen. On Wednesdays they can remain on the streets until midnight, but on Wednesdays all bars and night clubs are closed.

Morale is about as low as Iceland's subterranean hot springs.

The base, Icelanders insist, is not a base but an international airport 100 per cent a part of Iceland.

For that reason Icelandic police have authority throughout the area. They seem extremely zealous in arresting servicemen leaving the clubs at night on charges of drunken driving.

Iceland has very strict drunken driving laws and mandatory blood tests where a person is suspected of being under the influence of alcohol. The test criterion is very low.

"You can have a drink the night before and have one of their blood tests the next day and be declared drunk," said one officer.

American dependents living off the base cannot take home items purchased in the base exchange or commissary. Icelandic police search American cars leaving the gate and confiscate the items.

The Icelanders call it smuggling. They fear the doors will be opened to black marketing. Americans often have to face criminal charges in Icelandic court.

Hardest hit by these restrictions are the dependents who are here at their own expense because their husbands chose to serve only one-year tours in Iceland. Approximately 200 families live off the base in apartments or houses rented from Icelanders.

Air Force Staff Sgt. James G. Warner of Buckhannon, W. Va., with a wife and two children, rents an unfurnished three-bedroom apartment in Keflavik for $64 a month. Utilities cost an additional $16 a month. Food, however, soars to approximately $125 a month, which is not hay on a sergeant's pay.

During the summer, the Icelandic government barred Americans from its only national park, Thingvellin. Timinn, the Progressive party newspaper, incensed American feelings here by writing that if the Americans "want to see the country," they must be "closely supervised by Icelandic officials."

"The only manner in which the foreign garrison can be tolerated," the paper said, "is to prevent all unnecessary association between the garrison force and the nation concerned."

With last summer's elections over, the newspapers have toned down their anti-American campaigns.

In January air policemen halted two Icelanders approaching a security area in a situation that could have exploded into something tantamount to the "mud puddle" incident. That was the case where an air policeman was reported to have forced two Icelandic officials to lie face down in a mud puddle when they approached a restricted area. The incident resulted in the recall of the Air Force general then commanding here.

In the January case the two Icelanders were not forced to spread-eagle on the ground, but they were made to lean against their vehicles.

Yet, the episode didn't erupt page one headlines.

The government's bold move late in February to devalue the kroner will help considerably. In the past the government has had a multiple value on the kroner. Defense force dealings with the government were made at a rate of 16 kroner per American dollar. Servicemen and tourists were able to trade their dollars officially at the rate of 25 kroner. At some places in Europe, rates of up to 50 and 60 kroner were reported.

Under the devaluation a universal exchange rate of 38 kroner to the dollar is in effect.

Americans are hopeful that this new spirit might start a thaw that could improve relations.

Many Americans blame their difficulties on the Icelandic Communists. Communist popularity in Iceland has decreased.

The parties in power still fear Communist reaction, however.

"Wholesale efforts to improve the situation for Americans would backfire on us politically. The Communists would stir all sorts of controversy," one highly placed and symathetic government official told this reporter.

The Americans who live off the base have found most Icelanders rather shy, but pleasant people. They do not go out of their way to be friendly, but they accept friendship warmly once they become acquainted. Servicemen appear unanimous in their feeling that the majority of Icelandic people do not hate Americans.

But as a nation, they will never accept the idea of a foreign base on Icelandic soil with any enthusiasm. They are a strong-willed people who take tremendous pride in the independence they won from Denmark in 1918 after 650 years of foreign domination. They are very much concerned with their young sovereignty and hold genuine fears of the impact of 5,000 troops on their small population of approximately 167,000 people.

Silks Swish Across The Nation—

NEW YORK—(NEA)— In every part of this country, the soft silk dress plays a big role on Easter Sunday.

It is most often reserved for luncheons, teas and the festive family gatherings that are part of Easter Sunday. Topped with a silk coat or worn with mink stole or jacket, the soft silk dress, in print or solid color, is exactly right.

By soft is meant, of course, the cut of the dress. This Easter, it's likely to be slim with a wide collar or big bow at the neckline for daytime wear. But for late afternoon, it will be beautifully draped and it will be in a solid color.

This year, the print silk dress is either matched to the lining of the coat it's worn with or has the print repeated in the coat itself. In the latter instance, the coat lining is a solid color silk.

Almost any print is pretty this Easter just so it's done in shades of blue, blue-green, mauve-violet or brown and gray. The gals who will take their prints on the sophisticated side will pick the black and white or brown and pale beige combinations.

Though your fashion choice for luncheon after church will depend, of course, on your personal preference, you're likely to find that the skirt silhouette will fall into one of three categories. It will be slim but slightly rounded over the hipbone, fluid and circular, or pleated. For pleats have made a big comeback this year and will figure prominently on Easter Sunday.

Campus Marriages Have Jumped From Few Thousand To Nearly Million

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—An unmarried college student may one day be as rare on the campus as a raccoon coat or hip-pocket flask.

In the 15 years since the end of World War II, the number of married students has jumped from a few thousand to nearly a million. Assuming continued prosperity, most educators think the number will continue to rise.

Campus marriages are so relatively new, no one knows for sure just how many there really are. Even the U.S. Census Bureau has made only one sample survey.

That survey, taken in the fall of 1958, indicated that 30 per cent of the men and 20 per cent of the women attending college were married. This doesn't really prove much, however, because it includes part-time and graduate students, many of whom had their degrees before getting married.

The best guess, and that's all it is, is that married students represent 10 to 25 per cent of the enrollments of most coeducational colleges. Here at the University of Iowa, a typical large state institution, it's more than 26 per cent—2,820 out of 10,789.

This new type student body has brought many new problems to university officials. Probably the biggest is the question of suitable housing for student families.

When my wife and I got married on this same campus, back in our pre-World War II salad days, we were strictly on our own in finding an apartment.

Today the university is building married student apartment houses almost as fast as it can find the money. Now under construction are 192 two-bedroom apartments, the first of nearly 1,500 to be built within the next 10 years.

The university now rents out 696 barracks-type apartments, rather hastily constructed in 1947, and 28 one-bedroom and efficiency apartments built a few years later.

Prices range from $62.50 to $75. By contrast, Janet and I paid $20 a month for a furnished two-room-and-bath apartment in a private home a few blocks from the campus.

Those who can't get university housing find apartments in town, or commute from nearby communities, some as far as 26 miles away.

One thing hasn't changed. It's still hard for married students with children to find apartments in private homes.

Married students fall into no particular economic group at Iowa. For some couples it's a real struggle to make ends meet. Others have only minor financial problems. Some even manage to save a few dollars.

Generally speaking, it depends on how much help they get from their parents.

Robert L. Harryman is one of those who has had it rough.

Harryman was graduated from high school in Burlington, Iowa, in 1943, got married in 1949, and finally enrolled as a freshman at Burlington Junior College in 1951.

Between that time and his graduation here in February, Harryman was in and out of Burlington, Olivet (Mich.) College, and the University of Iowa. He spent 18 months with the Army in Korea, and 18 months working a factory job in Los Angeles.

Wherever Harryman went to school he also worked full-time. When the money ran out, he quit school and saved enough to start over again. His wife, Pat worked when she could, but keeping house and caring for Krista, now 8, and Kimberly, 11 months, limited her to occasional baby-sitting jobs.

During his last year here, Harryman worked as an orderly at the University Hospital from 11:30 a.m. to 8 p.m., for $217 a month. By the time he had dinner and put the kids to bed, he wasn't ready to start studying until nearly 11 p.m.

"For the last two years I had just one suit," Harryman said. "I couldn't afford insurance. I couldn't take my wife to a dance. I couldn't save a nickel. Every cent I made was earmarked for something even before I got my hands on it.

"But it has been worth it. I'd do it again if I had to."

For Terry and Sally Tingle, both 21, it's a different story.

Sally works for the university as a secretary and makes $235 a month. With this, and a scholarship which pays Terry's tuition and buys his books in Pharmacy School, the Tingles get along quite well. Most months they manage to put aside $10 or so.

They pay $57.50 for their two-room apartment, plus about $8 for electricity and telephone. They go home to Davenport, Iowa, every 4-5 weeks, take in a movie about once a week, and go to a university dance if the mood strikes them.

They drive a car, paid for with money that Sally saved before they were married last June. They haven't had to call on their folks for help yet, but they know the help is there if they need it.

The postwar boom in campus marriages is attributed directly to the thousands of World War II veterans, who proved it could be done, and to continuing prosperity which has made it financially possible.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP) —(USDA)—Here is a summary of the hog, cattle and sheep market for the week and estimated receipts for today:

Hogs 100; barrows and gilts steady to 25 higher, sows 25 to mostly 50 higher. At the close a select lot of 38 No. 1 sorted 203 lb butchers brought 16.50 with other No. 1 mixed No. 1 and 2 and mixed No. 1 to 3 200-240 lbs at 16.00-16.40. Mixed grades No. 2 and 3 and No. 3 200-260 lbs closed at 15.65-16.00. Mixed No. 2 and 3 and No. 3 260-280 lbs 15.40-15.85. Mixed grades 330-550 lb sows closed at 13.50-14.75.

Cattle 100; slaughter steers steady to 50 lower than last week's close except average choice to low prime grades 50-1.00 lower. Heifers steady to 50 lower, commercial and standard cows steady, lower grades 50-1.00 lower, bulls weak to 50 lower. Vealers steady. Load prime 1243 lb slaughter steers 32.75, six loads prime 1200-1350 lb steers 32.25 and 32.50, most high choice and prime steers, the majority scaling 1050-1450 lbs 29.00-32.00, numerous loads mixed choice and prime grades 29.75-31.50, bulk choice steers 26.50-29.50, mixed good and choice 26.00-26.50. Bulk good grades 24.00-26.00, utility and standard steers 19.00-23.50, few loads and lots high choice and mixed choice and prime heifers 28.00-29.00, bulk high good to average choice 25.00-27.50, good heifers sold down to 22.50, utility and standard 17.50-22.50. Few standard cows 19.50-21.00, commercial cows 17.50-19.50, utility and commercial bulls 20.50-23.00, good and choice vealers 30.00-34.00, standard grades 23.00-29.00, cull and utility largely 15.00-22.00.

Sheep none; slaughter lambs 50-75 lower than last week's close, ewes about steady. On the close choice and prime 90-110 lb wooled slaughter lambs 21.50-22.50, Friday load 103 lb weights 22.75. Early in the week few small lots mostly prime 24.00. Good grade lambs down to 21.00. Cull to choice slaughter ewes 7.00-9.50.

CHICAGO (AP) — Butcher hog prices were steady to 25 cents higher again this week, extending to 13 the number of consecutive weekly advances. Since the first of the year, the market has climbed from a low of $12.50 a hundredweight to a peak of $16.85.

Receipts of 32,500 head were the largest in several weeks but shippers were good buyers and took the largest volume in three weeks.

The cattle market had a larger supply on sale than for any week since late January and prices of all classes were lower with slaughter steers down 50 cents to $1.00.

Some of the weakness also was ascribed to a softer dressed beef market.

The sheep market trended downward after Tuesday's active trade and closed the week with slaughter lambs 50 to 75 cents lower. The supply of 6,800 head was 78 per cent above the previous week and was the largest in five weeks. Almost 1,000 head still were unsold at the close on Friday.

New York Stock Market

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — New signs of easier credit this week helped inspire the stock market to its second straight weekly advance.

The easing of credit was a reversal of one of the major factors which accompanied the January stock market decline. "Tight money" then was a Wall Street bugaboo.

Early this year the interest return for bonds was so superior to the average dividend payout for stocks that big investors did a lot of switching from stocks into bonds. The better demand for bonds inevitably helped raise their prices, consequently reducing the ratio of their interest to their price—lowering their yield.

The rally in U.S. government bonds and high-grade corporate bonds continued this week, further whittling down the big advantage in yield that bonds previously had over the average common stock.

The trend toward easier money was emphasized by a drop in U.S. Treasury short-term borrowing costs for the third straight week; by another drop in commercial credit rates; by a decline in rates for bankers acceptances; and a drop in net borrowed reserves of Federal Reserve banks.

All this was good news to the stock market community which began to talk of a possible drop in the discount rate charged by the Federal Reserve to its member banks.

The market advanced Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Monday and Friday it declined irregularly and slightly.

The Dow Jones industrial average this week rose 6.05 to 622.47.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 2.60 to 216.00.

Volume was 13,593,924 shares, a moderate improvement over the previous week's total of 12,948,300 shares.

Most active stock on the New York Stock Exchange was American Motors, up 2⅜ at 25¼ on 322,600 shares. Most active on the American Stock Exchange was Western Development, up 1 at 5½ on 132,000 shares.

ESTIMATED RECEIPTS

CHICAGO (AP) — Estimated livestock receipts for Monday are 8,000 hogs, 22,000 cattle and 2,500 sheep.

among them his deputy, William S. Dummitt.

Mr. Heflin was scheduled for missionary appearances Saturday in Hot Springs and Custer, S.D., and in Rapid City Sunday. None of the investigators would disclose their plans.

Mr. Heflin has said he entered the mouth of St. Louis Canyon in Starved Rock Park on March 14, walked a short distance, took some pictures and returned to his auto.

It was on Monday, March 14, that the three women — socially prominent residents of Riverside, a Chicago suburb—were set upon and beaten to death in St. Louis Canyon. Two days later their bloodied, battered bodies were discovered in a cave near the canyon floor.

When news of the discovery reached him, Mr. Heflin, 39, notified authorities in Rockford, Ill., of his presence in the park on that fatal Monday. He subsequently motored on to South Dakota to continue his evangelistic mission.

From Brookings, S.D., he mailed the films back to Illinois authorities, but there was a delay in their receipt.

Saturday in Chicago, Postal Inspector Jerome Williamson reported the films arrived in a badly squashed box. But after ascertaining they were the films sought in Ottawa, Williamson forwarded them here.

Mr. Heflin sent 25 to 30 snapshots and about 50 feet of color movie film. It was felt that some where in these pictures a face, a figure or a scene might have been photographed which could provide a clue.

Other leads have cropped up only to be discarded in the search for the killer or killers of Mrs. Frances Murphy, 47, Mrs. Mildred Lindquist, 50, and Mrs. Lillian Oetting, 50, all wives of well-to-do Chicago business executives.

Sheriff Ray Eutsey said the minister will be asked to point out places he visited. Perhaps under questioning, the sheriff said, "he will be able to identify a person or thing he might have seen, something he didn't even think of."

Eutsey said the minister arrived in the area on March 13 for a church meeting in Ottawa. The next day, after stopping off at the 1,436-acre park, which is open to tourists throughout the year, he drove on to Rockford.

The Church of the Open Bible has headquarters in Des Moines, Iowa. Mr. Heflin recently returned to the United States from a three - year mission in Cuba.

Civil Rights Bill Faces Uncertain Fate In Senate

from the House on Thursday, gave the Judiciary Committee until next Tuesday midnight to act on it.

Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala) said in a statement that he hopes the committee in the limited time allotted to it "will succeed in eliminating the more vicious parts of the bill."

When the measure is brought back to the Senate, Sparkman added, "it is my hope that we shall succeed in killing the bill entirely."

If the bill is amended by the Senate, it will have to go back to the House where it might become entangled indefinitely in delaying tactics of Southern opponents.

Cotton said he was inclined to favor letting the Senate as a whole decide whether to take this risk rather than for the Judiciary Committee to undertake to change the bill.

However, he said he personally would prefer knocking out of the House bill a section making it a federal crime to interfere by force or threats with court orders in school desegregation cases.

If the section is not eliminated entirely, he said, it ought to be broadened to cover all federal court orders.

MACMILLAN ARRIVES FOR CONFERENCE WITH EISENHOWER

the treaty because they are hard to detect.

Macmillan is reported to favor a conditional acceptance of the Soviet offer in the hope that this would lead to a test ban agreement. Early last week Eisenhower was under strong pressures to rebut the Soviet offer.

Friday however, Herter disclosed that the administration had reached a decision on its position. This is understood to allow for a counterproposal to the Russians based on the limited moratorium of probably one to two years.

The Eisenhower decision cleared the way for an agreement with Macmillan, whose thinking is reported also to provide for a time limit on the moratorium.

Anderson, chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, said in a statement that this country should give prolonged study to the Soviet proposal.

The British Prime Minister, diplomatic officials said, will seek to influence Eisenhower in exactly the opposite direction from that urged recently by German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Macmillan is known to believe that some agreement with the Soviet Union is possible; Adenauer sees little if any hope of agreement except at the cost of concessions by the West.

The scope of the Eisenhower-Macmillan talks beginning Monday afternoon at Camp David, Md. is being broadened in the light of evidence that the issue which caused the British leader to make his urgent mission to Washington was largely cleared up in advance of his arrival.

Eisenhower decided Thursday to reply to the latest Soviet proposal for a nuclear test ban treaty in about the way that Macmillan wanted. Details remained to be worked out, but any real dispute between the two men on this issue now appears out of the question.

The British ambassador, Sir Harold Caccia, discussed the impending visit Saturday morning. Caccia said he was sure Macmillan would regard Sunday as a day of rest, meaning he would plan no working conferences. On Monday the Prime Minister and Eisenhower will travel by helicopter to Camp David in the Catoctin Mountains, 65 miles away.

In that plush, wooded and heavily guarded retreat, the two men are due to preview their summit conference policies and work on the particular problems of a nuclear test control agreement with the Soviet Union. They plan to meet with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and French President Charles de Gaulle at Paris May 16.

Many of their advisers now believe that the nuclear test issue itself is directly related to the summit conference. Some real agreement between the Western powers and the Soviet Union may be possible on this point, they say, and if so may be a positive accomplishment of the summit meeting.

Clarence Maddox Of Ashland Dies; Funeral Sunday

ASHLAND — Clarence Maddox of Ashland, 83-year-old retired farmer, died at 8:50 a.m. Friday morning at Our Saviour's Hospital. He had entered the hospital earlier the same morning.

He was born in Cass county on April 28, 1871, the son of William R. and Nancy N. Foxworthy. He married Delia Stanley on Sept. 4, 1895. She preceded him in death in July of 1955.

1960 Census Starts Next Friday, April 1

The 1960 census of population and housing, the nation's 18th decennial nose count, gets underway on Friday morning, April 1, with 160,000 census takers starting their rounds which will take them to every dwelling unit in the United States.

In covering the 3¾ million square miles of land area of the 50 states, the census takers will travel an estimated combined distance of more than 1,000 times around the world, or approximately 28 million miles.

District Supervisor Sidney A. Johnson pointed out that residents of the Jacksonville area can speed up the big count by having their advance report forms filled out and ready for the census takers. This action will save time for both the householder and the census taker, the census official said.

The advance report form was distributed to local households prior to the start of the house-to-house canvass. It contains the seven population and six housing questions which are asked of all persons. The advance report form gives the family a chance to assemble information about each member in advance of the census taker's visit. Its use is expected to speed up the field canvass and provide more accurate statistics.

At every fourth household, the census taker will leave a census household questionnaire which contains additional questions covering population and housing characteristics which are being asked of a 25 per cent sample of the population. Householders are requested to fill out the household questionnaire and mail it within three days to the local census district office. A pre-addressed postage free envelope is being provided for this purpose.

The district supervisor emphasized that all information about individuals and their homes furnished to the Census Bureau is held in absolute confidence under federal law. It is used only to provide summary figures such as totals, averages, and percentages. The information about individuals cannot be examined by any one other than census employees who are sworn to secrecy, and thus cannot be used for investigation, taxation, or regulation.

Myrtle B. Snow Of White Hall, Mr. Nolte Wed

WHITE HALL—Mrs. Myrtle B. Snow of White Hall and Elmer Nolte of Bethalto were united in marriage March 19th at the Hillview Pentecostal church. The Reverend Victor DeSha performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a blue walking suit with matching color accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fuller, Althea Collins of Cottage Hill; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baird and Mrs. Jerry Snow, White Hall and Mrs. Victor DeSha, Hillview.

A reception was held for the couple and guests at the wedding at the Snow cafe in White Hall following the ceremony. The serving table was centered with a beautifully decorated wedding cake, topped with a bride and groom. The cake was provided by Mrs. Truman Ransom. Assisting with the serving were Mrs. Kathleen Willis and her daughter.

TRANSPORT OVERTURNS

NEW BERLIN — A large transport truck loaded with beef overturned about noon Saturday on the western edge of New Berlin. Robert Maynard of Columbia, Mo., driver of the Freight Ways, Inc., truck told authorities that the beef, suspended from the ceiling of the truck, evidently began to swing as he entered the S curve, and as he negotiated the last part of the curve swung far enough to shift the weight and overturn the truck.

Maynard was traveling alone en route to Chicago and was not injured. The overturned truck is shown above as a wrecker from Tuxhorn Wrecker Service in Springfield attempts to right it. In center of the photograph is a large utility pole which was sheared off as the truck fell.

State police assisted at the scene of the accident.

White Hall To Be Canvassed For Red Cross

WHITE HALL—Mrs. R. W. Piper, Mrs. H. S. Nevius and Mrs. Bob Allen, who are promoting the annual Red Cross drive, have announced the city is to be canvassed door to door during the month by various workers. The goal of $1,500 has to be reached if we are to maintain the blood bank which is very vital to this community and all of Greene County.

Mrs. Lydia Montgomery is canvassing the west side of the business district and W. L. Dawdy the east side. When these workers call, please give as much or as little as you can, for it will all help to make the goal. The local hospital has been using from eight to ten pints of blood per month.

Bloodmobile Visit

The Bloodmobile Unit of the Red Cross will be in the city of Roodhouse April 1 at the First Baptist Church. The quota is 300 pints for this visit, which will include the communities of Patterson, Hillview, Roodhouse and White Hall. The visit is being sponsored by the V.F.W. Auxiliary to Post No. 7684 of this city, with Mrs. Wanda Edwards as chairman, and by the Roodhouse Home Bureau, with Mrs. Dee Bell as chairman.

During the past year 104 pints of blood have been administered at the Boyd Hospital, Carrollton, and 46 pints at the White Hall Hospital. This total does not include the blood used at other hospitals outside the county.

An effort will be made to contact all who might be able to give, but in case anyone is missed, they are asked to go to the First Baptist Church on April 1 and help in this most worthy cause.

ARREST YOUTH IN SYNAGOGUE ATTACK

ka armband at a school chess tournament.

Earlier last week he told friends of his plot, but nobody took him seriously.

The fire bomb, a soft-drink bottle filled with gasoline, went awry. It struck a stained glass window of the Beth Israel Reform Congregation synagogue and burst into flames, but it failed to break through the wire mesh in the glass and fell to the ground.

When two members of the congregation ran out to investigate, they met a spray of rifle bullets.

Alan Cohn, 35, was wounded in the chest and back. His condition was listed as critical. Alvin Lowi, 64, suffered a hand wound.

Police found seven spent shells outside the synagogue.

About 180 persons were in the synagogue on the outskirts of Gadsden's business district, attending dedication ceremonies for a new wing.

Police focused their search on Hunt after they had found a car belonging to his stepfather abandoned about 10 blocks from the synagogue. The car contained a .22-caliber rifle.

"Hunt's stepfather helped us all he could all the way," said Police Commissioner M. T. Mashburn. "He led us to places where we might find the boy."

Although witnesses to the shooting said they thought more than one person was in the fleeing car, Hunt insisted he was alone.

"That's what he says," Mashburn said, "and we'll have to buy it."

Hunt's stepfather, Walter Hunt, a taxicab operator, stood by during the police interrogation and broke into tears once.

The elder Hunt said the boy's interest in Nazism came as a complete surprise to him. "He kept it away from home," he said.

Mrs. Hunt was under a doctor's care and could not be questioned.

rious shooting occurred.

Anti - Nationalist newspapers have been demanding that Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's government make some friendly gesture toward Africans. A Johannesburg Nationalist newspaper said this week the government had been studying some substitute for the pass system.

Mangaliso Sobukwe, 35, president of the Pan Africanist Congress, charged in Johannesburg Magistrates' Court Saturday that some of the men arrested with him had been assaulted by white police "both within and outside Johannesburg jail."

Sobukwe, who launched the antipass campaign, was arraigned with 23 others in his movement on charges of incitement and contravening a section of the pass laws. They were held to appear in Johannesburg Regional Court April 4.

Quick-smiling, eloquent Sobukwe is a university lecturer and is listed as one of the leading "angry young men" of South Africa's Negro population. The magistrate said Sobukwe's allegations could be noted on record but that they must be reported to the prison or to police authorities.

Passes first were instituted by English governors to control idle, marauding Africans. The system now in force began in 1934 with a requirement that Negroes carry whenever they left their reserves to travel in rural regions.

By 1952 each male African had to carry 30 documents, but the Nationalist government then substituted a single reference book, including an identity card, a tax receipt, and a work record.

Chisox Rap Out 16 Hits In 12-5 Win Over Los Angeles

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — The Chicago White Sox ran their exhibition record to 10-4 Saturday, whipping the Los Angeles Dodgers 12-5 in the first meeting of the two clubs since the World Series.

The Sox had 16 hits, including three apiece by Nellie Fox, Chico Carrasquel and Al Smith, in squaring their record against National League teams to 4-4. They are unbeaten in six games with American League teams.

Right-handers Dick Donovan and Bob Shaw pitched for the Sox, with Shaw going the first five and allowing two runs. Donovan was tagged for a two-run homer by Dodger rookie Tommy Davis in the sixth.

Ted Kluszewski chipped in with two singles, boosting his spring average to .500, as the Sox cuffed Danny McDevitt, Chuck Churn, and rookies Scott Breeden and Ford Young.

Beardstown And Myers Brothers Pass 1st Test

Next Friday's Card
7:15 Kordite vs. Alexander
8:45 Myers Bros. vs. Beardstown

Myers Brothers and the Beardstown All-Stars passed their initial tests in the Jacksonville Independent basketball tournament at Jonathan Turner Saturday night to advance to the semifinal bracket next Friday night when play resumes.

A taller Beardstown quintet used its height and balanced scoring in the first game of the evening to oust the Jacksonville Coin Wash entry, 87-66. The winners jumped off to a 23-16 first quarter lead and then maintained comfortable margins at the next three stopping breaks.

Four Beardstown players hit the double figure column with Hager's 23 points leading the way followed by Williams' 21 and Joe Jamison's 20 tallies.

Ned Jackson topped the losers' output with 21 markers while Mike Burton and Don Berry each collected 16 points.

In the nightcap, White Hall yielded to Myers Brothers' height under the boards and a potent outshooting aggregation, 99-73. The losers took the opening tip and scored on a fast break for their only lead of the game. The winners surged back and retained the lead the rest of the way although White Hall threatened in the early moments of the second quarter.

But Myers Brothers squelched the brief rally six minutes before halftime and took command and held it the rest of the way.

Six players were in the double figures for the winners with Dave Allison's 24 and Danny Warcup's 21 points setting the pace. Printy's 23 led White Hall's attack.

FRIDAY RESULTS

Denny Bast, who topped scoring laurels for the evening with 41 points, led the Alexander Lumber quintet to an 86-57 triumph over Meredosia in the opening game of the Jacksonville Independent Basketball tournament now in progress at the Jonathan Turner Gymnasium. The nightcap saw Kordite overcoming a six-point third quarter deficit in the final chapter for a 56-50 verdict over Jacksonville Foods.

The tourney, which is a benefit for the YMCA-JayCee summer lighting baseball fund, was witnessed by a small crowd Friday night.

The opener was never in doubt after Alexander jumped out in front after 10 minutes of play, 24-16. From there the winners increased their leads to 13 and 16 points at the next two stopping points. Newman's 16 points led Meredosia scoring followed by Dawson and Hatfield each with 14 tallies.

Kordite jumped off to an 8-2 margin in the second game but the lead didn't hold up as a game Jacksonville Foods aggregation battled back in the second canto and then went out in front in the third period to hold a 47-41 lead after 30 minutes of play.

The winners made their surge in the final stanza with control of the boards while checking Jacksonville Foods to only three points in the final 10 minutes of play. Nelson Smith and Ron Kemp led Kordite scoring with 17 and 12 points respectively.

John Fitzpatrick and Ted Cors topped the losing output with 13 and 11 markers.

A's Score Four Runs In 6th To Beat Nats, 7-5

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Kansas City hopped on Bill Fischer for four runs in the sixth inning today and defeated the Washington Senators 7-5 in a major league baseball exhibition game.

The Senators fashioned an early lead on home runs by Harmon Killebrew and Bob Allison, Killebrew's in the first with one on and Allison's a bases empty shot to lead off the fifth.

In the sixth, doubles by Jerry Lumpe and Pete Daley, sandwiched around two singles, two errors and a hit batsman gave Kansas City four runs and a 6-4 lead.

The Senators got one back in their half of the same inning but the A's salted away the verdict with another off Fischer in the eighth.

Detroit Collects 15 Hits In 5-3 Win Over Redlegs

TAMPA, Florida (AP) — Clubbing Bob Purkey and Brooks Lawrence for 15 hits, the Detroit Tigers downed the Cincinnati Reds, 5-3 in an exhibition game Saturday.

Purkey, who worked the first seven innings, was charged with the defeat, the third straight for the Reds and ninth in 13 games.

Jim Bunning and Hank Aguirre limited the Reds to 10 hits, one a first inning homer by Gus Bell. Bunning, who worked six innings, was creidited with the victory.

Frank Bolling led the Detroit attack with four singles in five at-bats. Lou Berberet tripled home the first Detroit run in the second.

Cubs Shutout San Francisco

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Al Schroll and Dick Drott, two right handers, combined to blank the Giants on five singles Saturday as the Chicago Cubs beat San Francisco 2-0.

It was the Chicagoans' first shutout victory of the spring, and their sixth success in the past seven games for a 6-7 Cactus League record.

Schroll, working the first four innings before retiring with a muscle pull in his neck, yielded three hits.

Drott, working a full five-inning stint for the second time this spring, surrendered the other two. The Cubs have now beaten the Giants twice in four games thus far.

Cleveland Trips Boston In 9th, 3-2

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — George Strickland's ninth inning single broke a deadlock and gave the Cleveland Indians a 3-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox Saturday in an exhibition baseball game.

Strickland singled off Earl Wilson, who issued two walks with one out in the last round. The hit scored Tito Francona from second.

Rookie Steve Jankowski tied the score for the Indians in the eighth with a home run, also off Wilson. John Romano homered off Ted Bowsfield in the second.

Jim Grant, who pitched five innings, and Jack Harshman, who pitched four, limited the Red Sox to seven hits and each gave up a run.

Silver - Gray Porsche Captures Surprise Victory In Sebring Race

By BEN FUNK
Associated Press Sports Writer

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — The crack Belgian-German team of Oliver Gendebien and Hans Herman drove a little silver-gray Porsche to a surprise victory Saturday night in Sebring's 12-hour sports car endurance race. The event was marred by two deaths.

Gendebien was at the wheel when the German-made car snarled in under the checkered victory flag at 10 p.m. (EST). It was the second straight Sebring triumph for the Belgian ace. He won last year with Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif., in a Ferrari.

Tragedy struck in this 10th running of the exacting race just 23 minutes after the start when a green Lotus racer plunged off a hairpin turn, killing its driver and a newspaper photographer.

Jimmy Huges of Napa, Calif., apparently suffered brake failure as he rocketed toward the turn. He veered into the escape route and crashed into George Thompson, Tampa Tribune photographer who was shooting pictures of the hurtling car. The racer flipped end over end, throwing Hughes to his death.

Two other drivers, Fred Spross of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., and John Fitch of Lime Rock, Conn., escaped unhurt after spectacular flips. Spross' car rolled three times and stopped upside down with its driver in the cockpit.

Gendebien and Hermann hung grimly around 5th place for six hours while bigger cars broke down in front of them. Then, at 6 p.m., their tough little machine moved in front of the pack to stay.

Stirling Moss of England Dan Gurney of Riverside, Calif., took the lead in a Maserati on the third lap and hurtled at record-breaking speed to a margin of more than 30 miles, only to be sidelined by a rear end breakdown four hours from the end. It was then the winning Porsche whipped to the front.

Ironically, the Porsche, independently owned by Joakim Bonnier of Sweden, earned eight points for the Porsche factory toward the world manufacturing championship after the factory team had boycotted the Sebring race because of a rhubarb over gasoline brands.

The Italian Ferrari factory team with its world famous drivers also stayed away from the race. Ferrari and Porsche have contracted to use one brand of gas and Sebring requires the drivers to use another brand.

It was a 1-2 victory for the rugged Porsche. Bob Holbert of Warrington, Pa., and Roy Schechter of Miami, Fla., came in for second place about 20 miles behind the winning car.

Chuck Daigh of Long Beach, Calif., and Ritchie Ginther of Santa Monica, Calif., drove a Ferrari in second place for seven hours, then dropped out with mechanical troubles.

John Nethercutt and Pete Lovely of Los Angeles, Calif., took third place in a Ferrari.

Name Belle, Beau At Mardi Gras Ball In Greene

ROODHOUSE — Sally McConathy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McConathy, was named Belle and Phil Hopkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hopkins, Beau of the Ball at the annual Mardi Gras held in the school gymnasium Friday night. The Mardi Gras was sponsored by the student council. Crowning the couple were the retiring Belle and Beau of the Ball, Miss Sherri Wyatt and council president, Mike Henry.

Others making up the court were Judy Baker, Mary Ann Hopkins, Kaye Shipton, Larry Hutton, Jim Knox and Lyle Winters.

The Mardi Gras motif was carried out with clowns, masks, and balloons featured in the decorations. Entertainment for the evening included charcoal sketches of the guests made by a MacMurray College senior, Miss Rose Sheeley, Jacksonville.

Refreshments of punch and cookies were served during the evening. Music for the dance was furnished by Boots Brennan's combo.

HIGH ON ROBERTSON

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Some observers have hinted openly that Cincinnati's great Oscar Robertson, all-time high career scorer of college basketball, may be a little lax on defense.

None of these observers coached teams which had to play Oscar, it might be said.

Dave Piontek of the St. Louis Hawks won't agree that Oscar has any lazy tendencies on defense.

Jackson Goes The Route In Cardinals' 3-2 Win

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — St. Louis righthander Larry Jackson today became the first major league pitcher to go nine innings this spring as the Cardinals defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 3-2 for their seventh victory in the last eight games.

Jackson scattered nine hits, walked three and fanned five. Al Dark had three singles and Clayton Dalrymple two for the Phils.

For the Cardinals, catcher Chris Cannizzaro hit two singles in three tries, giving him 11 hits in his last 18 trips.

A walk, stolen base and Dalrymple's first hit put Philadelphia ahead in the fourth. But the Cards went ahead against Jim Owens in their half on a pass ball, Bill White's first hit, an infield out and Stan Musial's singlea.

After the Redbirds loaded the bases in the fifth Daryl Spencer singled home the deciding run.

Hawks Top Lakers In Deciding Game Of Western Playoff, 97-86

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Hawks fought off a third-period rally by the game Minneapolis Lakers today and wrapped up the Western playoff championship of the National Basketball Assn. 97-86. Bob Pettit led the winners with 28 points.

Gain Revenge

It was the seventh game of the series and the Hawks left no doubt of their superiority as they gained revenge for the Lakers' playoff upset a year ago.

The victory put the Hawks into the NBA championship playoffs with the Eastern Division winners, the Boston Celtics. The opening game will be Sunday afternoon in the Boston Garden.

Baylor Scores 33

A standing room crowd of 6,195 in the Washington University Field House and a national television audience watched the Lakers' amazing iron man, Elgin Baylor, pump in 33 points in a losing cause.

The Lakers, who knocked off the Hawks in the fifth game to take a 3-2 lead, battled back to give the Hawks a scare.

Lakers Rally

With the Hawks leading 65-45 midway in the third quarter, the Lakers scrambled back to close the gap to 9 points. Rookie Rudy Larusso led the charge.

The Hawks were aggressive all the way, stealing the ball and beating the Lakers under the boards. They moved ahead for the keeps with the game 3 minutes old and led 26-19 at the end of the first quarter and 51-38 at the half.

No Jubilation Among Hawks After Victory

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Hawks waited quietly in their dressing room Saturday for Coach Easy Ed Macauley to join them after they won the western championship of the National Basketball Assn.

As he came in the door, Bob Pettit said: "We won this one for you, coach."

The players made no mention of persistent reports that Macauley will be replaced as floor boss of the Hawks by Paul Seymour and will be offered a job in the club's front office.

There was no jubilation among the Hawk players who scrambled back from near oblivion after the Lakers had taken a 3-2 lead in the best four-out-of-seven series. They beat the Lakers in Menneapolis 117-96 Thursday night and then took it all Saturday 97-86.

Hawk owner Ben Kerner spent much of his time denying reports that Macauley would be asked to resign to make room for Seymour, who resigned recently as coach of the Syracuse Nationals.

"How can I fire Ed?" Kerner asked. "He's a stockholder in the club and I'd need his vote."

The Associated Press learned from an authoritative source Friday night that Kerner already has signed Seymour as his new coach. The source told the AP that Ed would not be fired, but would simply announce his resignation and remain with the club as an administrative assistant to Kerner.

Bloodmobile To Visit Roodhouse Friday, April 1

ROODHOUSE—The Greene County Chapter of the American Red Cross has completed plans for the visit of the Bloodmobile unit in Roodhouse, Friday, April 1, between the hours of noon and six in the evening at the First Baptist Church.

Members of Roodhouse Unit Home Bureau are canvassing the city and rural areas for donors. Mrs. Dee Bell and Mrs. Grover Shipton are co-chairmen.

The Della Philathea Class of the First Baptist Church will have charge of the canteen.

Dr. F. Earl Walker is in charge of scheduling local doctors for the day. Mrs. Leroy T. Hopkins will contact nurses for assisting during the visit.

The quota for the Roodhouse-White Hall area is 250 pints.

TRAIL RIDERS MEET IN WHITE HALL

WHITE HALL—The Trail Riders Saddle Club met Tuesday night at the American Legion Home with a ham and friend chicken supper. The next meeting will be April 8 at the Legion Home in White Hall.

Mrs. George S. Book and Mrs. Bonnie Ambrose attended a bridal shower on Saturday in East Alton given by Mrs. George H. Book honoring Miss Marian Dunn, who will become the bride of Rex A. Book on April 9 in Harrisburg, Ill. Mr. Book is the grandson of Mrs. George S. Book and Mrs. Ambrose.

Bucs' 10th Straight

Pittsburgh Shades Braves In 9th, 1-0

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates won their 10th straight exhibition baseball game today, beating the Milwaukee Braves 1-0 on Dick Schofield's two-out single in the ninth.

Righthander Vernon Law went seven innings for the Pirates and allowed Milwaukee only four hits before rookie Earl Francis took over in the eighth. Francis finished the shutout job by giving but one hit and got credit for the victory.

Milwaukee hurlers Warren Spahn and Carlton Willey held the Pirates in check for eight innings, but Bob Giggie ran into trouble in the ninth.

Bill Mazeroski walked, Dick Barone was passed and Bob Oldis reached first on an error.

With the bases loaded, Francis hit to third baseman Ed Mathews who tagged Mazeroski and stepped on the sack to double Barone.

But Schofield then singled and Oldis scampered home from second with the winning tally.

Palmer Says He Played Politics To Get Position

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)— State Conservation Director Glen Palmer, charged with violation of the U.S. Hatch Act, told sportsmen Saturday he played politics to get his job and will continue playing politics.

The Hatch Act forbids political activity by persons whose employment involves activities financed in whole or in part by the federal government.

Palmer is a Republican precinct committeeman and GOP chairman in Kendall County.

"I worked like hell to get the job I got and, Hatch Act or no, I will continue playing politics," Palmer told an opening day session of the annual meeting of the Illinois Federation of Sportsmen's clubs.

The remark drew applause from the more than 200 persons attending the meeting.

Gov. William G. Stratton and the Republican state central committee have defended Palmer against a U.S. Civil Service Commission ruling that Palmer violated the act. The commission said his removal from office was warranted.

Illinois Atty. Gen. Grenville Beardsley appealed, and Palmer's case was heard in January before Judge Omer Poos of the U.S. District Court. A ruling is expected in late April.

Palmer said Saturday his $15,000-a-year salary now comes out of the state general revenue fund but that his salary until last July came from the game and fish fund, which receives federal aid funds.

If found guilty of violating the Hatch Act, Palmer said, the government could withhold $24,000 from Illinois, the equivalent of a two-year-old salary for Palmer before his salary was hiked to $15,000.

1964 WINTER GAMES WON'T BE MUCH CHEAPER

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP) — With a total expenditure of $11,500,000 announced for the 1964 Winter Olympics here, they will not be much cheaper than the 1960 games at Squaw Valley, Calif.

Costs for the 1960 games at Squaw Valley have been estimated at about 14 million dollars.

However, Squaw Valley did not have a bob run. Innsbruck will build a bob run and also a course for the new Olympic toboggan contest.

Originally costs for the 1964 games were estimated at 4½ million dollars. But the Education Ministry which is in charge soon found out this was far too little.

Top golfer Arnold Palmer's father, Deacon Palmer, also was a professional golfer around Latrobe, Pa

Toronto Squares Semifinal Series With Detroit, 4-2

TORONTO (AP) — Bob Pulford scored into an open net at 19:13 of the final period Saturday night to salt away a 4-2 Toronto victory over the Detroit Red Wings and square their Stanley Cup semifinal series at one game each.

Detroit won the first game 2-1. The Leafs had scored once in each period to lead 3-2 in the dying minutes of the game as Detroit players buzzed around the Toronto net. Then Pulford sent a long sliding puck into the vacant wing net.

Captain George Armstrong, defenseman Larry Regan and left-winger Frank Mahovlich were Leaf scorers in the hard-skating, hard-checking tussle that saw Toronto finally blunt the scoring threat of Gordie Howe.

The Detroit rightwinger was held to a single assist as Pulford was called to shadow him. Wing scorers were Pet Goegan and Alex Delvecchio.

Flying Wheels Win Wheelchair Tourney, 48-43

RANTOUL, Ill. (AP) — The California Flying Wheels won the 12th annual National Wheelchair Basketball Tournament today, defeating Long Island, N.Y., 48-43.

It was the third title won by the Long Beach team which also captured championships in 1955 and 1958. Bill Johnson led the Flying Wheels with 16 points and Bob Bagwell was tops for Long Island with 13.

Tampa defeated Brooklyn in the consolation game, 38-25, with Earl Ingram scoring 18 points for the victors. Ingram grabbed scoring honors in the tournament with a total of 47 points.

Gas Survey At Ashland To Be Started Monday

ASHLAND—Mayor Bill Quinley has been informed by Ben Noble, group superintendent of Central Illinois Public Service Co., that personnel will be in this city on Monday, March 28, to start a house-to-house gas survey in order to determine the planned usage of natural gas in residences and commercial establishments.

It is necessary for the utility company to file with the federal and state commissions the information secured by its survey, with other engineering data, in order to expedite construction of gas mains, etc., to deliver natural gas to Ashland.

Cooperation by the citizens of Ashland, when contacted by a member of the survey crew, will be greatly appreciated.

Corn Growers

Vernon L. Edwards was runner-up champion in the 1959 National Selected 5-acre DeKalb corn growing contest at a banquet held in Bloomington recently. Vernon produced a yield of 115.82 bushels per acre.

Glenn Kloker of Beardstown was named the county corn growing champion and his yield was 117.14 bushels per acre.

BARRIER TO RECORD BOOK

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—"Here comes the fellow who kept me out of the record books," chirped Ex-pitcher Lefty Gomez when ex-catcher Bill Dickey walked out on the field to take up his chores as catching and hitting coach with the New York Yankees.

Gomez was referring to the first All-Star game in 1933, in the Polo Grounds when Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants struck out Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Jimmie Foxx, Al Simmons and Joe Cronin in succession.

Dickey broke Hubbell's strikeout string when he singled over shortstop.

Then Gomez struck out, too.

Illinois Spring Football Drills Begin Monday

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Illinois spring football drills, which might more aptly be titled "Get Acquainted Time," begin tomorrow (Monday), weather and grounds permitting.

New to the Illini varsity football scene are the usual crop of aspiring freshmen and Coach Pete Elliott and five of his assistants from California.

"We have two main objectives," Elliott says. "As always in the spring, we hope to help each individual improve as much as possible. Also, we coaches must learn more about our personnel and they must learn more about our system so that we will not lose time in the fall."

Several lettermen and returning squad members will miss spring practice. Halfbacks Ethan Blackaby and Gary Kolb and quarterback Russ Martin are with the baseball squad. Captain and fullback Bill Brown will divide time between football and track, where he is a shot putter. Tackle Pat Murphy has had a knee operation, and center John Stapleton has a knee injury which still may require an operation.

"Because we don't know much about the personnel, we don't plan any drastic position changes now," Elliott said. "I can't say at this time whether some might come later."

Elliott does have some personnel problems, particularly at end, which was weakest spot on the 1959 club.

Jerry Patrick, Bruce Beckmann, and Bob Hickey have been lost from the position by graduation, and Jerry Wood is limited to kicking chores, making the situation even more acute.

With Stapleton's inability to participate in spring drills, center too may cause some headaches. Only returnees with experience commanding letters are Tony Parrilli and Stan Yukevich. Dave Ash, who handled much of the work in 1959, is gone.

After first week, squad will confine practice to Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

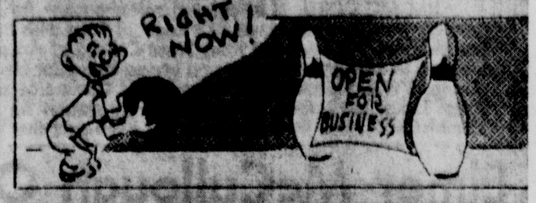
"BOWLING CENTER PROPRIETOR

AL MILLER

WHILE ESTABLISHED IN THE "PIN" BUSINESS IS PROBABLY KNOWN MORE READILY BY LOCAL SPORTS FANS AS THE FORMER I.C. COACH 1946 - 1956.

AL, PRIOR TO HIS TENURE AT "THE HILL", WAS AN ALL-STATE HALFBACK FOR WESTVILLE HIGH IN 1930 - STARRED AT MILLIKIN AND WAS IN PRO-BALL BRIEFLY. HE IS AN EXPERT AT HANDBALL!



AFTER GIVING IT THE OLD TRY AT RUNNING A SPORTS GOODS STORE, AL SEEMS TO HAVE HIT HIS STRIDE IN THIS BOWLING OPERATION. BESIDES ADULT LEAGUE AND OPEN LINE BOWLING, HIS YOUTH LEAGUES FOR HIGH SCHOOL AND GRADE SCHOOL YOUNGSTERS ARE A BIG HIT!

Jerry Maintains Desoto Open Lead

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—Shooting a two-under par 69 for his third straight sub-par round, little Jerry Barber clung tenaciously to his two-stroke lead at the three-quarter mark of the $40,000 Desoto Lakes Open Golf Tournament Saturday with a total of 206.

Breathing down his neck were Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., who matched Barber's 69 Saturday for a 208 total, and the always dangerous Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., who leaped into a tie with Sanders for the runner-up spot with a sparkling 67, the best round of the day.

Just one stroke behind them were National Open Champion Billy Casper of Apple Valley, Calif., and Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., who carded 68 and 69, respectively for their third round.

Twelve players were even par or better for the three rounds, and 61 made the cut for the final 18 holes Sunday. A score of 223 made the grade.

Columbus Lead To Louise Suggs

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — Fighting the sniffles of hay fever between every shot, Louise Suggs fired a par 72 Saturday and took the lead after three rounds of the Columbus Women's Open Golf Tournament.

The swinger from Atlanta knocked in two birdie putts to offset one double-bogey and matched par on the other 15 holes in steady, down-the-middle golf. Miss Suggs carries a 223 total in Sunday's final round of this $8,000, 72-hole event.

Joyce Ziske of Milwaukee, tied for the midway lead with Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill., took a 75 and dropped to second at 224. Miss Berg played erratically, took a penalty stroke on one hole when she called her ball unplayable and soared to an 81. That dropped her from a tie for first into a tie for seventh 230.

Mary Lena Faulk of Sea Island, Ga., scored a scrambling 76 and held third spot at 226. Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay, made up ground with a 74 and advanced to fourth at 227.

Par for the 6,557-yard Columbus Country Club course is 36-36—72.

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP)— Tom Schwalbach, star Northern Michigan College halfback, said Saturday he signed a contract with the Boston Patriots of the American Football League.

Thwaites Takes 3rd Round Lead In Gulf Tourney

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP)—Square-shouldered Vernon Thwaites guided his torrid putter to a 5-under-par 66 Saturday and took the third round lead in the $5,000 Gulf Coast Invitational Golf Tournament.

Thwaites, a 36-year-old Knoxville, Tenn., native, now a professional at a Covington, La., country club, showed a card of 67-71-66—204 at the end of 54 holes.

Traffic was pretty congested at the top with four professionals tied for the runner-up spot at 206, including second-round leader Lee Mackey Jr., of Birmingham, Ala.

Mackey matched par 71 over the Great Southern Country Club's 6,003-yard course Saturday to drop from the lead he held at Friday's halfway point.

The 18-hole final round is on tap Sunday with an $800 check awaiting the winning professional.

Those tied with Mackey for the No. 2 spot included Buster Cupit of Ft. Smith, Ark., R. L. Miller of Waycross, Ga., and Dick Cline of West Point, Ga.

Plichta Garners Third Place In ABC Tourney

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Vernon Plichta of Muskegon, Mich., moved into third place in the singles division of the 57th American Bowling Congress Tournament Saturday with a 693 series.

The 30-year-old motor assembler had a good shot at first place after opening with games of 255 and 226, but he subsided to 212 in the third and final game.

Paul Kulbaga of Cleveland continues to dominate the singles with the 726 he rolled Thursday.

Dick Downey, Newark, N.J., tied for sixth place in the singles with 235-223-225—683.

JOCKEY CRITICALLY ILL

AINTREE, England (AP)— Jockey Ron Singer, who was thrown during a race here Friday, was reported critically ill with head injuries Saturday.

The 19-year-old jockey fell from Cross Bill at the start of the Liverpool Spring Cup Handicap, a flat race. He remounted but fell off again halfway around the course.

Bob Cousey of the Boston Celtics has been chosen the National Basketball Assn.'s most valuable player three times.

Alston Expects His Dodgers To Be Even Better Than In '59

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) —Walter Alston expects his Los Angeles Dodgers, hardened in the fire of a tough pennant race, playoff and World Series, to be even better than last year's world champions.

"Kids like Don Demeter, Johnny Roseboro, Maury Wills, Larry Sherry and even an older fellow like Charlie Neal have been helped by the pressure of a series. This time we will have men like Sherry, Wills and Roger Craig from the start, plus another year of experience for Demeter and Roseboro.

"I don't know if we can win. We had a lot of things going for us last year. We were able to maneuver to keep the hot bat in the lineup."

Alston squeezed the maximum out of his entire 25-man club. He had men like Gil Hodges, Norm Larker, Junior Gilliam, and Neal who would play two or three different positions. When a player didn't hit a certain pitcher, he was able to replace him.

Sherry, of course, was the big man for the Dodgers in the playoff and again in the World Series, coming from the bull pen to appear in four games. Because Sherry wants to be a starter, Alston is giving him his chance.

A fine spring comeback by Ed Roebuck who had an 11-0 record in winter ball in the Dominican Republic, might permit Sherry to toy with starting for a time. Eventually, he probably will be needed back in the bull pen.

Alston has Don Drysdale (17-13), Johnny Podres (14-9), Sandy Koufax (8-6), Craig (11-5), Danny McDevitt (10-8) and Stan Williams (5-5) for starting before Sherry (7-2). If Roebuck (13-10) at St. Paul, Johnny Klippstein (4-0) and Clem Labine (5-10) can handle the relief, Sherry might remain on the starting line.

Frank Howard, the big first baseman-outfielder, probably will go back to the minors for more seasoning, Hodges (.276) is in charge at first with Neal (.287) at second and Gilliam (.282) at third. Wills (.260) is the shortstop but he is getting tough competition from Bobby Lillies (.286 at Spokane) and Don Zimmer (.165). Larker (.289) is the extra first baseman and sub outfielder.

Wally Moon (.302) will be in left, Demeter (.256) in center and Duke Snider (.308) in right, backed up by Carl Furillo (.290), Chuck Essegian (.247) and Rip Repulski (.255).

Roseboro (232) will be the No. 1 catcher with Joe Pignatano (.237) his partner.

The Dodgers handled Milwaukee and San Francisco without too much trouble last year.

Does Alston expect to have any new problems with Milwaukee, now that Chuck Dressen, his former coach, is managing the Braves?

"I worry more about Hank Aaron and Eddie Mathews than a guy sitting on the bench," said Alston.

NAME CORCORAN OUTSTANDING

CHICAGO (AP) — Fred J. Corcoran, 55, one of professional golf's most prominent behind-the-scenes men, Saturday was named winner of the William D. Richardson Trophy for outstanding contribution to the game of golf.

The trophy is presented annually by the Golf Writers' Assn. of America.

Corcoran is tournament director for the International Golf Assn., and business manager for the Ladies' Professional Golf Assn.

Corcoran won out with 343 voting points to 226 for Walter Hagen and 209 for Joseph C. Dey Jr., executive director of the U.S. Golf Assn.

Fleck Playing Some Very Good Golf This Year-Five Years Late

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — There's a tall, pleasant-mannered guy playing some very good golf on the winter circuit this year—five years late.

He is Jack Fleck, the unknown whose defeat of Ben Hogan in the 1955 National Open championship must rank as one of the great upsets of sports' history.

Fleck then retreated into obscurity, largely of his own making. He believed the tall stories about the sudden riches that go with winning the Open and they didn't come true. He had to take a longer, slower road toward establishing himself as something more than the obscure Davenport, Iowa, municipal course pro he was when he beat Hogan.

Now, at 38, his confidence restored, his game sharpened by experience and with a position that gives him time for tournament play, he is having the best year of his career.

After 11 tournaments on the 1960 pro circuit, Fleck is second in total money winnings with $13,300. He has won one tournament, lost a sudden death playoff for a second title and has been in the money in eight of the tourneys he has played.

Fleck's story is a familiar one of the caddie who worked his way up to a pro golf job. He was promanager of two municipal courses in Davenport when he went to San Francisco for the 1955 Open — a trip made possible because his wife ran the pro shop for him for a week.

Seeking to cash in on his victory over Hogan, Fleck placed too high a value on his services for exhibitions and personal appearances and he avoided unpaid interviews that could have kept his name in the headlines. A year passed, a new Open champion had been crowned and Jack still wasn't rich.

In 1956 he took over a course in Rochester, Mich., and spent a lot of time restoring it. When he could get away for three or four tournaments in a row, he usually finished in the first 10.

He felt he had more talent than most tournament players but just didn't have time to develop a winning touch. Last year, with more time to play after taking a post with a California club, Fleck began to show some of that talent.

And on Feb. 15 of this year he won his first tournament since 1955, the Phoenix Open. Last Monday he lost a playoff in the St. Petersburg Open.

Yes You Will $115,400 Winner

BOWIE, Md. (AP) — Yes You Will, a home-grown thoroughbred born on the wrong side of the tracks, outran three highly rated tourists Saturday in Maryland's richest handicap, the $115,400 Campbell.

The 4-year-old bay colt belonging to Mrs. Edith L. Price, a restaurant owner near Maryland's half-mile Timonium Track, zoomed to the front three quarters of a mile from the finish and was an easy winner by a length and a quarter.

Behind him was Llangollen Farm's Restless Wind, Mrs. Tilyou Christopher's Amerigo and Calumet Farm's On and On.

The crowd of 20,376 had trouble deciding which of the three to make the favorite and settled on Amerigo.

Yes You Will paid $20.40, $8.80 and $4.80 in the $2 windows. Restless Wind paid $5.80 and $3.40 and Amerigo $2.60.

SENIORS CHAMPION

ST. ANGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — Egon Quittner of Philadelphia won the American Seniors Golf Assn. Tourney Saturday by ousting J. Walcott Brown of Seagirt, N. J., 2-up.

Quittner was even for the entire round with 71 over the 6,300-yard Ponce de Leon course. Brown was out in 36 and back in 37.

Rookie pitcher Vic Davis of the San Francisco Giants averaged 20 strikeouts per game as a senior at Bladenboro, N. C., High School.

Steeplechase Won By Merryman

By JOHN FARROW
Associated Press Sports Writer

AINTREE, England (AP) — Merryman II, a former hunter in Scotland who recovered from a mystery ailment a few weeks ago, won the controversy-riddled Grand National Steeplechase Saturday in which only eight of the 26 horses finished and one was killed.

With British Home Secretary R. A. Butler on hand as an observer because of anti-National demonstrators who have charged cruelty to horses, Merryman took the lead eight jumps from home in the 30-obstacle course and won by 15 lengths over Badanloch. The latter went ahead again, but Merryman took a clear lead three fences from the finish.

Third to finish in the 4½ miles race, called the world's toughest, was Clear Profit, 12 lengths behind Badanloch. Officials later reported that Belsize II, a 66-1 shot, crashed into the 15th fence. He broke a leg and was destroyed. Belsize was riderless at the time, having thrown his jockey at an earlier fence.

His death is likely to bring new protests and demands for changes in the 123-year-old National, although officials of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals said they thought the race was run "at a reasonable pace."

Millions of television viewers through England and Europe saw the race for the first time. There was no royalty on hand this year to watch the race.

Jockey Gerry Scott on Merryman said that Aintree officials warned jockeys before the race to use their heads and not cause crowding at the fences. He disclosed he rode despite a double fracture of the collarbone.

Butler attended as an observer because of protests over the 17 horses killed in the Grand National since 1954. A year ago, two were killed and only four of 34 starters finished the gruelling race.

Merryman II, a 13-2 betting favorite, is owned by Miss W. H. S. Wallace. The victory was worth $36,775 to Miss Wallace.

NFL MEETS TO DECIDE TV FATE

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League meets in Chicago Tuesday to decide, among other things, whether to follow the television lead of the upstart American Football League.

For years the NFL's individual teams, rather than the league, have dealt independently with the Columbia Broadcasting System, the televising network.

Now CBS wants to buy all regular season games in one big package from the league.

'Founder's Day' Theme Of Winchester P.T.A. Meeting

By Dorothy Sauer
(Winchester Correspondent)
(Telephone Pioneer 2-3439)

WINCHESTER — The combined February and March meeting of the Winchester Grade PTA was held on Thursday evening in the new gymnasium of the school with Pete Spangler, president, presiding. Minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Allen McCullough, Jr., and the treasurer's report, read by Mrs. Robert Reid, showed a balance of $911.94 in the treasury. Mrs. Ruth Campbell, first grade teacher, was selected to receive the life membership in the PTA.

Nominations were made from the floor for a nominating committee to select 1960-61 officers. This committee consists of Mrs. Richard J. Coultas, Mrs. George Lashmett and Mrs. Murl Dolen.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Spangler were chosen as delegates to attend the PTA State Convention being held in Peoria on April 21, 22, and 23. The room count tally showed Mrs. Randall Killebrew's sixth grade room as receiving the high count for the upper grades and Mrs. Ruth Campbell's first grade room the high count for the lower grades.

Mrs. Killebrew's sixth grade class, under the direction of the vocal instructor, Mrs. Charlotte Heaton, sang several selections to the group present as did the seventh and eighth grade girl's glee club members.

Miss Marianne Schmaltz, art teacher, explained to the parents the art program in the grade school. She showed examples of some of the things the children had done in their art classes which included floor plans, Christmas decorations, mobiles, and drawings.

Mrs. George Lashmett was in charge of the Founder's Day Program that had been scheduled for the February meeting with the theme of "Those Who Came Before Us." Mrs. Jesse Saffer spoke of the beginning of the Winchester PTA in 1936. She read some of the minutes that had been written in that first year of organization. The past presidents of the local PTA were invited to the meeting. Only one, Mrs. Lennis Williams, was able to attend and speak to those present. Mrs. B. F. Walker and Mrs. W. E. Harper, both past presidents, who were unable to attend, wrote letters which were read by the program chairman, Mrs. Lashmett.

The next meeting, in April, will be in charge of William Lashmett who will explain the physical education program in the school.

Men's Fellowship

Approximately 93 were in attendance at the annual meeting of the West Central District of the Christian Men's Fellowship organization held on Thursday evening at the Winchester Christian church. The meeting was opened with a 6:30 o'clock dinner served by the CWF ladies of the church. Guest speaker was Jack Sutton from Indianapolis, Ind., who is head of the Department of Men's Work. Mr. Sutton's very inspirational talk was entitled "The Four Witnesses." He challenged the men to examine their lives as Christians and to improve them. The four points of his sermon were "The Glorying Witness," "The Silent Witness," "The Lying Witness" and "The Living Witness."

Clayton Orril, president of the district, presided over the evenings meeting. Guests present included Russell McKee of Washburn, Ill., president of the State Christian Men's Fellowship; Rev. Thomas E. Morton, associate general secretary of the Illinois Disciples of Christ of Bloomington, Ill.; and Rev. Charles Day, president of the state convention of the Illinois Disciples of Christ.

Letter Awards

Friday afternoon at the Winchester High school assembly program varsity basketball letters were awarded by Coach Jack Renfro to the following players: Gary Coultas, Les Watt, Tom Steelman, Tom Flynn, Bill Robinson, Eddie Dolen, John Schofield, Bill Brockhouse, Eddie Brown, and David Slagle (manager.)

Tom Flynn was voted the most valuable player and captain for the year by the varsity letter winners. He was presented with a silver basketball for the best free throw percentage, 69%, of the season. Tom Steelman was second highest with 59% and Gary Coultas third with 54%. Tom Flynn was also honored recently by the Chicago Daily American newspaper by being named a member of the West-Central Illinois High School Basketball first team.

Gary Coultas, a varsity player, presented the Illinois Valley Conference second place trophy to Russell Wilson, principal, and to the student body of the school. The junior varsity squad, coached by Jerry Alberts, was third place winner in the Freshman-Sophomore Conference Tournament this season.

Evangelism Services

A special evangelistic meeting is being held at the First Baptist Church in Winchester commencing today and continuing through April 3 with the exception of Saturday night. Rev. L. E. Olson, pastor of the First Baptist church in Jacksonville, will be the guest speaker each evening. Rev. Lane, pastor of the First Baptist church in Jerseyville, will serve as song leader. Services each evening will commence at 7:30 p.m.

Cottage prayer meetings will be held each morning this coming week in several homes. These prayer meetings are held each morning from 9:30 till 10: a.m. The town has been divided into two sections, the North and the South, and each member of the church is free to attend at the home he or she choses.

They were held all this past week also with this coming week being the concluding one for the prayer services. Commencing on Monday, March 28, those wishing to attend the one in North Winchester will go to the home of Dr. W. E. Harper with Mrs. Evelyn Longenbaugh as leader; Tuesday, March 29, to the Richard Blackburn home with Mrs. Ray Cherry as leader; March 30 to the Rev. F. V. Wright home with Mrs. Dale Bradshaw as leader; March 31 to the L. A. Watt home with Mrs. Watson Taylor as leader.

In South Winchester the Monday morning prayer service will be held at the home of Mrs. Court McLaughlin with Mrs. Ralph Peak as leader; March 29 at the Jesse Overton home with Mrs. Olin Clark as leader; March 30 to the Mrs. Daisy Montgomery home with Miss Ruth Reeder as leader; March 31 to the Mrs. Georgia Smith home with Mrs. Oscar Grindheim as leader.

On April 1, the last morning cottage prayer service will be held at the church, 9:30 to 10 a.m., with the pastor, Rev. Grindheim, as leader.

All members are invited to attend both the services and the cottage prayer meetings.

Benefit Party

The Benefit Party sponsored by the Winchester American Legion Post held this Thursday evening was pronounced a success in spite of the many varied activities being held in the city on the same evening. Denton Coonrod, Commander, has announced that as of Saturday approximately $60 was grossed. All profits will be turned over equally to the Red Cross, Salvation Army and Heart Fund accounts in the county.

Rural Carrier

Harry Gidney, retiring rural mail carrier out of the Winchester Post Office, was honored this past Thursday evening at a 6:30 o'clock dinner at the Hotel Winchester by his fellow postal employees.

Richard Lashmet, postmaster, served as master of ceremonies and presented Mr. Gidney with a portable radio as a gift from his fellow employees.

Mr. Gidney has served as rural carrier on route 2 out of Winchester for the past twenty years. He will be replaced this coming Friday, April 1, by Hal McLaughlin who is now city carrier. Replacing Mr. McLaughlin will be Maurice Funk, former substitute clerk. Herb Leib will take over the duties as substitute clerk in the Post Office.

Present for the dinner were Dick Lashmet, Thurman Coughlin, Glenn Graybael, Maurice Funk, Herb Leib, Otto Henry, Jack Smith, Carl E. Evans, Martin Turner, Hal McLaughlin, Herman Weder, Roy Weder and the guest of honor, Mr. Gidney.

WWI Barracks

The 1960 officers will have charge of the regular meeting of the WWI Barracks and Auxiliary meeting to be held this Monday, March 28, in the Legion Hall. The meeting will commence with a 6:30 o'clock potluck. It is hoped that a large crowd will be in attendance.

Police Arrest Two After Chase North Of Town

Two local youths were apprehended Saturday night when their car ran off the road while fleeing police officers. The youths were lodged in the city jail pending further investigation. Police are still seeking a third member of the group.

Police officers said the chase started late Saturday night at the intersection of North Clay and East Independence when the car driven by one of the boys drove through the intersection at a high rate of speed. The officers followed and the youth attempted to outrun the police car.

The officers pursued the pair for some distance until their auto skidded on a wet country road. The auto was damaged and had to be towed back to town by Brummetts wrecker.

The youths were charged with reckless driving, no valid driver's license and disorderly conduct.

League Invites Public To Hear Candidates

The League of Women Voters is holding a candidates' meeting this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Dunlap hotel, Mrs. Nell Self Wandell will preside and introduce the candidates.

Mrs. Robert Brand, Voters' Service chairman of the League, and her committee sent invitations to candidates of both parties for congress, the general assembly, and for county offices of states's attorney, circuit clerk, coroner, and county commissioner.

There are a number of contests in the primary, April 12, in both parties.

The League has planned this meeting as a service to the voters, giving them an opportunity to meet and hear the candidates discuss their qualifications for the office which they seek.

Dads vs Sons Games At Our Saviour's April 3

The fourth annual Father versus Son basketball game at Our Saviour's school will be played this year Sunday afternoon, April 3 in the school gym. The hilarious entertainment will provide funds for the school's athletic fund. The time is 2:30 p.m. and all students have tickets to sell. They may also be obtained at the door. Price is fifty cents for adults and all grade students and pre-school age kiddies 15 cents.

As always the game promises plenty of laughs. Most of the Dads were Routt basketball players in their student days and the heads of the families are eagerly anticipating showing their sons "how the game really should be played." The boys have won two of the previous games and the Dads one so the Fathers will be out to even the count.

"Mom" Cheerleaders

The cheer leading sections will be a large portion of the entertainment for the afternoon. Moms will be dressed in costumes to cheer the Dads team and the regular student cheerleaders will lead the yells for the student team.

Coach Barney Ferry's allegiance is divided—his son being on the team, he is eligible to play with the Fathers. Being 6 foot 3 inches tall he is just what the Fathers need under the basket, but the boys want him on their bench. Barney hasn't declared where he will be but game time will tell.

The students will be outclassed in height but they are counting on their more recent experience to balance the deficit.

Only Athletic Benefit

The Father vs Son game each year is the only event that benefits the school athletic fund. This fund supplies equipment, uniforms and expenses needed for football, basketball and baseball teams for the upper grades. The money is also needed for playground equipment such as balls, bats, playground balls and jumping ropes for all grades.

Everyone Invited

The entire community is invited to the game and the support will be appreciated. Father John Kennedy is in charge of grade school athletics and this project.

Families helping with the game are: Leo Bahans, Charles Blesses, Eleanor Burns, Kenneth Cannons, Robert Colemans, Walter Gilmores.

Frank Kaufmanns, Edward Maurers, Charles Russells, Francis Shanahans, Jack Yordings.

Robert Cisnes, Robert Drakes, George Ecks, Phillis Hawks, Floyd Hepworths, Bill Imbodens.

Mrs. Robert G. Werries

Marilyn Tegeder, Robert Werries Exchange Vows At Arenzville Church

Arenzville—An afternoon ceremony at four o'clock Sunday, March twenty, at Trinity Lutheran church united in marriage Miss Marilyn Marie Tegeder of Arenzville and Robert G. Werries of Meredosia.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Roland Welch. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Tegeder and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Werries, Meredosia.

Two large baskets of white chrysanthemums and glads adorned the altar of the church along with palms and tapers burning in candelabra. Before the ceremony nuptial selections were played at the organ by Robert Wessler who accompanied the soloist, Wayne Strubbe for the numbers "Today O Lord" and "O Father Art Creating." The processional was "Jesu, Joy of Men's Desiring" and the recessional, "Trumpet Tune."

The bride was attended by her sister, Shirley Ann and Eldred Ehlert of Meredosia was best man. Ushers were Glen Aihorn, Meredosia and James Davis, Rushville, brother-in-law of the bride.

The bride wore a lovely gown of chantilly lace over bridal satin with sweeping train at the back. The dress was designed with snug bodice featuring Sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion fell from a crown headdress of nylon net trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white glamellias, ivy and stephanotis.

Miss Shirley Ann Tegeder wore aqua nylon chiffon ballerina length with scooped neckline, wrapped midriff and a full skirt. Her headband was of aqua net and nylon chiffon with a bow on a clip affixed with small nosevell. She wore pink mitts to carry a cascade of pink glamellias.

The bride's mother wore a navy costume with matching accessories. The groom's mother also chose navy with blending accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white chrysanthemums.

Reception Follows

A reception was held in the auditorium of the church following the ceremony. At the bride's table were lighted tapers and four tiered cake topped with miniature wedding bells and at the base greenery with white pompoms.

Guests were served cake, fruit punch, nutmeats and mints. Mrs. James Davis, sister of the bride, cut and served cake; Miss Mardell Tegeder, sister of the bride, presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. John Wendorf and Mrs. Richard Gotshall, cousins of the bride, assisted with serving.

The gift table was decorated in aqua and white. Mrs. Richard Lippert, Mrs. Larry Noble were in charge. Miss Wilma Ommen registered guests. Others assisting at the reception were Mrs. Carl Tiemann, Mrs. Marvin Ommen, Mrs. E. J. Korsmeyer and Mrs. Herschel Staake.

When the couple left on a honeymoon the bride was wearing an olive green and beige plaid walking costume with matching accessories and the corsage taken from her wedding bouquet. They will make their home on a farm three miles east of Arenzville.

The bride attended Arenzville schools, graduating from high school in 1956 and last March from Western Illinois University. The groom graduated in 1951 from Meredosia high school, served two years military duty and is engaged in farming.

Guests attended from Iowa, Missouri, California, Springfield, Meredosia, Jacksonville, Chapin, Beardstown, Macomb, Rushville, New Canton, Chambersourg, Ashland, Quincy, Bluffs, Winchester, Peoria and Champaign, Ill.

Nortonville 4-H Ag Club Has Box Social Saturday

The Nortonville 4-H Ag Club met recently at the home of Harry Whitlock with eight members and seven guests present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mildred Bryant. The pledge was led by Mary Stainer and roll call was answered by favorite colors.

Harry Witlock gave a talk on gardening and Joe DeOrnellas gave a demonstration on first aid. A box social was planned at the business meeting. After the meeting was adjourned Mrs. Witlock served refreshments. Brenda Witlock played several piano selections on the piano.

The box social was held Saturday night at the Nortonville hall. Attendance was good despite the wheather. Auctioneer LeRoy Moss of Woodson auctioned the many pretty boxes. The bidding was spirited and generous.

The prize for the prettiest box went to Mrs. Bonnie Orris. The 4-H club presented a musical program and visiting closed the evening.

Fact And Fiction

"He is certainly a wonder," the man wrote. "I wish we could make him president of the United States. There could not be a better one."

Who wrote it? The young Franklin D. Roosevelt. Of whom did he speak? Herbert Hoover. The time was 1920, a dozen years before Roosevelt was to oppose Hoover for the presidency.

The point of this is to remind us how large a role the myth plays in American politics. In many quarters today the name of Hoover evokes only his identity with the years of the Depression. The image is painted mostly in dark tones.

Yet Hoover at the close of World War I was a national hero, the humanitarian who fed a starving Europe. He served effectively in Republican administrations of the 1920s, remaining free of the scandals that marred the Harding regime. At the time of his election to the White House in 1928, his prestige was huge and his popularity broad.

Myths persist, too, about such figures as Woodrow Wilson. As historians like Richard Hofstadter have noted, he was basically far more conservative than he is generally remembered today. Furthermore, he is most often thought of as a rather stiff, straight-laced academic type. In fact, after F.D.R. he probably ranks as the best political orator in 20th century U.S.

Not always are the myths large. Sometimes they are mere fragments. Yet their constant repetition has woven them into our historical fabric so that for millions of us history is a tantalizing blend of fact and fancy.

Some myths begin with forgetfulness of the full story, as in Hoover's case. Others start from accidental or conscious misjudgments which take hold and gain currency.

In 1956 Sen. Estes Kefauver upset Adlai Stevenson in the Minnesota presidential primary. Embarrassed organization leaders blamed it on "Republican crossovers," GOP voters allegedly bent on embarrassing Stevenson. Careful study of the returns area by area showed the notion had no basis whatsoever in fact. Still, it crops up from time to time as if it were the gospel.

Most historians probably would argue that this mixing of fact and myth is inevitable, that it is their job to try and sort out the two.

It nevertheless is clear that a good deal of the myth content results from the most arrant carelessness. There is no sane reason why, through either accident or intent, we should amplify and perpetuate the misreading of men and events when genuine attention to the facts would establish at least the approximate truth.

Symbol Of Change—

Only some 15 years have flowed under the bridge of time since Hitler and his Nazi ideology was crushed, but West Germany and its leaders continue every evidence of subscribing to the West's democratic way of life.

The latest note of this sort was approval by Bonn for screening in Germany of "Tomorrow the World," an American film made during World War II to dramatize the victory of democratic ideas over Nazism.

Fifteen years is but a moment in history and many of the film's viewers will be adults who in 1945 were the core of Hitler's Youth Movement, around which the film evolves. Decision to show a film which depicts Germany's shameful period under Nazism requires courage and a resolve to place Germany squarely in the community of democratic nations.

It is hoped that the film's antidiscrimination message will prove a strong deterrent to any more swastika outbreaks such as recently plagued Germany.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The buses ran on time. The children recited their lessons in the classrooms. There was no shock at all when Sen. Stuart Symington said he wanted to be president.

The only thing new about it—even though he said it before a jampacked crowd in the Senate's caucus room—was that he finally got around to saying it publicly.

Still, it raised at least one question: How does a man finally get around to announcing he'd like to be the Democratic candidate for the White House?

First, you beat the bushes, as Symington did. This slim, well-dressed, 58-year-old onetime manufacturer had been running around for weeks, making speeches, shaking hands, looking for support, sizing up his chances.

Then you look at the clock. Here it is, near the end of March, and the Democratic National Convention is in July. Not much sense in waiting longer.

Next, you look around to see how goes it with those others who weeks ago removed the modesty veil and frankly said they'd like the Democratic nomination: Sens. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota.

If there's anything to be gained from an early start—and that's questionable—Kennedy has it. As of now he looks like the front-runner, with Humphrey trailing.

There is the possibility that Kennedy will get up so much momentum nothing can stop him. Symington doesn't want that. Put all the reasons together and you have a good explanation of why Symington announced Thursday.

But Symington denied he was acting now because his advisers were afraid of too big a lead for Kennedy. Instead, he said, he was getting into the race openly because his well-wishers wanted him to.

Symington let it be known on Wednesday he'd speak his piece Thursday.

The big caucus room was loaded with his friends, members of his family, newsmen, big lights, photographers, and even a couple of busloads of Missouri schoolchildren who said they happened to be in town for a few days.

The newsmen's questions were neither very penetrating nor very irritating. The well-heeled Symington, who made a point of saying he doesn't have much money, fielded their bunts easily.

Still, the whole show was pretty flat.

He didn't say anything to set the soul afire. But neither, for that matter, have Kennedy, Humphrey or Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who seems to have the Republican nomination safe in his refrigerator.

There just haven't been any emotional blazes so far in the presidential race. And if what's happened so far is a foretaste of the fall campaign, it's likely to be deep on the dull side.

When asked how he felt about taking on Nixon in the presidential race, Symington instantly responded with what has become a Democratic party cliche for all candidates: "I think any good Democrat could beat him."

All in all, in a town which has seen many a man reach for the moon, Symington's public plunge into the big-time political stream hardly quickened any pulses. For that matter, what politician has so far in 1960?

Private Museum Provides Fun, Retirement Income

BY MARIE DAERR

For Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Cloyd, a 7-year stay in Europe where Cloyd was employed as an engineer, paid extra dividends.

Last May the Cloyds, in the United States once more, opened their European Antiques Museum at Michigan City, Ind.

"Our museum started by accident," Mrs. Cloud explained. "Overseas, we had made a practice of picking up items of rare beauty and historical interest.

"When shipments began arriving at our Michigan City home, we found we weren't the only ones interested in European antiques.

"Home began to seem like Grand Central Station. People came to visit, oh'd and ah'd, and sent their friends.

"Furniture lovers came to see intricate carving. I found myself playing music boxes at all hours.

"From these experiences, we decided it wouldn't be a bad idea to open a museum. Such a project might even provide us with a modest income after my husband retired."

"Our season is March 15 through Nov. 15. Hours are 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. We charge 75 cents for adults, 45 for children. There is a restaurant, 1,500 feet from the museum, which is happy to arrange breakfasts, luncheons and dinners for groups.'

Until her husband retires in about a year, Mrs. Cloyd is the museum's full-time director and guide.

Among the museum treasures which delight visitors are a coin-operated, weight-driven orchestrion (a large music box like a barrel organ), 17th, 18th and 19th century peasant and knitting chairs and 17th century copper utensils, each with its hand-wrought iron fireplace holder.

Shown are fine examples of Dresden ware. Swiss, German and French music boxes vie with rare old prints and plates. Original designs for Gothic architecture and old world wrought-iron signs of the trades are on display.

Rare covered cups and a Bohemian street organ intrigue visitors, along with drinking horns and a French hand organ with animated monkey figures in Empire dress.

"Many times in Europe we were put on our own in museums, cathedrals and castles," said Mrs. Cloyd. "Thus we didn't learn as much as we hoped. We give everyone a guided tour.

"We won't get rich with our project, but we hope to meet expenses. And we're making friends and having fun!"

Inflation Even Gives Time-worn Cliches False Ring; Civil Rights Filibuster 'a Breeze' for Tired Senator

BY JERRY BENNETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Inflation signs of the times:

Sen. Majority Whip Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) walked up to Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) and said, "Joe, you look like a million bucks."

O'Mahoney replied, "You mean like a million dollars used to look."

Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho) attributes his hale and hearty appearance these days to the recent civil rights filibuster. He says that being on call 24 hours a day for debates didn't tire him one bit. The senator explains:

"Since I couldn't make any social engagements, I got to bed early. Also I had plenty of time for workouts in the Senate gym. And I was able to take naps in the afternoon. Actually, I don't know when I have felt more rested."

Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) doesn't think the accusation about old fogies running the Republican party is true. He explains that they have been replaced by young fogies.

A newsman kept getting a peculiar buzzing sound when he tried to call the State Department. Finally he dialed the operator and asked her to try the number. He was flabbergasted to hear, "I'm sorry. But that number has been temporarily disconnected."

Turned out though that the State Department was not behind in paying its phone bill. What the operator mistook for a disconnection was only a simple mechanical failure that was straightened out.

Rep. Alfred E. Santangelo (D-N.Y.) is one congressman who likes to make extra sure that a constituent never feels ignored. Recently he attended a cocktail party for lovely Anne Purves, the Sterling Forest Gardens flower queen, who hails from his district.

Upon arriving, the congressman hollered, "Where is she?" Then he strode across the room and gave her a big kiss on the cheek.

Hollywood director William Wyler described at a National Press Club luncheon how he made the movie "Ben Hur." When a newsman asked if any actors were hurt during filming of the violent chariot race, Wyler cracked:

"We had no major fatalities."

Statement made by a space scientist at a cocktail party:

"It's impossible to make a good mixed drink by stirring it with a spoon. First you should pour the various ingredients into a large tumbler. Then drop in one piece of ice. Wave the glass around so that the liquor starts swishing counterclockwise. When the ice cube has made 10 complete orbits, you have achieved a perfect blend."

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

Bible Lands Today

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The announcement that a group of Roman Catholic clergymen, including three cardinals, will celebrate the 19th centenary of the shipwreck of the Apostle Paul in the year 60 A.D. by a service at the Isle of Malta, emphasizes what I have often noted in this column linking regions and events of today with their counterparts in Biblical records.

The famous shipwreck, of which the story is so vividly told in Acts 27, has moral and spiritual aspects beyond the thrilling incidents of the disaster. It stands as the record of how a Jew, a Christian, not noted for his physical presence (II Cor. 10:10) or even his eloquence, in time of crisis dominated the situation. The Roman commander in charge of prisoners, and the captain of the ship, both had to bow to Paul's will as Paul himself bowed only to what he believed to be the will of God.

The story of the shipwreck is outstanding as a vivid narrative, and I believe that navigators regard it as one of the most valuable sources of knowledge of ancient navigation. It is a supreme example, too, of the power of moral and spiritual authority.

I wish that Protestants also would be represented in the Malta celebrations but, failing that, it is pleasant to note that Cardinal Spellman plans to be there and that Bishop Fulton J. Sheen has been invited to preach on St. Paul. There could be no better choice.

There is a great deal more that is worthy of celebration in the Bible lands. It would be a great triumph if the spirit, events, experiences and teachings of the Bible could be brought to bear on events and experiences in Bible lands today.

It is sad to note how much interreligious, interracial, and sectional prejudice, and persecution continue today, even after 19 centuries of the Gospel and the work of St. Paul.

Equally vivid, is the story in Acts 28 that follows the story of the shipwreck. Through a series of experiences Paul eventually reached Rome. Though it was to comparative safety, in contrast to the dangers that beset him, it was not to freedom.

Roman "justice" seems to have been a strange mixture of brutality and humaneness. Paul had to protest against a Roman officer who would have had him beaten uncondemned. He saved himself from that brutality by pointing out that he was a free-born Roman citizen—a status that the Roman officer had acquired by paying a great sum (Acts 22:25-28). Now, in contrast, Paul was permitted to live in his own house but in chains.

Roman justice wasn't human or just enough to give Paul a speedy trial and acquittal, but the two years of comparative freedom in his own house gave Paul great opportunity to "preach the Kingdom of God" and "teach the things concerning the Lord Jesus Christ, with all boldness, none forbidding him."

The spiritual quality and heroism that dominated a captain and a Roman centurian at sea evidently so impressed authorities at Rome that, though they could not set him at liberty, they left him alone. It was the triumph of a great free spirit.

And Paul, the Jew and the Christian, was the master of his fate. He had linked his fate with the determination above all else to do the will of God.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When a film star like Tony Curtis dips into television, there must be an angle.

Curtis can draw top money from any film producer in town, so what does he need with TV? Oddly enough, the answer has to do with money.

The energetic, greying (at 34) actor will appear next Tuesday night on the Startime show over NBC. It's a medieval costume epic called "The Young Juggler"—originally "The Juggler" until Columbia protested that it had a Kirk Douglas movie of that title.

"Why did I do a hour-long TV film?" Curtis said. "Because after the first showing, the rights to the show revert to me. I intend to show it in theaters overseas as a feature picture. I might even do it in this country."

Why not? In these times of product shortage, theater men will welcome any movies, especially with the Tony Curtis name. So what if it did show on TV first? Walt Disney displayed his Davy Crockett three-parter twice on TV, then released it as a feature to theaters and still made a healthy profit.

"We made 'The Young Juggler' for $200,000," said Curtis, "but it has the look of an expensive picture. We shot it in color and used all the big standing sets at Universal. I know where all the good sets are, having worked on them.

"The show runs 51 minutes, but we can add to it with footage that was cut out. Also I plan to go back and film four additional scenes. That will bring it up to feature length."

Could this become a habit—making movies first for TV, then the theaters, instead of vice versa?

"I don't think so," said Curtis. "We did our picture in 10 days. It was scheduled for five days, but that was impossible. Even in 10 days, we had to keep moving like crazy.

"You can't make movies that way. Good movies take time and care and study."

HE CHASED STALIN

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—John Samosky, 76-year-old tailor, claims the distinction of once having chased Joseph Stalin.

Samosky, who left Russia in 1910, was born in Lithuania in 1884 and was drafted into the Russian army at the age of 21. On the morning of Sept. 5, 1907, as a lieutenant, he commanded an infantry company which he says fired on Stalin's gang, being sought for a $150,000 bank wagon holdup. Stalin escaped.

A Glance Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO

Patrick Carrigan died Friday at his home, 321 Lurton street. He was formerly a fireman at the Illinois Power Co. generating plant on South Main street.

Dr. William H. Garrison of White Hall has retired. A graduate of Missouri Medical college, he began his practice in Pearl 53 years ago.

Wayne J. Kitchen, 38, was instantly killed early Sunday morning when his car went out of control on U.S. 36 near Curran.

20 YEARS AGO

Two Jacksonville Boy Scouts, Bob Wood and Frank Sheppard, made a canoe trip down the Sangamon and Illinois rivers last week. They covered the 150 mile distance in four days.

Students of White Hall school gave a birthday party Monday for August B. Miller. He is 84 years old and has been school janitor for 25 years.

50 YEARS AGO

T. L. Cannon has just returned from Pike county, where he purchased a fine carload of cattle.

William Brockhouse bought the A. C. Williams farm of 182 acres for $40,000, or $222.23 an acre. This high-priced farm is mostly prairie soil and lies right by the Joy Prairie Congregational church.

Real estate taxes are not as high as they were a few year ago and Sheriff Graff has a receipt to prove it. The taxes on a 200 acre farm near Chapin were $104.21 in 1898 and this year the taxes on the same farm are $88.51.

75 YEARS AGO

The Franklin Mining Co. will in the future, furnish coal for the tile factory in Jacksonville.

Messrs. Wm. Coe and W. C. Fleming of Waverly, two noted hunters and marksmen, passed through the city yesterday on their way to Meredosia to shoot ducks.

With an eye to the convenience of their customers, Metcalf & Fell have put in two hitching rings into the curbstone in front of their store.

Meditations for Lent

YOU CAN TAKE IT WITH YOU

BY THE REV. EDWIN T. DAHLBERG, D.D.
President of National Council of Churches of Christ in U.S.A.
Pastor of the Delmar Baptist Church, St. Louis, Mo.
(Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

"I'm sending my son to college," said the owner of a Greek restaurant on the corner. "It's better to put my money into his head, where he can keep it, than into his pocket, where he might lose it."

While this sage observation has in it something of a monetary philosophy, it brings to remembrance the words of Jesus, who said in the Sermon on the Mount:

"Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal: but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal: for where your treasure is, there will your heart be also."
(Matthew 6:19-21.)

A play that had a big run some years ago was entitled "You Can't Take It With You." It was based on the theme that money is perishable, and cannot be carried into life beyond the grave.

This, too, is in line with the teachings of our Lord. Whether it be the Greek restaurant proprietor, the stage play, or the Sermon on the Mount, all stress the folly of making money our god.

But in saying "You can't take it with you," we often forget that the emphasis of Jesus was on a form of treasure that we can take with us. This wealth is what he called the treasures in heaven: the love of God, the service of mankind, the joy and blessing that come from spending our lives for others.

THIS YEAR WE ARE CELEBRATING the centennial of the birth of Jane Addams, the founder of Hull House, Chicago.

As the daughter of a comfortably situated family she could have lived for a lifetime in the surroundings of privilege. Instead, she chose to bury her life in the slums and tenements of Chicago. There she devoted all her remaining years to relieving the suffering and the misery of the poor.

The number of causes for which she became the champion is simply incredible. She was one of those chiefly responsible for instituting the juvenile courts, for the abolition of child labor, for giving women the right to vote, for the fight for world peace, and countless other righteous movements.

When she died she was beloved by the people of all nations. This year, the day of her birth is being celebrated in every major city of the United States. She gave up the treasures of earth only to take with her the treasures of the kingdom of heaven.

RECENTLY I STOOD IN ISTANBUL and looked across the waters of the Golden Horn to a big, sprawling white building that looked like a military barracks. "That," said my guide, "is where Florence Nightingale did her great work for the wounded during the Crimean War." When Florence Nightingale took up her work in that wartime hospital, the nursing profession had sunk to so low an estate that only men would undertake it.

She found some of those same male nurses lying in a drunken stupor beneath the very beds where lay the dying men to whom they were supposed to minister.

We owe it to Florence Nightingale that the nursing profession is today one of the most idealized and noble vocations in the world. Her memory will never perish.

Ask yourself this Lenten season, "Have I any of the treasure that moth and rust will not corrupt, nor thieves break through and steal?" If so, you can take it with you!

matter of FACT

Yankee Strip, a trail across Panama, was the notorious route from the ship moorings of the Atlantic to the ports of the Pacific. California gold seekers used this overland route instead of sailing around the Horn. Bandits became so common along the strip that businessmen got together and hired a Texas gunslinger to clean the desperadoes up. In two days the gunman and his deputies had hanged over 70 highwaymen. In only a few weeks the strip was a safe trail to travel.

Parents: Why Not Check TV Shows Children View?

The time was just before most young children are sent to bed. In fact, the program coming over TV was probably the last Sis and Junior would be allowed to see before being tucked in their beds with a parental wish to "sleep well."

If they watched that show I don't know how they got to sleep at all. From start to finish it was a tale of sadistic threats and merciless beatings, stuff bad enough to make an adult a little sick.

And it's the same night after night. As the story writers for TV find it harder and harder to think up new plots for the cops and robbers and Wild West shows, the violence and sadism get worse.

Put in enough beatings, enough stabbings, enough horror and maybe nobody will notice that there really isn't much of a plot. That seems to be the line of reasoning.

If the TV industry isn't going to clean house itself to get rid of the sadistic cruelty that makes kids' eyes first grow wide with horror and then bland with acceptance, it's up to parents to rise up in protest.

I wonder what would happen if every responsible mother and father in the country would take a week off to watch the TV shows their children see night after night, and if, as they watched they would keep score on the stabbings, killings, and sadistic threats that occur?

There have been committees that have kept such records. But if parents all over the country would make such a record for themselves it might prompt a mass protest against the TV fare offered children.

Why should parents wait around for "somebody to do something" when parents are the ones who can put on the pressure if they really want to?

Tuna Fish-Spaghetti Combo Is Meatless and Delicious

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

For your file of meatless dishes everyone in the family will eat and ask for more, we suggest the following:

Tuna Fish Spaghetti Sauce
(Yield: 2 cups)

Heat 2 tablespoons olive or salad oil and add 1 tablespoon chopped capers and ¼ teaspoon garlic powder. Cook slowly 1 minute. Put a 1 pound can (2 cups) tomatoes through a sieve, and add along with ¼ cup water. Cook slowly, uncovered, until of desired thickness. Add 2 teaspoons salt, 1 tablespoon parsley flakes, ½ teaspoon crumbled basil leaves, ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper, ½ teaspoon anchovy paste and 1 (6-ounce) can tuna fish. Heat and serve over 1 pound cooked spaghetti.

Easy Shrimp Curry
(Makes 8 servings)

One-half cup butter or margarine, 6 tablespoons flour, 2 cups applesauce, 1 package onion soup mix, 2 cups water, 2 to 3 teaspoons curry powder, ½ teaspoon ground ginger, ¼ cup lemon juice, 3 cups deveined shelled raw shrimp OR 2 packages frozen, raw shrimp; 4 to 5 cups cooked rice.

In large skillet, melt butter and blend in flour. Stir in applesauce, onion soup mix, water, curry powder, ginger and lemon juice. Heat and continue stirring until thickened. Add shrimp and simmer 3 to 5 minutes or until shrimp are tender. Serve over hot fluffy rice.

Monday's Dinner: Tomato and clam juice blended, spaghetti with tuna sauce, grated cheese, heated crusty French or Italian bread, vegetable salad, French dressing, canned fruit, almond cookies, coffee, tea, milk.

BETTER NUTRITION FROM SOYBEANS — This may be the result of this University of Illinois home economics graduate student's research with soy curd. Mrs. Wen-Chiang Chiu is testing the calcium content of soy curd made from different varieties of soybeans.

Visitors to the Better Living at Home exhibit at the Farm and Home Festival in Urbana March 31-April 2 may see how soy curd can be used in various recipes.

1960 Farm And Home Program All Ready For Campus Visitors

URBANA — Snow and cold late-winter weather have not frozen the plans and preparation work for the third annual University of Illinois Farm and Home Festival March 31 to April 2.

Festival Chairman K. A. Kendall reports that all exhibits, programs and special features are on schedule for the three-day exposition on the University's south campus at Urbana.

This year's festival presents an exciting exhibit trail more than a quarter of a mile long showing how agricultural scientists, veterinarians and home economists are providing opportunities for better farming and better living.

Festival visitors will follow the exhibit trail through five buildings and a specially erected headquarters tent. In the stock pavilion, they will see the latest storage units, metering devices, grinders, blenders, conveyers and distributors that are used for automatic feeding automation. In this area they will also see displays showing how livestock research has benefited the farmer and consumer with improved health for animals and man.

Work With Chemicals

The exhibits trail leads on to the agricultural engineering research laboratory, where a wide array of agricultural advances made possible through chemistry are on display. New techniques in soil testing; proper nozzles for applying pesticides and herbicides; Stumpfyre, the new chemical developed by forestry scientists for getting rid of stumps, and use of radioactive isotopes to study nutrition are included.

Another exhibit shows the contribution of the College of Agriculture in improving international relations. Since World War II, more than 1,300 agricultural specialists from 77 countries have obtained training at the University.

"Prairie Gold"

Next door, in the agricultural engineering tractor laboratory, an exhibit on "Soybeans—Gold From the Prairie" will reveal new varieties, new row spacing recommendations, the soybean cyst nematode threat and the many uses for soybean products. Two pigs, one fed on soybean meal as its only protein source, will provide living proof of the value of soybean protein in livestock rations.

Nearby another exhibit shows how records serve as tools for progress in agriculture. Beef cattle performance tests, dairy cow milk production records, hybrid corn yield tests and farm business records processed with the aid of high-speed electronic computing equipment are giving the facts for farming progress.

Better Living

For the latest ideas for better living at home, the exhibit trail leads to Bevier Hall, the home economics building. Visitors can learn about the new textile labeling law, nursery school activities, quantity food service, new home decorating and lighting ideas and the latest findings in food and nutrition research.

Besides the exhibits, 24 speaking programs on current farm and home topics are scheduled during the Festival. A panel of national farm organization representatives will discuss ways to improve farm family incomes on one program Thursday afternoon, March 31. On Friday afternoon, four authorities will discuss use of chemicals in agriculture.

Other special festival features include the Town and Country Art Show, the Town and Country Talent Show, square and folk dancing and Student Guest and Hospitality Day for high school boys and girls on Saturday, April 2.

Morgan SCS Farm Planner For 14 Years Retires

TED PIERCE left Jacksonville Thursday with a certificate of "satisfactory performance" in which Area Conservationist Harold Turner of Hillsboro particularly praised "his work with the district board in the development of policies."

This photograph shows Pierce meeting with the Morgan County Soil Conservation district board for the last time. Pictured are, from left, Robert Turner of Murrayville, aide to Pierce; Floyd Goodpasture, Concord; Amos Western, rural route 4; R. G. Leavell, rural route 2, board chairman; Pierce, and Earl J. Myers, rural route 3.

Ted Pierce Completes 25 Years In Soil Conservation Work

"I feel that I'm leaving a lot of good friends."

Those were the final words Ted Pierce said Thursday as he left Jacksonville after serving Morgan county as Soil Conservation Service technician and farm planner since September, 1945.

He will make his home in Watseka, Iroquois county, his boyhood home. He and Mrs. Pierce have purchased a new residence at the southeast edge of the town and he expects to become a farm manager there.

"I have certainly enjoyed working with the farmers of this community. My only regret is that, due to the size of the county, I was unable to work with each individual as much as I would have liked to," he said.

Pierce was completing his third semester at the U. I. College of Agriculture when the U. S. got into World War I. He quit school, registered with the draft board, and began farming in partnership with his brother. This continued until 1923, when he married. He farmed for himself until the spring of 1930. Then he decided to return to school, and graduated from the College of Agriculture in 1932.

He was managing a dairy farm when he joined the Soil Conservation Service in October, 1934, as technician to a soil erosion project in McLean county. The project, one of the first three in Illinois, embraced a wide area around LeRoy, Arrowsmith and Heyworth.

In 1936 he was shifted to Freeport, and remained there until 1945, when he was assigned to the Morgan county district.

The past 14 and a half years have been busy and fruitful.

Many, Varied Activities

In that time 492 farmers have asked him for technical advice and assistance and 328 complete farm plans have been developed. Conservation soil surveys have been made on 130,000 acres. Five miles of water diversions have been installed, so have 117 gully control structures, and 56 miles of terraces.

He designed 412 acres of waterways. This would make a waterway 20 feet wide and 170 miles long.

Some other accomplishments include: Contour farming, 9,230 acres; pastures renovated, 3,100 acres; tree plantings, 58 acres; multiflora rose row plantings, 11 miles; wild life areas improved, 240 acres; surface draining, 10 miles; tile drains, 41 miles; farm ponds, 171.

The three dry years of 1954-6, when many, many farmers were forced to haul water from any place they could get it, were extremely busy ones for Pierce. At least half of the 171 ponds he designed were built during those three years.

When Pierce came here in 1945 he succeeded Charles Krusa, who resigned to become the manager of the southern branch of the Columbiana seed corn company, Nashville, Tenn. During the years he has been assisted by Charles Meyers, Robert Unger, Larry Hall, Robert Troester and Robert Turner.

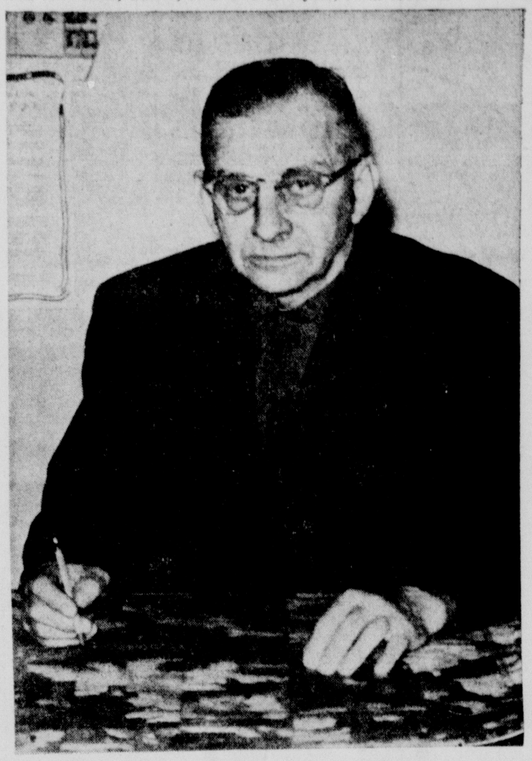
"A Good Place"

Pierce feels Jacksonville is a good place to rear children.

"I scarcely know how we did it," he says, "but all four of the children got through college and the two boys have their master's. But, of course, the children did their part."

Ted, Jr., graduated from the University of Illinois and is now a district sales manager of the W. T. Rawleigh company in Freeport. Mary Lee graduated from MacMurray and married Capt. David Bolte, who is now on the staff of the Officers Training Command school at Fort Leavenworth, Kan. Nancy Jane graduated from Illinois College and married Donald Polzin, who is teaching at Coe College, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. David attended Illinois College, finished in music education at the University of Illinois and is now teaching band at Woodstock.

"I don't know whether you know it or not," he exclaimed, "but we have seven grandsons and one granddaughter. I really can't believe it myself."



PIERCE IS SHOWN using an aerial photograph as he develops his final soil and water conservation plan for a Morgan county farm. He and Mrs. Pierce moved Thursday to his childhood home, Watseka, Iroquois county, where he expects to manage farms owned by absentee landlords.

16 4-H Youths Enroll In 1960 Tractor School

Sixteen 4-H youths from seven Morgan county clubs attended the initial meeting of the annual 4-H tractor maintenance and safety school, which will meet each Tuesday evening at the Baumann & Son implement firm through April 12.

The school will end with Family Night at Farm Bureau hall on April 19.

Bob Hayward, Jr., assitant farm adviser, announces that any interested youth may still join the school next Tuesday. The class will begin at 7:30 p.m.

At the first session of the school a film on tools was shown to the entire group. Then the students were divided into three diferent classes, according to the amount of previous training they had received in prior 4-H schools.

Tuesday's film will deal with safety. Refreshments of milk and doughnuts will be served.

Dickie Hembrough, Jim Scott, David Mattson, Melvin Thies, Steven Richards, Mike Fox and Charles Richardson, all of the East Side Juniors.

John Scott, Franklin Straight Shooters.

Jim Crouse, Waverly Ag.

Kenneth Hess, Roger Houston and Ronald Tomhave, North Side Ag.

Leonard Lewis and Ronnie Leavell, Lynnville Hustlers.

Allan Anderson, Victory Ag.

Mickey DeOrnellas, Nortonville Ag.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

We are frequently told that farmers could get satisfactory incomes if they would only "adjust supply to demand." This is an impressive statement. But what does it really mean? Is there real scientific backing for the idea that farmers can solve their income problems by adjusting supply to demand? Or is the idea a deceptive attraction, an economic will-o-the-wisp? Farmers, and other citizens too, have a right to know.

The words "supply" and "demand" are sometimes used with different meanings. In the usual sense, supply means the amount that is in existence at a given time and place. In economics, supply also refers to a rate of production over a stated period of time. In either sense, supply refers to a quantity made available on a market in response to a variety of conditions that includes the price of the commodity in question.

In demand, there is no meaning comparable with the supply concept. However, demand can refer to a rate of sales over a given period of time. In such case, demand refers to a quantity removed from a market in response to a variety of conditions that includes the price of the commodity in question.

No Stability

Any supply can be sold (economists sometimes say "will be demanded") at some price. The higher the price, the less will be demanded, or sold. The lower the price, the more will be demanded. Supply and demand come into equilibrium and the market clears at some price.

Most of those who talk about adjusting supply to demand seem to believe that there is some specific rate of production that will insure profitable prices and satisfactory incomes to all, or most, producers. Many believe that only a small cut in output would force a big rise in prices and thus insure prosperity for producers. This belief is based on observations of the effects of small changes in supplies upon prices of some farm products from one year to another. But continuous low production is something else again!

Substantial amounts of all our big money crops — wheat, cotton, tobacco, corn and soybeans (rice, too) — are exported. Altogether, exports of U.S. farm products amount to about four billion dollars a year. The crops from one acre in eight are sold in foreign countries or shipped as "aid." We also import about four billion dollars worth of farm products, half of which compete with our own production.

Too Many Substitutes

Even if we were able to force our own consumers to pay more for their food, cotton and tobacco, we cannot force foreign buyers to do so. They have many other sources of supply. Other countries already put five times as much competitive agricultural products into foreign trade as does the United States.

As farmers we would like to sell more of the higher priced foods—like butter, beef, pork and milk—to consumers. But all of these foods have lower priced substitutes — margarine for butter, chicken for beef, eggs for pork, etc. If food prices rise materially, consumers will use more of the economy foods and leave the higher priced ones on the shelves. As they become more accustomed to using the less costly foods, their desire, their demand, for the higher priced ones will decrease and the prices will decline.

For these and other reasons it seems very doubtful that any large share of the income problems of farm families can be solved by restricting production to raise prices of farm products.

ANALYZE ALFALFA FOR CHEMICAL RESIDUES — Steve Moore, left, extension entomologist, and W. N. Bruce of the Illinois Natural History Survey examine frozen alfalfa cut last fall. It will be analyzed for insecticide residues this week and Farm and Home Week visitors to the U.I. campus may watch the process. The results help determine safe levels for applying insecticides to dairy cattle forages.

The Old And The New To Feature Program Of 1960 Junior Fair

Something Old, Something New . . . sounds like thoughts of love envisioned by a June bride!

In reality, this timeless slogan has been adopted as the 1960 theme for the Morgan County Junior Progress Fair.

This year's fair promises to be both bigger and better than ever before. Merchants and exhibitors alike will enjoy a plush new location and display facilities. The usual rainfall which has plagued fair officials for three consecutive years will be taken into account as "advance insurance" against a repeat performance this year—although officials hope they will not have to put "operation rainfall" into effect.

The 1960 exposition at the west side side fairgrounds may appear to have a touch of matrimony in the air—City and Rural life in Morgan county will be joined by the excitement found only at a county fair with all of the various attractions.

Merchant Displays

A vital part of the annual exposition are the aggressive merchants and firms in Jacksonville and Morgan county who display their products and wares each year.

Merchants will be encouraged to plan their displays around the theme —something old, something new. The Everett Wise traveling trophy for the most progressive merchant display on the grounds will be presented to the best display that incorporates the 1960 theme. Displays will be judged in three categories.

Giant Boulevard

Merchant displays will be grouped at the east end of the race track, along Grand Avenue. Fronted with a well-lighted archway, smaller (new) tents will be erected and lashed on one side by a steel cable supported by permanent posts set in concrete. This method, new to Jacksonville, will provide an extra margin of safety for visitors and merchants. The grouping of merchant tents will border a spacious boulevard-type walk featuring oiled and chaffed surface. In addition, the new location will take advantage of natural drainage and be graded in such a manner as to handle the biggest "gully-washers."

Dust in the merchant area will be kept to a minimum by the surface of walks and floors.

Meeting Tuesday

Fair officials will invite prospective merchant exhibitors to a special meeting Tuesday evening at the Farm Bureau Hall, 7:30 p.m. Merchants will receive a preview of the advance planning for the 1960 fair.

Coverings for the track area in front of the grandstand will be ready for use at the first sign of rain. Horse show tents will be located near the northwest gate so that there will be no problem in moving to the show ring.

The carnival will use the area formerly occupied by the merchant exhibits at the north side of the track.

Additional details of the 1960 fair will be announced as plans become final.

BIRTHDAY PARADE

Long Parade Today

Get your places, boys and girls, for we are concluding our March Birthday Parade today with a fine long line of marchers.

Sheree Ward, who was 3 years old March 18, leads the parade. Sheree is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ward of 729 N. Prairie. She has a big brother, David, who was 4 on Nov. 15.

RHODA KAY GREGORY

Next comes Rhoda Kay Gregory, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gregory of Bluffs. Rhoda was 2 years old March 22. Rhoda's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Everett Gregory of Bluffs and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Coats of Jacksonville.

TERRY AND TIMMY SULLIVAN

Marching together are Terry Sullivan, who was 8 years old March 20, and his little brother, Timmy Sullivan, who has just a few days to wait until March 31 when he will blow out 3 candles on his birthday cake.

Terry and Timmy are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Sullivan, Jr., 916 E. Lafayette.

JANET RYDER

We have a letter from Janet which says —

"I was 8 years old March 23. I live on a farm near Medora, and am in the second grade. My teacher is Mrs. Mary Schaefer. I like to take piano lessons.

"My parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Ryder. I have a brother, Tommy, who is 10 years old. I like to visit my Grandpa and Grandma, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Smith, at Roodhouse."

Sharon Ann Lash, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Lash of Franklin, has her very first birthday right today, March 27!

TERESA BEADLES

Teresa Beadles can celebrate her birthday and the beginning of spring at the same time since her birthday is March 21. She was 5 years old this year.

Teresa is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Beadles of 615 E. Douglas, and she has a brother, Dennis, who is 16.

TERRY LYNN (LEFT) AND KERRY LEE LITTIG

Twins Terry Lynn Littig and Kerry Lee Littig, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Littig, march along next. They were 2 years old March 21.

CONNIE LYNN SCHRAMM

There is just one day for Connie Lynn Schramm to wait to blow out those 5 candles on her birthday cake March 28.

Connie writes, "My parents are Mr. and Mrs. Albert R. Schramm of Waverly. My grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Orlia E. Thomas of Jacksonville and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schramm of Waverly."

TONYA COCKERILL

Coming all the way from Florida is Tonya Cockerill who celebrated her very first birthday March 22. Tonya is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Cockerill, and her father is stationed at the Air Force Base in Destin, Fla.

Tonya's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Bert E. Cockerill of 841 W. Morton and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pate of Waverly.

RUSSELL EUGENE TAYLOR

Here is Russell opening a Christmas present at his aunt's home. This experience will be helpful when he celebrates his third birthday next Wednesday, March 30.

Russell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Taylor of 617 N. East street, and was born in Scotland when his father was stationed there in the Air Force. Mrs. Taylor is also a native of Scotland.

Douglas H. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace H. Smith of Jacksonville, will be 6 years old March 31. Douglas' brother, Rick, was a marcher recently when he was 9 years old.

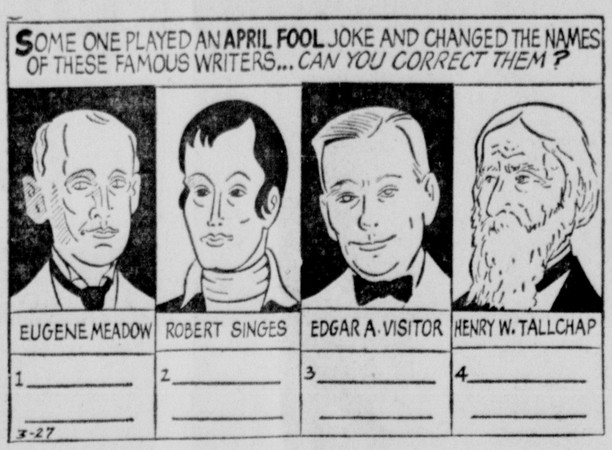
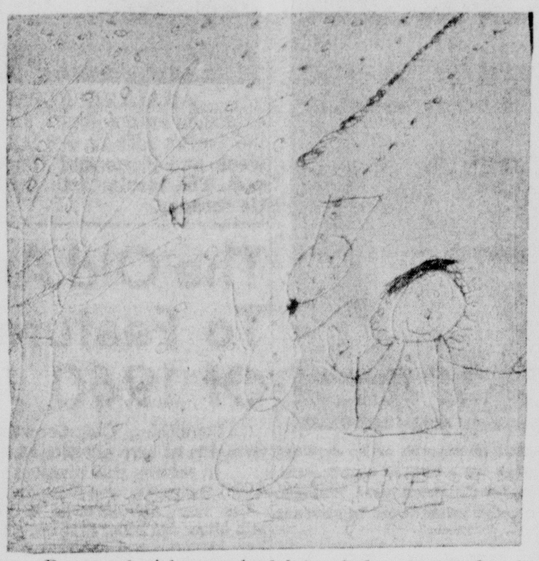
MYS-TREE — Red Cedar



Playing In The Snow



Boys and girls, you had lots of chances to play in the snow this year didn't you, and what fun it was as you can see by this gay drawing by Christine Hembrough, age 8, of Franklin. Even the little bird in the tree seems to be enjoying it.

Christine may now come in any day for her JUNIOR JOURNALIST PENCIL and JUNIOR PRESS CARD to which all are entitled who have anything they have drawn or written printed on the Junior page.

Toni Bauser's Party

Here is Toni Jo Bauser with her sister. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Allan of Jacksonville.

Toni Jo was 5 years old March 12, and was honored at a party at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Allan of 101 Havendale Drive.

Guests were Roger and Elmer Hardy, Connie and Dale Surratt, Jackie, Judy and Billy Tranbarger, Joyce and David Shillings, Bruce Dahman, Kathy Hembrough, Steve Decker, Teresa Ann Gish, Veronica Strubbe, Penny Lea Allan and Toni Jo.

They played games and had candy, ice cream and cake. She received many nice gifts. They had a nice time.

BIRTHDAY WISH

All the Junior Page readers and your editor wish all these Birthday marchers a VERY HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

YOUR BIRTHDAY

To march in the Birthday Parade just send your name, age, birthdate, address (and a snapshot if you have one) to the Jacksonville Junior Journal Courier two weeks before your birthday. Photos may be called for as soon as they have appeared in the paper.

If you have a party, write and tell us about that later.

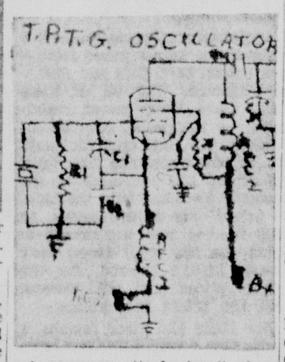
The Harmonic Oscillator

By Joseph A. Smith



A more practical circuit than the Armstrong oscillator for amateur transmitter use is the harmonic generating T.P.T.G. oscillator.

Take for example a 6V6 (or 6AQ5) crystal controlled T.P.T.G. oscillator (see diagram) such as is used in my own "Little Powerhouse" home-brewed 70 watt XMTR. The crystal in the grid circuit is effectively a tuned I & C (inductance and capacitance) tank circuit which determines the frequency on which the oscillator will operate.

Again R1 is the usual grid bias resistor, and feedback is made adjustable through the use of a small padder capacitor C1 (usually a 3 to 30 uufd padder capacitor). This allows you to adjust (to some extent) the amount of R.F. feedback voltage; it must be sufficient to sustain oscillation and yet not be excessive so as to cause excessive crystal current to be drawn that might fracture the crystal.

C2 and R.F.C. 1 make us a broadly tuned harmonic generating circuit in the cathode circuit. You will recognize C3 as the usual screen bypass capacitor and R2 as the screen voltage dropping resistor. In the oscillator shunt type plate circuit B-plus voltage reaches the plate through R.F.C. 2, and R.F. output is coupled from the oscillator plate through C4 to the parallel plate tank circuit C5 and L1.

This plate tank circuit may be tuned to the fundamental, second, third, or (occasionally) the fourth harmonic. This output signal is, in turn, coupled through C6 to the next grid; this might be a buffer-doubler or a final amplifier, (C6 not in diagram.)

Tree Sparrows Move Into Town

By Emma Mae Leonhard

Curiously, most of the questions asked us about birds this past week have concerned a very common winter resident, the Tree Sparrow.

Since Tree Sparrows prefer weedy fields, roadsides, thickets, and brushy marshes adjacent to woodlands, they are rarely seen in cities. They feed on grass and weed seeds which have fallen to the ground or the snow.

However, since their natural feeding grounds have been buried in snow banks and drifts, some of the Tree Sparrows have moved into Jacksonville and visited feeding stations. In one way we heard from four different people about a different kind of sparrow that was feeding daintily and shyly with other birds. One person asked whether we had Brown-capped Chickadees here. There are such birds, but they undoubtedly have never visited us; they belong much farther north.

The bird that this inquirer has seen was a Tree Sparrow. It also wears a redish-brown cap. Another person was impressed with the streaks—grayish buffy, black, and rusty—on her visitor's back and shoulders. These are also identification marks, as well as the white wing bars and the single dark spot in the center of its breast, for our Tree Sparrow.

Real Winter Song

This little sparrow is active and hardy in the midst of real winter days. It is also one of the few of our winter birds that sing real winter songs on these February "snow and blow" days and even during the snows of March.

Its song is of a metallic yet sweet canary-like quality. Where there may be a whole flock of Tree Sparrows, we often hear a chorus of musical twittering and tinkling on some of the worst winter days.

Toward the last of March, we shall see these Tree Sparrows no longer. They will be on their way to the far North for the summer. Actually they seem to run away from warm weather, but they will be back with us when the snappy days of October return to us again. Then if we wish to see them, we shall have to move out of Jacksonville to find them in their favorite weed patches.

The woman who wants to be really well-groomed can never afford to be careless. She's the woman who always has clothes in the hands of a dry cleaner, shoes being repaired and polished, clothes being altered. She is careful about hemlines, insistent that gloves be absolutely fresh, particular about touches of white at neckline and cuffs.

Tommy Draws Horse

This alert looking horse was drawn by Tommy Hallock, age 9, of Hillview.

If you like to draw, make a picture—all your own work and just 4 inches square—then send it, with your name, address and age, to the Jacksonville Junior Journal Courier.

Traveling Together

By Mrs. Otto Dorr

Part 2: Away We Go

"When do we move?" Davie asked.

"Pretty soon, I think," Tiger whispered for someone was coming close to the barn.

A good measure of oats was poured into Davie's feed box as his master explained, "You'll need extra feed; we are going to drive overland but the children and their mother are taking the train tomorrow."

Davie felt more cheerful, "That won't be hard," he thought, "He always takes good care of me, but I shall miss Tiger."

The next morning the carriage rolled out of the drive and Tiger hopped the fence into Mrs. Thurly's yard. Colder weather was due so Polly and Tiger visited in a warm bay window, while much farther north Davie and the children saw snow storms they had never known before. The children learned to skate on frozen ponds but Davie chose to keep out of the cold wind.

Davie Gets Surprise

One bright morning when the sun looked warm Davie started briskly for a run in his lot. Whish! Slash! Boom! Bang! he skidded all the way across his yard into the side of a neighboring barn.

He did not fall but he was afraid to try another step. In the house his master heard the noise and came hurriedly down the walk. Sissie and Brother came too. "Is he hurt, is he hurt?" they called and stopped close to the fence while their father crossed the icy lot and felt all along Davie's ribs and his four legs, but nothing seemed injured.

Slowly Davie was led back into his barn and the stall door closed; "I do not like skating" he thought, "I would like to tell Tiger about that, it is fully as bad as Polly's adventure with monkeys." "I hope that they will write a letter to Mrs. Thurly about it."

One day the Skating Letter really came. Tiger and Polly listened wonderingly as it was read aloud.

"Ice! Ice!" Polly grew excited and teetered backward and forward on her perch, then slipped into jungle language, "I thought they used that in iced tea!"

"Ice," Mrs. Thurly repeated. "Listen Tiger, Polly has learned a new word! Isn't that wonderful, I must bring her some more feed."

Preparing Own Meat In Long-Ago Days

By Mary Pence Claywell

Part 8: Old Days Were Fun

Aunt Jane is telling Andy of the old days when people prepared their own meat. She was off again on a trip to the smoke-house in mid-July, where Ma was slicing off big, thick slabs of ham to cook with green beans, fresh from the garden.

All of a sudden, she threw up her hands and cried, "My my, Andy, there's the school bus at the gate! My, how the hours do fly! Run for your coat and cap, Andy, while I get your books ready!" Then with a sweet smile, "Get your lessons, child. . .and mind your teacher!"

Before either had time to think, Andy was on his way, feeling for the world like a well-stuffed holiday turkey, and he was trying his best to let his belt out a notch as he went. On the side, he was wondering if after all, "Life wasn't worth living, even in Aunt Jane's rugged young days, and maybe a callous didn't hurt a guy now and then, if he earned it at good honest work."

As for butchering day, it sounded like real fun after all.

Hopes For More Stories

"Bless her old heart," said Andy to himself as he climbed aboard the yellow bus; and a moment later, "I think I'll have her tell me some more stories. . .especially about her own school days. "My, what a memory! Imagine her reciting 'Snow Bound,' after all these years!"

But one thing Andy had forgotten. . .Tag, the little Boston Bull, standing in the snow on the hillside.

Always before, he had patted his head and said, "Never mind, Tag, I'll be back, just you wait and see!" But now, he didn't even notice the little fellow, with the big, moist eyes, and a red tongue hanging out ready to give him a parting kiss when he stopped to pet him!

Of course, young Andy had only forgotten. . .but Tag was broken-hearted. . .or perhaps thoughts something like this, were racing through his little dog head: "I wish I could go. . .maybe I'll follow him when the coast is clear!"

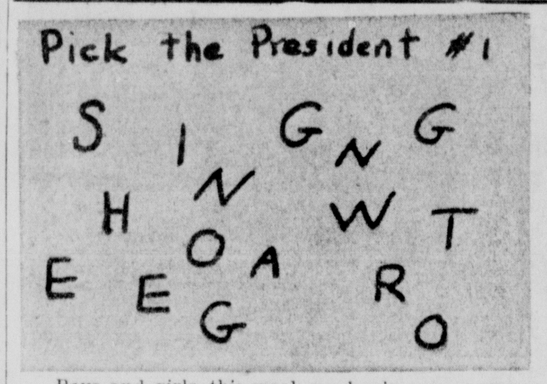
Pick The President

By Burton L. Reynard



Boys and girls, this week we begin a new game—"Pick the President." If you clip out and save (got a scrapbook?) all of these you will have something about every one of our presidents.

All the letters in the president's name are scrambled above. Listed below are four facts that will help you to also identify the president.

1. This president was born in Virginia.
2. The vice-president serving under him was John Adams.
3. His home was called Mount Vernon.
4. As a civilian, he was a planter. He was far ahead of his time in the use of rotation of crops and the use of fertilizer.

This president's name is .....

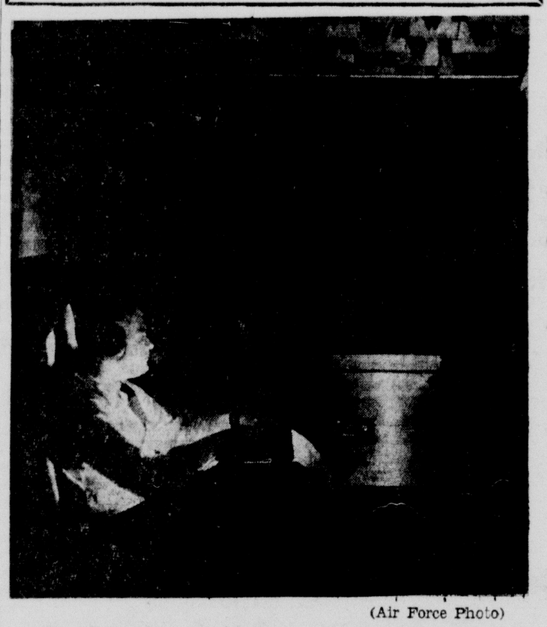
Rockets And Space —

Space Flight Dull?

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.



(Air Force Photo)

To visit other worlds a man from earth will probably have to spend weeks or even months in a small cabin.

After the first few days or hours, this would become deadly dull.

The shortest trip a space man could take would be to the moon and back. This would take around 7 days. A flight to Mars with the rockets now being built would take 8 months. After waiting on Mars, in an orbit around that planet, for 15 more months earth and Mars would finally be lined up for an 8 months' return flight.

Needless to say such long flights could get rather monotonous, perhaps even to the point of being deadly dull. The Wright Air Development Command is making experiments to see just how dull space flights can be before it is actually begun.

Psychologists (men who study the workings of our minds,) at the Aero Medical Laboratory, believe that the dullness of space flight can be lessened by giving the crew plenty to do. Their theory (educated guess) is that everything put in a space ship, including man, should be used to its fullest capacity.

Psychiatrists (mind doctors) are working on the theory that man might have time on his hands during a space trip. They are attacking the subject of isolation (being separated) and confinement living in a small space) from two angles: 1, on the basis that the first space ships may carry only one man, they are subjecting individuals to periods of isolation; 2, for larger space ships, they are confining groups of men together for long periods of time.

The isolation studies are performed by a man locked in an anechoic chamber (a sound and light proof room). So far, individuals have been placed in this room for only 44 hours, but this will soon be increased to 72 hours or longer.

Let's Build A Rocket

By Joseph A. Smith

ATOM SMASHER

This interesting home series of experiments will demonstrate Ionic type propulsion which you have read about in the "Rockets and Space" column on this page.

The basic power unit behind our simple wooden model space-ship will be a high-voltage generator sometimes called the Van De Graaff Generator.

This type of generator was instrumental in searching out many of the first facts in the mysteries of the ATOM which eventually led to the atom bomb and atomic power itself. Thus our generator will be a miniature atom smasher in reality.

While it can generate anywhere from 50,000 to several hundred thousand volts of static electricity, it will be completely safe for anyone to use. (Obviously the amount of voltage generated depends on the size of "Cosmotron" built.)

Not Complicated

It really isn't complicated either. It consists of a metal sphere about 2" (or more) in diameter and insulated above "ground" by a plastic (or other insulating material) support column.

An insulated pulley is mounted at the inside top of the column. At the bottom of the column—a small a.c. motor is mounted; to it another insulated pulley is attached to the drive shaft.

Between the two pulleys a rubber belt is affixed. Small fine wire brushes are mounted close to the belt. One is mounted at the bottom and connects to the motor's frame.

Second row: Mrs. Dorothy Rexroat, Miss Maurine Vernor, Miss Sue Brown, Mrs. Paul Rust, Mrs. Joseph Doolin, Miss Kathy Eades.

Third row: Donald Littler, director; Russel Vernor, Henry (Butch) Anderson, Richard Godfrey, Paul Rust, Lee Sullivan Jr., Ruel Becker, John Gillespie, Ernest Savage.

Those in the choir but who do not appear in the picture are Mrs. Francis Plouer, Mrs. Robert Ray, Miss Cindy Kraushaar, Miss Nancy Robson, Miss Roslyn Wagner, Mrs. J. Allen Biggs and Mrs. Milton Edge.

The Chancel Choir of Central Christian church will present "The Seven Last Words of Christ" by Theodore Dubois, on Sunday evening, April 3, at 7:30 p.m. in the sanctuary of Central Christian church. The public is most cordially invited to hear this outstanding oratorio, which brings to vivid focus the Seven Words of Jesus as he was upon the cross being crucified. These Seven Words are most significant in the Christian Gospel and meaningful to the Christian of today. It is hoped that all people will be in their seats shortly before 7:30 p.m. so that the 50 minute program might be presented without too much interruption.

The choir is directed by Donald Littler, and Mrs. Francis Angel is the organist.

The oratorio will be presented in the very simple setting as the Prelude to the resurrection and the message itself, both in narratives and music has become one of the greatest and most beautiful of all times.

Soloists will be Mrs. John Gillespie, soprano; Mrs. Francis Plouer, soprano; Paul Rust, tenor; and Ruel Becker, baritone. Mrs Angel will play both the prelude and postlude. The prayer of the service will be voiced by Rev. Gerald Miller, pastor of the church.

Rush Party Held Monday, March 14

Kappa Omega of Beta Sigma Phi, rush party was held March 14 in the Gold Coast Trailer Court's recreation room. Hawaiian Luau was this years theme, with all the members dressing in gay colored sarongs. The table was decorated with candles, coconuts and a fruit centerpiece.

Refreshments of pineapple halves filled with sherbert balls rolled in coconut were served. The members played charades during the meeting.

The new prospective members are Virginia Blaska, Doris Jean Walls, Annette Kilver, Norma Hazelrigg, Louise Bunch, Donna Carrihart, Sue Willard, Barbara Wooldridge and Lou Allen.

The March meeting was held at the home of Lou Allen, with Ladean Tighe as hostess. A business meeting was held with president Jean Chapman presiding.

Minutes were read, and the election of next year's officers was held. Those elected were: Rosella Spreen, president; Beverly Mullen, vice president; Peggy Fernandes, secretary and Shirley McManus, treasurer.

A program on literature was presented by Beverly Mullen. Refreshments were served and a social hour followed.

The next meeting will be in Roodhouse at the home of Prudy Ballard.

Swine Program At Potter Farm

An evening program designed to be of special interest to 4-H members who will have a swine project this year will be held Friday evening, April 8, at the H. Yates Potter farm west of Jacksonville.

All other interested youth, however, are invited to attend the meeting, which will begin at 7 p.m.

At the Potter farm there will be demonstrations on castration, iron injections, vaccinating, clipping needle teeth and probing back fat depth.

Later the group will go to Farm Bureau hall for instruction regarding selection of breeding stock and rations.

Last year 97 members began swine projects and 77 completed their projects.

Two 4-H Boards To Meet Monday

The Farm Bureau and Home Bureau 4-H boards will plan joint programs for the coming year at a meeting to be held at Farm Bureau hall Monday, March 28, at 1:30 p.m. The members will discuss such items as plans for the 1960 Junior International Foreign Youth Exchange program.

Representing the agriculture clubs will be Charles Williamson, John Gordon, Richard DeOrnellas, Bob Darley, Harold Hamel, Robert Houston and Melvin Thies.

Representing the home economics clubs will be Mrs. Robert Houston, Mrs. Lawrence Mallicoat, Mrs. F. A. Johnson, Mrs. Roy Smith, Mrs. Dale Braner, Mrs. Carl W. Milleson and Mrs. Charles Williamson.

The group will meet with Mrs. Veronika Burgess, Morgan - Scott youth adviser, and Bob Hayward, Jr., assistant farm adviser.

MORE VOLUME NEEDED!

The farmer who wants to have $5,000 in net earnings for family living must now plan on a gross income of around $12,500, according to a University of Illinois farm management specialist.

FESCUE FETCHES FAST GAINS

H. C. Cate of the Dixon Springs experiment station reports excellent beef gains on fescue pasture — from 370 to 410 pounds per acre. The secret is heavy seeding, 25 pounds of seed per acre for a dense stand, application of 200 pounds of amonium nitrate per acre and close grazing.

LAND VALUES INCREASED!

Illinois farmland was worth about five times as much in 1959 as it was 26 years ago in 1933.

A Look Ahead At Cotton Fashions

Separates Are Season's Gilt-Edged Buys

For a tropical vacation now or at home next summer, these pretty and practical cotton fashions by Mac Shore are just what a girl needs. Button-back sleeveless blouse (left), in a modern print on white background, is in a drip dry cotton broadcloth. The setting is Oranjestad, the capital of the little Dutch Island of Aruba. For the summer weather of tropical Aruba or for summer weather at home, this cotton classic (center) is indispensable. It's a mixture of dacron-and-cotton, has narrow stripes on white background. The blouse that American girls love and live in is (right) one like this in dacron-and-cotton. Simple in cut, it's equally right with skirts or slacks. Tree in the background is called a divi-divi, is permanently bent in the direction of the prevailing trade winds.

BY GAILE DUGAS

NEW YORK —(NEA)— Cotton fashions rate consideration now, in the midst of spring, for two reasons: a tropical island vacation now and a forward glance at summer.

Indispensable to any warm weather wardrobe are the separates now solidly identified with American living. And for excellent reasons. They stretch out a wardrobe. The same top can be worn with skirts or slacks or Bermuda shorts. They are often cut from drip-dry cottons and need only a touch-up with an iron, thus saving valuable time. And they come in beautiful prints, stripes and solids.

This year, there are little cut-away jackets that are new for the tropical or summer scene. Some stop at the waistline and some have a boxy cut and are hip-length. They can be worn equally well with straight or pleated skirts for an effect that's typically American, typically casual. Some of them can go over swimsuits and thus double their usefulness.

Big sleeves, seen in important spring fashions, are part of cotton fashions, too. They may be puffed, tiered or flared. They look their best on tops meant to be worn with narrow pants or shorts.

Like the trench coat, the little black dress and the great coat, the shirtwaist dress has become an American classic. Its opposite, this summer, is the little girl gingham done up in stripes or checks and in candy colors. Ruffled with eyelet embroidery or lace, laced with ribbons and worn over layers of petticoats, it conveys the wide-eyed and innocent look. This is obviously a youthful fashion whereas the shirtwaist is for everyone from teen-ager to chic grandmother.

Bluffs Students Named To Attend 1960 Band Camp

BLUFFS — The Bluffs Band Boosters met Thursday evening, March 17. The president, Mrs. Harvey Vortman, conducted the meeting.

A rising vote of thanks was given all who in any way assisted with the Carnival, the workers, those who contributed door prizes, food and in other ways contributed.

The committee to select the representative from the organization to attend Summer music camp at DuQuoin, meeting with the representative from the Woman's Club, selected Richard Pullings from the Band Boosters and Linda Berry sponsored by the Woman's Club. The alternates from the Band Boosters will be Warren Merriman and Woman's Club, Ruth Sievers.

Transportation to the Band contest at St. Elmo on April 2 was held.

Announcement was made that all elementary students entering in the recent music contest at Troy rated Superior. They were Craig Brown with a trumpet solo; and with piano solos, Janice Vortman, Gary Vortman and Alan Merriman.

The organization hired the band instructor, Bernard Evans, to conduct the Summer band. He will also have rehearsal for beginning students. The committee for the summer band is Robert Brown, Mrs. Harold Frohwitter, Clyde Hullinger, David Orchard and Mrs. Harvey Vortman.

The Carnival committee reported that approximately $750.00 was cleared and all bills have been allowed.

No special music was enjoyed at the meeting as those who were to appear were excused to attend a 4-H Federation meeting.

News Notes

Mrs. Ray L. Kendall and Mrs. Margaret Edlen returned home Saturday from a several week vacation in Florida. They were met by Mrs. Harold Oakes and Max Edlen in St. Louis.

A2/c and Mrs. Daniel Hamilton and daughter, Jody, of Orlando, Fla. are enjoying a month's vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hamilton.

ROODHOUSE

Dean W. S. Dysinger was a Jacksonville Rotarian present. Also in attendance were George Peters and Harold Durham, Junior Rotarians.

Grover E. Shipton and Frank Hopkins attended a Stephen A. Douglas DeMolay Legion of Honor banquet at the Fleetwood restauraut in Springfield Friday night. Mr. Shipton was elected sergeant-at-arms.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Gurwell and family, Mexico, Mo., will spend the weekend here with her mother, Mrs. C. H. Whitworth, and husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Early and son, White Hall, were visitors in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Powell, Sunday, en route home from spending the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Early, Joliet.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Million spent Sunday in the home of her mother, Mrs. Stella Lawson, Jacksonville, where they were joined by Mrs. Million's sister, Mrs. Floyd McGee, husband, and two sons of Lincoln.

Mrs. Ed Thompson has returned from a visit in the home of her niece, Mrs. Cletus Reynolds, rural route, Carrollton.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Hendrickson are visiting in the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hendrickson, and family, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tennell entertained with a birthday dinner Monday honoring her father, Harry Rawlins, who was celebrating his 87th anniversary that day. Other relatives present were his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Lucas and his granddaughter, Mrs. Sam Perkins, and children, all of Roodhouse.

HEADS FESTIVAL

JOHN L. HAMILTON

John L. Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hamilton, 30 Sunset Drive, has been named co-chairman of the Spring Festival Committee at Illinois Wesleyan University, Bloomington, Ill.

The Spring Festival is the annual Wesleyan Campus-visiting event for high school seniors. It is being held on the weekend of April 30th-May 1st.

WHY SO SAD? — While this looks like the scene at a wake, it isn't. The "mourners" are policemen crying because they got too much tear gas and are awaiting their turn for soothing eye drops. The "body" on table is Deputy Police Chief Al Nelder, getting drops from Dr. William Cunha. Police were exposed to the gas when they shot it out with a desperado who later committed suicide in San Francisco. (NEA Telephoto)

29 'Sportsmen' Attend Meeting In Meredosia

MEREDOSIA — The regular meeting of the Meredosia Sportsmen's Club was conducted Thursday night by the vice president, John Nortrup. Twenty-nine members were present.

Joe Schneider, chairman of a special committee, announced that no decision on building a porch along the east side of the clubhouse has been reached, and gave several estimates of its cost. Very soon softball teams in the area will be contacted about their participating in a summer league.

The film was "Moving Mountains" by the Clark Equipment Co.

The refreshments committee for the April 4 meeting is Virgil and John Steinberg and Ray Wade. Norman Schweer, Marshall Cloyd and A. C. Bickley served sandwiches, potato chip, coffee and pop.

Annual value of citrus fruits grown in Florida is about 250 million dollars.

Does up-to-date wiring increase the value of your home?

Yes! ...says your real estate agent

Whether they're interested in a new home or an older home, couples today expect modern electrical convenience. That means plenty of outlets, heavy-duty circuits for major appliances and enough general-purpose circuits to keep fuses from blowing. A home that is up-to-date electrically is easier to sell and worth more to the buyer.

Yes! ...says your banker or savings & loan officer

We regard modern wiring as one of the best basic improvements a homeowner can make. We regularly make two-year home improvement loans to finance home wiring modernization. We know from experience that modern wiring pays dividends in better family living as well as in upgrading home value.

Yes! ...says your electrical contractor

Most families today have a big investment in modern appliances. But many homeowners fail to realize that you can't get full performance from a TV set, refrigerator, vacuum cleaner or even a toaster if the wiring in the home is inadequate. Modern wiring provides plenty of electrical capacity for all of today's appliances and tomorrow's, too. We're always glad to give free estimates and make suggestions.

Wiring Problems?

ILLINOIS POWER COMPANY

Your home—whatever its age—can be modern electrically. There's no need to put off your home wiring modernization. The cost is reasonable . . . and payments can be budgeted to suit your needs. Why not ask your electrical contractor now for his recommendations on better living—electrically—with modern wiring. Good investment? You bet!

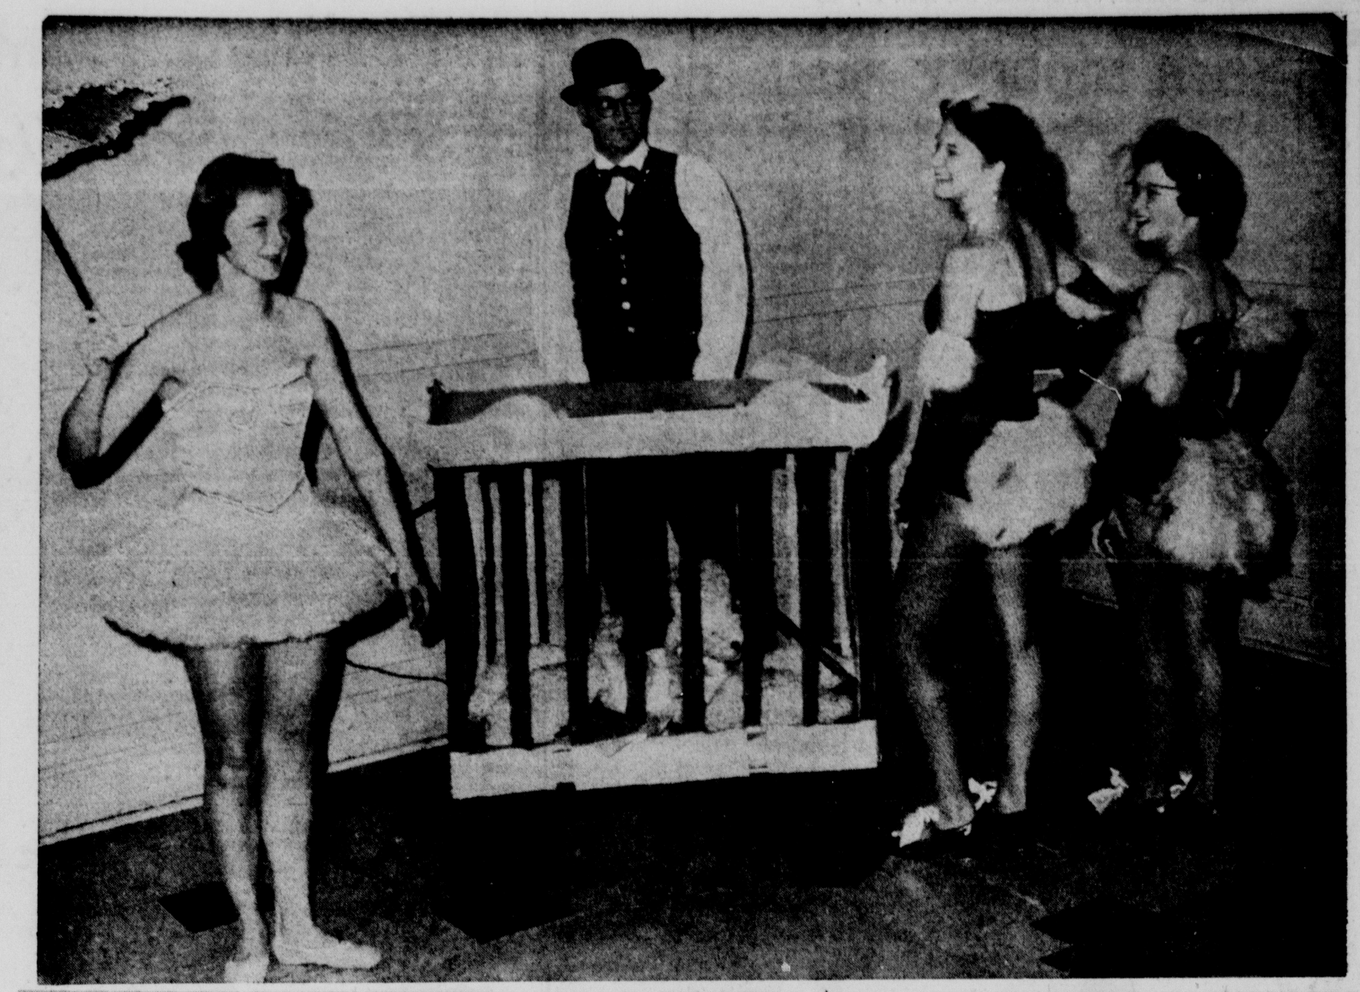
Beaux Arts Program April 30

To Be 'Three Ring Circus'



A Circus Theme will be carried out in the entertainment provided for the Cornation Ceremonies for the 1960 Beaux Arts Ball to be held in Jacksonville Saturday, April 30.

The Coronation, the first of a triple-entertainment program, will be held at the Jacksonville High School Gymnasium. Contrary to previous years, the Queen and her Court will be presented at the opening of the program. The Beaux Arts Queen will reign over the evening's festivities which will be most entertaining if the efforts and plans of the chairman, Mrs. Robert Hamm, and Master of Ceremonies, Elmer Lukeman, present any prediction.

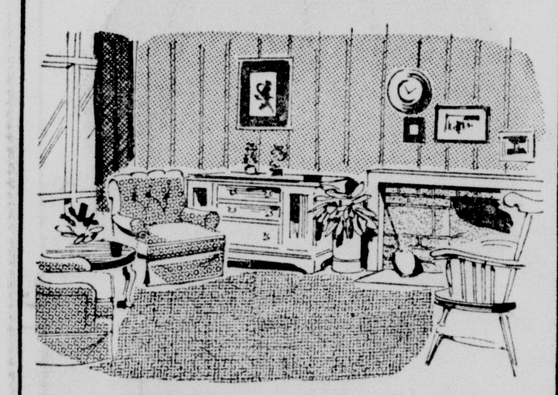
The traditional Circus characters are not to be forsaken and the beloved "Fat Lady" shown at right testing the muscle of the "Strong Man" will be portrayed by Henry Aldrich and Ralph Heiss, respectively.

Mrs. Hamm and Mr. Lukeman are pictured confering over details that will make the evening perfect entertainment. Tickets for the Coronation and Ball will be available soon.

Following the Coronation at the gymnasium Open House will be held at Strawn Art Gallery and the Ball will get underway about ten o'clock at Hotel Dunlap's Illinois Room.

Adding CHARM to YOUR Home

by Edna C. Gustine



THAT CERTAIN SOMETHING

Haven't you walked into an expensively furnished room that was just "right" in every detail, yet lacked that certain intangible something that makes a room hospitable and homelike? Of course, you have. We've all had this experience.

What is wrong actually with the room in case is that is does not express the individuality and the personality of its occupants. It is more often than not a copied room.

The way you combine colors, the way you group pictures, the way you arrange furniture is what makes a room yours . . . gives it the stamp of your personality, expresses your warmth, your charm and your individuality.

The comfortable room sketched above is furnished entirely with moderately priced furnishings, yet it bespeaks hospitality, friendliness and gracious livability.

Wood walls have been painted a soft young-leaf green to ally the room with the garden view. The soft green rug simulates nature's carpet. This forms a flattering background for the rich warm tones of the maple furniture. Movement has been introduced with the subtle provincial pattern in the upholstery fabric on the lounge chairs. Note the unusual picture and clock arrangement on the fireplace wall.

"Pride of ownership" is a point we always consider when selecting the furnishings we offer you. We know that you want to be proud of every piece of furniture in your home . . . proud of its styling, craftsmanship and durability. You can be when you buy from us.

Wayne L. Combs Is Invited To Present Concert

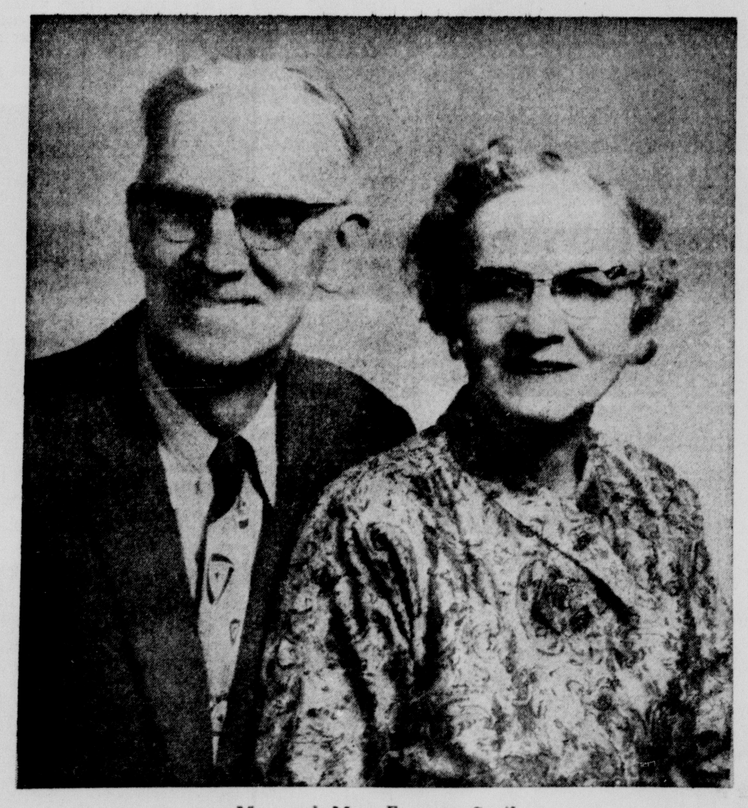
Wayne L. Combs, flutist and music director who resides here in Jacksonville and in Springfield and is band and chorus instructor at Routt College High School in Jacksonville, has been invited by Millikin University's College of Music to play a concert of flute solos in the Fine Arts Center in Decatur, Ill. The center is sponsored jointly by Millikin University and the city of Decatur. The time of the concert is Sunday, April 10, at 4 p.m.

Mr. Combs will include one of his own compositions for flute and piano which won him acclaim from a newspaper critic after a performance of it as one of his encores on a Springfield Symphony Orchestra concert which featured him as one of the soloists. Also original will be three cadenzas which Mr. Combs is composing, especially for his performance in Decatur, of the beautiful Mozart D Major Flute Concerto.

The rest of his proogram will be devoted to the Suite in A Minor by Teleman, an eighteenth century composer, and Debussy's solo for unaccompanied flute entitled, "Syrinx" (Pipes of Pan). The concert will be approximately one hour in length.

Dr. Ralph Robbins, pianist and music professor at MacMurray College will represent at the piano the entire forces of the orchestral accompaniments including orchestral solo passages for the Mozart and Teleman works among the other accompaniment playing for the concert.

WED HERE 50 YEARS AGO



Mr. and Mrs. Everett Cecil

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs Everett Cecil, 316 Sixth avenue, Peoria, Illinois, will be celebrated at open house two to four o'clock in the afternoon Sunday, April 3, at their residence.

Meda Hayes and Everett Cecil were united in marriage in Jacksonville on April 2, 1910. They have resided in Peoria the past 33 years

They are parents of four children, two sons, Carl Cecil, St. Joseph, Michigan and Don Cecil, East Peoria and two daughters, Catherine, wife of Tom Stull, Bethesda, Maryland and Marjorie, wife of Fred Gilmore, Bellevue. There are seven grandchildren and one great grandson.

Orleans Club Names Officers

The Orleans Woman's Country club met Tuesday afternoon, Mar. 22, at Hamilton's where Mrs. Albert Koss was hostess. Mrs. Fred Moeller presided and the meeting opened with the club prayer.

Routine business was conducted and officers elected as follows: president, Mrs. Roy Davenport; vice president, Mrs. Cliff Davis; recording secretary, Mrs. James Rawlings; assistant, Mrs. Tom Drury.

Corresponding secretary, Mrs. Hubert Norfleet and treasurer, Mrs. Cliff Davis.

Mrs. James Heaton presented the afternoon program, a talk on Parliamentary Law. Roll was called and the meeting adjourned after which delicious refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be at 2:30 p.m. April 5 at Hamilton's with Mrs. Clyde Trafton hostess.

The reason that some women develop a flair for clothes is that they experiment over the years. They make mistakes but they learn from them. They don't go on repeating them.

Fashions From The Paris Collections

These New Styles Are Easy To Wear

Here are three totally different silhouettes from the hands of three top Parisian designers. Short evening gown (left) with side slit and train is Oriental in feeling, quite possibly draws its inspiration from Queen Farah Diba of Iran. It's the design of Yves St. Laurent of Dior who also designs for the Iranian queen. Fabric is a deep tangerine nylon tulle heavily encrusted with a beaded medallion motif. Jacket ensemble (center) with relaxed lines and slim gathered skirt is by Jean Patou. The two-piece dress with slip-over top is sleeveless. Fabric is a soft pink orlon-and-wool tweed. Pleats are important in the French collections this spring. They're handled adroitly here (right) by Jacques Griffe in a town dress with back pleats from shoulder to hem. Dress is plain in front, is cut from a lightweight fabric of dacron-and-wool in tobacco brown. It has one of the huge, white starched collars seen throughout this designer's collection.

BY GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Now that we can take a look at the first fashion pictures from Paris, we're reassured that les boys have pitched us a slow curve rather than a fast one.

The story the pictures tell is one of relaxed lines. This, in turn, means clothes that follow the body lines gently and therefore are easy to wear. Essentially, they are clothes with the most appeal for the greatest number of women since they do not present impossible figure problems.

Suit jackets are often rounded sleeves.

Pleats, important to the French collections, bear out this curved look. They may be used from shoulder to hem or in bodice or skirt only.

Many dresses in the Paris collections are sleeveless. Dresses, suits and even coats show short sleeves rather than the three-quarter length.

Many suits and coats are collarless this spring. This is also true of daytime dresses. Sole exception here is the collection of Jacques Griffe where large, white starched collars are starred.

There are many two - piece dresses, usually pairing a loose top and a slim, short skirt. Hem lengths aren't big talk this season. Generally, the length has stayed short but lengths can vary even within a collection. Yves St. Laurent shows some evening gowns to the knee and some below the knee.

The decision will fall to the individual taste of the wearer.

Most like hems short and the older, chic women will take theirs just a bit longer.

With The Girl Scouts

Next Friday is the opening of our annual cookie sale and a very important sale it is—so except for news of individual troops, we are devoting the entire column to this exciting event. It is exciting because exciting plans for camp have been laid and these plans depend on the results of the cookie sale. The goal this year is more camping for more girls with better facilities for all. In 1959 46 per cent of all registered Brownies, Intermediates and Seniors attended camp. In 1960 we want to increase that fine percentage even more.

Three camps will be available: two Day Camps and one Day and Overnight Camp. There will be a Day Camp at Carrollton at Robin Hood Camp on June 1, 2, and 3; another Day Camp will be in session at White Hall in Lions Park on June 7, 8, and 9. Camp Shagbark on Lake Jacksonville will be in operation for four weeks in June beginning June 6 and ending July 1 and this will be a Day and Overnight camp.

Additional equipment will be purchased for the use of the units at all camps and for Camp Shagbark, graveling of our road from the gate to the cabin, improvement in our water pump (possibly electrified) and construction of a shelter with a fireplace, are contemplated.

However, all these plans depend on our cookie sale. To reach the goal set for accomplishing these plans, the 1,149 Girl Scouts and Brownie Scouts in our Council will be selling 25,000 boxes of cookies next week! It's a big project but the Girl Scouts can do it. And this is the prescribed way to add to your troops treasury. You get 5c per box of cookies sold. This sale and the Girl Scout calendar sale are the only means by which troops are allowed to earn money.

Cookie sale begins at 3:30 p.m. Friday, April 1 and ends Saturday, April 9. April 13 is the deadline for troops to turn cookie money over to their school or community chairman and by Monday, April 18, all school and community cookie money should be deposited. Friday, April 22 is the cookie deadline—no cookies can be returned after this date and everything should be cleared up.

So let's go, Girl Scouts! Let's make this the best cookie sale yet!

Intermediate Troop No. 33 of Jefferson school had fun last week designing Easter bonnets from paper plates and odds and ends of scrap materials brought from home. This week the girls entertained Brownies of Troop No. 40, also of Jefferson school, by putting on a skit using their hats. Each girl modeled her own hat.

We are a United Fund agency.

COURTROOM COMEDY PROPS—Court Bailiff Nick Climaco of Cleveland, Ohio, gets a laugh whenever he looks at these grim objects—a pair of crutches and an ankle-to-hip brace. They were used a year ago by a 19-year-old plaintiff asking damages for injuries suffered in an accident. The jury was treated to an unexampled demonstration of courage as the youth gamely struggled to and from his place in court during the 10 days of the trial. When the verdict went against him, however, he threw the crutches down, took off the brace, and strode angrily out. Climaco says nobody has ever claimed them.

High Cuban Birth Rate Aids Fidel Castro

Underground's Work Plagued By Castro's Children Of The Revolution

By WARD CANNEL
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HAVANA — (NEA) — Oddly but relentlessly, what plagues the anti-Castro under ground more than anything else is the staggering Cuban birth rate.

According to best, conservative figures available.

● Sixty per cent of the Cuban (and Latin American) population is under 25 years of age.

● Forty per cent of them are younger than 15.

Now, there are two ways to employ these statistics, namely:

1. If you are a U.S. citizen, taught to work in your youth and save for your old age, you can pigeonhole Cuba and Latin America under "Hemispheric Juvenile Delinquency" and dispatch a corps of social workers to save the day.

2. If you are a Cuban against Castro, you can spit in the dust, as one underground liaison man did, and say, "If we have to count on youngsters to get rid of that lunatic, we might as well give up now."

And from another: "It is impossible to deal with an idealist in a land of children—except by force. But where are you going to muster the force?"

Illustration of the fact is readily available to any casual observer. Round-the-clock rallies in Havana to raise money for arms and planes are run by, with and for youngsters who, if they lived in the U.S., would be writing fan letters to disc jockeys.

And an air-hour away in Tampa and Miami, Fla., a group of Cuban-parentage adolescents are cutting school to board a plane for Havana where festivities will take place to honor the youth of the Revolution.

Under circumstances like these it is not surprising that the anti-Castro forces, both in Cuba and the U.S., are in considerable difficulty.

"We are too realistic to give ourselves up to an ideal," one conspirator in Miami says. He is usually the recording secretary at anti-Castro council meetings. "And we are old enough to have achieved some status which we will not give up for a cause.

"And so, former generals and ambassadors are not going to follow the leadership—no matter how good—of former corporals or couriers."

"IMPOSSIBLE to deal with an idealist in a land of children."

The result is simply that where there were four or five loosely organized anti-Castro groups six months ago, there are now eight or 10 drawing farther and farther apart from each other.

A case in point: the "July-26-Against-Communism" group whose spectacular move was a leaflet bombing of Havana last October.

But the two organizers of that raid, Maj. Pedro Luis Diaz-Lanz and Carlos Echegoyan, have gone their separate anti-Castro ways. Diaz-Lanz still works under the "July 26" name and Echegoyan has organized the "Cuba Democratica."

Each group, of course, has its own pipeline into Cuba. Consequently, each can predict that the first real action against the Castro government will come in April, October or December by an uprising in Camaguey, Oriente or an invasion from Miami, Panama or the Dominican Republic.

Each group tells an inquiring reporter:

"If you don't believe us, go see Jose X, Pedro Y, Luis Z in Havana. He will tell you."

But Jose, Pedro and Luis only smile and shrug. "It is not a good situation here. It may get worse. But even if Castro goes—which is not likely for a long, long time—the group who sent you here will not replace him."

On top of this confusion, it is a jest that Castro spokesmen keep calling the U.S.-based underground an organized conspiracy aided by Washington.

It is the cream of the jest that the disparate underground keeps sending its emissaries to Washington after each new charge from Havana in hopes that Castro is right.

Suzanne Boyd Named Winner Of Scholarship

PITTSFIELD — Suzanne Boyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Boyd, and a senior in the Pittsfield High school, has been named winner of the Golden Jubilee teacher education scholarship awarded by the Illinois Congress of Parent Teachers.

She was named over applicants from Adams, Brown and Pike counties. Under terms of the scholarship, the student must agree to teach a minimum of two years upon graduation from an accredited college or university and the amount of the scholarship will be repaid.

Sales Tax

Pittsfield received $4,018.11 for its return of city sales tax for the month of December. This makes $64,394.44 in city sales tax over the 18 month period. All this money has been applied to the new lake project fund.

Census Report Forms

Advance report forms for the 1960 census of population have been received this week and everyone is asked to fill them out and have them ready when the census takers call, starting April 1. The Census takers will partake in three training sessions next week, district supervisor Sidney A. Johnson announced. These sessions will be held March 28, 29 and 30.

Seybold Endorsed

Charles Seybold of Pittsfield has been endorsed by the Pike County Central Committee as a write-in candidate for nomination as Circuit Clerk to oppose Austin Altizer, Democrat. His name will not be on the Republican ballot, but will have to be written in. Mr. Seybold is 40 years old and resides in Pittsfield, with farming interests near Pearl. He has a wife and two sons.

Potluck Supper

The Republican Women's club will hold a potluck supper for the district candidates on Friday, April 1, at 6:30 at the Orr Memorial Hall.

Student Council Elects Officers At Pittsfield

PITTSFIELD — The Student Council has elected officers for the coming year, 1960-61. The new members are: Seniors, Mary Jo Smith, Marsha Sloan, David Awbrey and Carl Mueller; juniors, Mary Kay McCartney, Fred Kern, Keenan Barber and Sophomores: Carole Fesler, Mike Boren, Charles Duggins.

The officers elected for next year are: President, Mary Jo Smith; vice president, Keenan Barber; secretary, Carole Fesler. The freshman members and the treasurer will be elected next fall from the incoming freshman class.

Annual Meeting

The Pike County Tuberculosis Association's annual meeting will be held on Tuesday, March 29, at 6:30 at the Christian church. The dinner will be served by the Priscilla club of the Christian church.

Bruce Bennett, public relations director with the Illinois TB Association, of Springfield, will be the guest speaker. Miss Helen Harmons speech class will present a skit.

Attends Training School

Rev. Vernon Stout of the Christian Church is attending a state training school on Christian education in Peoria, which started Tuesday, March 22 and will continue through Friday, April 1. George Greene will be in the pulpit Sunday morning, March 27, and Mr. Eldon Atwood will present the telephone devotions each day.

Summer School

Richard Heitholt, principal of the Pittsfield High school, has given questionaires to students to see how many are interested in attending summer school. The courses given will depend upon the interest of the students. Each course will cost around $15.00.

Summer school uses facilities normally idle, thus giving greater return for investment in buildings and equipment. Students are able to take courses which might conflict in their heavy winter schedule.

TO GIRLS STATE

ARLENE LEISCHNER

ARENZVILLE — Mrs. Olive Williams, Girls State chairman of Arenzville American Legion Auxiliary 604, has announced the selection of Miss Arlene Leischner to attend the 1960 session of Illini Girls State to be held on the campus of MacMurray College, Jacksonville, June 14 to 21st. Miss Leischner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Leischner.

Miss Leischner is in her junior year at Arenzville High School and is a member of the High School chorus. She was selected on the basis of her outstanding character, honesty, leadership, cooperativeness, and scholastic record.

'Kamikaze'—That's Tag For Japan's Women Drivers

Actress Ignores Scorn, Holds Own In Tokyo Traffic

By ALICIA HART

NEW YORK—(NEA)— The Japanese have a word for women drivers—"kamikaze." And the Oriental women drivers use the same scornful term about their men behind the wheel.

The word "kamikaze" is familiar to most Americans in connection with the suicide pilots of World War II. But these days the mayhem occurs on the streets of Tokyo, where men and women drivers carry on the same motorist's versian of the battle of the sexes as we have in the United States.

Misa Ban, 24-year-old Japanese singer, actress, dancer and pianist, also is the proud possessor of a Japanese driver's license. And she's prouder of her ability to pass the rigid Tokyo test than of the fact that she can sight-read Bach and Beethoven.

"It is no small thing to pass the driver's test," said the lovely young bride of comedian Roger "Droodles" Price. "There are not many women who drive, but in Japan when a woman knows how to drive she handles a car sensibly and well."

MISS BAN SAID that in order to win an operator's license in her home town the applicant must go to a driving school for at least two months at a cost of about 20,000 yen (over $50).

You take your test, under official supervision, when the school deems you ready. And the test not only includes a half-hour spin about Tokyo, a city of narrow crowded and unnumbered streets, but also an examination on the car motor and how it works.

"But despite the test," Miss Ban said, "Japanese men, and particularly police, give a woman driver a hard time. I once had a terrible argument with a policeman. I went to a party in a kimona and my date had too much to drink, so I drove home. An officer stopped me and his attitude was immediately suspicious.

"IN JAPAN THE MAN is supposed to be boss. Any time you compete with men in any way, they don't like it."

Miss Ban's driving ability, along with her five-foot-three 108-pound good looks, recently won for her the title of "Miss Datsun," and she will represent the Japanese-made motor car in the United States.

"Driving in America is wonderful," she said. "Compared to Japan, the roads are so wide and the streets are so free of people. I love to drive here.

"The first time my husband drove with me was in California, and he was very nervous. We were engaged then, and he didn't have much confidence. But he relaxed and now I do all our driving because he knows what a terrible time he has behind the wheel."

AND HOW DOES Miss Ban feel about American women drivers?

"I used to think women made better drivers than men and had a sort of sixth sense in a car. But American women drivers are pretty terrible."

Miss Ban, multitalented singer-actress Japanese, is proud of her hard-to-earn Tokyo driving license.

DON'T FORGET THE KIWANIS CLUB PANCAKE & SAUSAGE DAY MONDAY, MARCH 28

Mrs. Robert Clark Bione

Linda Pate, Bob Bione United At Murrayville

The Murrayville Methodist church was the scene Friday evening, March eleven, of the double ring ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Linda Lou Pate of near Murrayville and Robert Clark Bione of Jacksonville.

The Rev. John Seed performed the ceremony in which the bride was given in marriage by her father She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pate, Murrayville route one and the bridegroom is the son of Adolph Bione, 311 North Prairie street.

Baskets of glads decorated the altar of the church. Mrs. Charles McKnelly presided at the organ for nuptial selections during the prelude.

The bride's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Stan Willner of Jacksonville, attended the couple. Ushers at the church were Richard Lee Pate, brother and Lewis Pate, Jr., cousin of the bride.

Imported Silk and Lace Gown

The bride's wedding dress was a waltz length gown of imported Italian silk and lace fashioned with snug bodice on princess lines, lace forming the pearl trimmed scoop neckline and the long tapering sleeves.

A deep panel of lace was appliqued about the lower part of the full skirt worn over hoops and crinolines.

The bride's shoulder length veil was attached to a halo crown of seed pearls and she carried a cascade of white carnations streamered with satin ribbons. Her slippers were white shell pumps.

Mrs. Willner wore a white and red velvet ensemble with red carnations.

The bride's mother wore teal blue chiffon on taffeta with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Receive At Church

A reception was held in the basement of the church immediately following the ceremony. A four tiered wedding cake centered the serving table where guests enjoyed cake, rose tinted fruit punch, rose red mints and salted nutmeats. Carol Griffin and Roberta Savage served cake; Mrs. Harry Rimbey, Mrs. Hardin Rimbey had baked and decorated the bride's cake and cut the confection for serving. Judy McKinney served punch.

Carol Fortado, Mary Smith and Pat Taylor were in charge of the gift table. Mary Smith also registered guests.

When the couple left for a short trip the bride was wearing a two piece navy outfit with black accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Bione are making their home at 413 North Prairie street in Jacksonville.

The bride graduated in 1958 from Franklin High School and is employed at Waddells store. The bridegroom graduated in 1959 from Jacksonville High School and is employed at Anderson Clayton and Company.

Special guests included Mrs. Gladys Little, Charleston, Illinois and Mrs. Eloise Lape, Springfield.

Mrs. Jewsbury To Interpret Lenten Service Mar. 31

The fourth Lenten service will be held on Thursday, March 31 at 10 a.m. in Trinity Episcopal church.

Mrs. Claude Jewsbury of Central Christian church will interpret the theme "The People of God." Others who will take part in this service are: Mrs. Verneda Kibby of McCabe Methodist church, Mrs. Wendell Petefish of Centenary Methodist, Mrs. Clarence S. Bigler of Brooklyn Methodist, Mrs. Richard Thompson, soloist of First Baptist, Mrs. Russel L. Vernor of Central Christian church and Mrs. Walter R. Bellatti, organist of Trinity Episcopal church.

A nursery to care for small children will be provided during the service. These Lenten services are sponsored by the United Church Women of Jacksonville. All men and women of the community are invited to attend.

CUB SCOUTS TOUR GOV. DUNCAN'S HOME WEDNESDAY

Cub Scouts from dens 2 and 4, Pack 109, toured the Gov. Duncan-D.A.R. Home Wednesday. Mrs. George Drennan, regent of the D.A.R., guided the group, pointing out historical facts in the various rooms.

Gov. Duncan had the home built in 1934. The original black walnut siding still remains on the house. There are 11 fireplaces in the house. A piano, shipped from Washington, D. C., in 1838, is still Those making the visit were John Doyle, Tommy Davis, Danny Craddock, Bobby Spencer, Freddie Standley, Dickie Spencer, Carol Spencer, Marilyn Spencer, Jimmy Hawks, Tom Jordan, Roger Rainville, Steve Tavender, Steve Hermes, David Ryan, and den mothers, Mrs. Charles Davis, Mrs. Glen Spencer and Mrs. Herl Jordan.

Mr. and Mrs. William Herbert Gullett of Seaford, Delaware, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Rosemary, to Dr. Jerome Randolph Ryan, Washington, D. C., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Lukeman Ryan, Bunkie, Louisiana.

The wedding will be an event of Tuesday, June seven, at Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Delbert Eugene Mueller

Patricia Likes, Delbert Mueller United At Oxville Methodist Church

Bluffs—The Oxville Methodist Church was the scene of a beautiful wedding ceremony Friday evening, March 18, when Miss Patricia Ann Likes became the bride of Delbert Eugene Mueller.

The double-ring candlelight ceremony was read by Rev. Edward Anderson, pastor of Faith Lutheran Church of Jacksonville.

The church was simply decorated with ferns, a single basket of white glads and pompoms and lighted candelabra.

Miss Sue Bridgman played appropriate music preceding the service and accompanied Miss Shirley Marsh as she sang "O Promise Me" and during the ceremony, "I Love You Truly." The traditional wedding marches were used.

The lovely bride was escorted to the altar by her father who gave her in marriage.

She wore a beautiful floor length gown of rose patterned lace and misty nylon tulle over crisp white taffeta. Lace fashioned the bodice with its long tapered sleeves and lovely sabrina neckline aglow with iridescent sequins and tiny seed pearls. Diagonal bands of lace were appliqued onto the misty tulle skirt and swept back to meet a cascade of lace and tulle ruffles that billowed out over a hoop.

Her ballerina length veil of silk illusion was attached to a tiny jeweled Princess crown sparkling with sequins and pearls. She wore a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom.

She carried her white Bible topped with a ribbon showered arrangement of white carnations.

Miss Sandra Oakes was bridesmaid. She wore a yellow gown with bouffant ruffled skirt over taffeta with fitted bodice topped with a yellow lace bolero. Her nose veil was secured with a large bow. She carried a basket of yellow pompoms.

The groom was attended by Wesley McGinnis.

The ushers were Henry E. Likes, brother of the bride, and James Mueller, brother of the groom. The ushers were also the candle lighters.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Likes chose a poudre blue lace dress with blue hat and white elbow length gloves. Mrs. Mueller chose a beige dress with green hat. Both mothers wore shoulder corsages of white carnations.

Reception Follows

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at Slagle's Cafe at Winchester for the wedding guests.

The table was beautifully appointed with the tiered wedding cake adorned with yellow roses topped with the traditional bride and groom in a heart shaped arch. Lighted tapers with floating yellow pompoms completed the appointments with crystal and silver.

Yellow punch, yellow and white mints, and nutmeats were served with cake. Miss Sue Bridgman cut the cake with Miss Judy Brockhouse serving the cake and Miss Shirley March serving the punch. Mrs. Earl Albers assisted with the serving.

The guests were registered by Miss Laura Mae Mueller, sister of the groom. Miss Janet Frederick registered the gifts and Sandra assisted with the gifts.

The new Mrs. Mueller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Likes of Naples rural route. She is a graduate of Bluffs High School with the class of 1959 and has just completed her school at Flamingo Beauty College in Jacksonville.

Her bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Mueller of 1420 Passavant Drive, Jacksonville. He graduated from Chapin High School and last August from the University of Illinois. He is now a teacher at Jonathan Turner Junior High School in Jacksonville.

When the couple left for a short wedding trip the bride was wearing a royal blue silk dress and a corsage taken from her bridal bouquet.

Upon their return they will reside at the Gold Coast Trailer Court in Jacksonville.

The two grandmothers of the groom attended the wedding, Mrs. John Mueller of Bluffs and Mrs. Phyllis Hamilton of Jacksonville.

Officers Elected By Nortonville Community Club

The Nortonville Community Club met at the hall on March 18, with Mrs. Lionel Seymour and Mrs. Henry Jackson as hostesses. The meeting was opened by the women singing "My Wild Irish Rose." The pledge to the flag was led by Mrs. Melvin Koehler, followed by the club collect in unison.

Minutes of the last meeting were read by the assistant secretary, Mrs. Bill Orris. Mrs. Claude Bolton gave the treasurer's report. A thank you note was read by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Lester Penick. The note, from Mr. and Mrs. Ned Jackson, thanked the club for the shower gifts they had received.

A letter from Mrs. Bruce, president of the Illinois Federation of Woman's Clubs, was also read. She reminded the members to send in the names of the new officers as soon as they had been elected. The members voted to give a cash donation to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Vanbebber, whose home burned down recently.

Mrs. Herbert Clayton gave a talk on juvenile delinquency which County Judge John Wright had presented at the district board meeting in Jacksonville.

Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: Mrs. Lowell Wells, president; Mrs. Keith Bolton, vice president; Mrs. Lester Penick, recording secretary; Mrs. Virgil Vedder, assistant recording secretary; Mrs. Orval Mutch, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Edwin Clayton, treasurer; Mrs. Fletcher Seymour, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Louis Foster, reporter, and hall trustees, Mrs. Roy Kelly, Mrs. Herbert Clayton and Mrs. Bill Orris.

Roll call was answered with an Irish joke. Mrs. Roy Kelly, program leader, held a blind auction. The meeting was closed with the club prayer.

Mrs. Lester Penick and Mrs. Clyde Gass were in charge of the social hour. Mrs. Lowell Wells conducted a contest. Prizes were won by Mrs. Virgil Vedder and Mrs. Claude Bolton.

Refreshments were served to sixteen members and two guests, Mrs. James Wilson and Mrs. Donald Grinkey. The next meeting will be held April 1, with Mrs. Robert Whitlock and Mrs. Paul McKinnon as hostesses.

NEW HOPE FOR HARD OF HEARING

Springfield, Ill., March 27, 1960—Something new has just been announced. It is an electronic development designed for those who hear but who do not understand words. There is nothing in either ear. No dangling cords. No tubes. The sound vibrations are conducted right through the bones of the head to the inner ear, and right to your center of understanding. We have termed this process "Vibratory Sensory Conduction"—truly secret hearing.

The manufacturer has been able to produce a hearing device so small that many who wear it report "No one knows I have a hearing deficiency". It is said to be very reasonably priced.

This new instrument is manufactured by Audivox, Inc., Successors to Western Electric Hearing Aid Division and makers of "The hearing aids your doctor knows."

Further information and details may be obtained by writing to AUDIPHONE CO. INC., 406 S. 6th, Springfield, Ill., or call him by phone, La 2-27667.

Chorus, Band Give Program At Meredosia PTA Meeting

MEREDOSIA — The Meredosia-Chambersburg P.T.A. held its March meeting Wednesday night in the high school gym. Girl Scouts of Troop 66 advanced the flag and led the pledge of allegiance.

The treasurer, Mrs. Emery Hinshee, reported that the unit now has 83 members, making it eligible for the year's membership award. President John Stanfield said that he had received the gold oak leaf for last year. He read the nominating committee's slate of candidates for election for next year: for president, Mrs. Robert Bogue; vice president, Mrs. James Vose; secretary, Mrs. James Major; and treasurer, Mrs. Stanley Summers.

Mr. Stanfield announced that this year's Life Membership was voted to Mrs. James Major; that Sondra Dugan was first runner-up for the district's PTA scholarship. The Band Boosters Club will meet on April 4.

Under the direction of Marshall Cloyd, the high school chorus sang a Brahms folk song, followed by the boys' chorus singing "Going Home" and "Dark Waters."

At this point, Mrs. Paul Vannier, director of district 13, spoke about "Preservation of PTA Ideals."

The final song of the chorus' portion of the program was "If Ye Love Me."

While some members of the chorus changed from robes to band uniforms, Mr. Stanfield announced the refreshment committee for the April meeting: Mrs. Herbert Allen, Mrs. Lozelle Major, Mrs. Lanier, Mrs. Robert Lansink, Mrs. John Kramer and Mrs. Robert Cole. The meeting will be a gym show at Chambersburg.

This year's athletic dinner will be a potluck on April 9; the speaker will be Mel Tappe.

The band played "Colorado March," "Thendara Overture" and "Toccata for Band."

After the meeting adjourned with a penny drill, warm doughnuts, coffee and chocolate milk were served in the home ec. room.

Milwaukee Braves pitcher Jack Caffrey played four seasons of professional ice hockey.

Fur Color This Year Must Be Golden Hue

Pale colors predominate in mink fashions for Easter Sunday. This jacket by Leo Ritter is in tourmaline mink, is tapered to the hipline. It has new, hidden zipper front closing. Straight sleeves taper into shirred cuffs.

BY GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Any color is the right one for furs this Easter so long as it's a golden hue.

Be it jacket, stole or capelet that will be your big fashion investment this spring, make sure it's in a shade from pale beige to gold.

If you're thinking in terms of mink, good. This fine and beautiful fur was never prettier or more sparkling than it is this spring.

But you can also have pale beige in natural sheared fur seal or pony. The pony, in partucular, is beige with a golden hue, its color carefully shaded.

If you're jacket-minded this spring, the cut of your jacket will be new and entirely different from anything you've had previously. It's quite likely to have, for one thing, a concealed zipper front closing.

It will be cut in a longer length and molded to the hipbone. It may be collarless or it may have a Peter Pan collar. It's sure to have an interesting sleeve treatment: pear-shaped or bloused.

There are many brief capes in the darker shades of mink and in chinchilla and sable.

If your preference is for the black furs no matter what the season, you'll find beautiful black-dyed pony, black-dyed Russian broadtail and Persian lamb. All three have been cut into jackets with cutaway contours or the tunic look. Some offer the brief half sleeves seen on spring's suits and coats.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain, a basketball legend after only one season with the Philadelphia Warriors, quit the team and National Basketball Assn. Friday in a move that caught his closest associates by surprise.

Wasn't Entire Reason

The 7-foot Negro star who rewrote professional basketball's records on the court and at the boxoffice, said racial problems had "some connection with my decision but that wasn't the entire reason." He said he had no quarrel with any teammates on that point.

Beyond this, he offered little amplification in talking here with newsmen. He confirmed, however, this statement attributed to him by Ike Gellis, sports editor of the New York Post, who broke the story:

Bad For His Race

"If I continue, I feel it might be bad for me and my race. If I come back and score less than I did last year, I may have to punch eight or nine guys in the face. I might lose my poise and I don't want that. I want to keep my equilibrium. I have achieved everything a man can achieve in pro basketball."

Whether the last part of his statement meant Chamberlain was through with the game, he wouldn't say, as he declined to reveal his plans.

Chamberlain has complained previously of rough treatment from opposing players in the NBA. They did virtually everything they legally could, in the way of body contact, to keep him from adding to his record scoring and rebounding pace.

Ribs Show Effects

After many games his ribs showed the effects of many well-planted elbows. In one game his mouth was gashed badly.

But Chamberlain, while not entirely innocent when it came to handing back a little rough stuff, nevertheless was not as aggressive as Coach Neil Johnston wanted him to be.

Johnston said often that if Chamberlain let loose at the opposition the physical badgering would slack off. Chamberlain finally did let loose against Tom Heinsohn of the Boston Celtics in an NBA playoff game last week. He suffered a badly swollen right hand that greatly reduced his efficiency. Boston beat out Philadelphia in the Eastern playoffs.

Unaware Of Decision

Warriors owner Eddie Gottlieb said he was not aware of Chamberlain's decision until informed by newsmen. He said "I talked contract with him last week and we were going to meet again next week. I was encouraged that he would be back."

Wilt has been in basketball prominence since he was a junior at Overbrook High School in Philadelphia. Some 100 colleges sought him and Wilt went to the University of Kansas where he was an All-America two years.

He quit school after his junior year and joined the Harlem Globetrotters, world-touring basketball comedian team owned by Chicagoan Abe Saperstein.

Then this past season Gottlieb signed him for the Warriors, of which Saperstein is part owner. Gottlieb paid him about $35,000, believed to be somewhat less than he got from the Globetrotters.

Saperstein said he'd be interested in having Chamberlain rejoin the touring troupe "but I'd have to sit down with Eddie Gottlieb and talk it over."

There also was the possibility Chamberlain would be the box-office lure for a new pro league proposed by Saperstein.

BLUE SHARK

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Abell, 1400 West Lafayette, don't seem to mind the excessive snowfall in the Jacksonville area this year—they are using their time to plan a summer trip to the State of Washington.

While checking over the list of vacation gear, Mr. Abell ran across the family camera and found it still loaded with film. Memories were soon renewed after the film was developed.

This shot shows the 119 pound blue shark caught in the Pacific Ocean last year. Mr. Abell is on left, Lester Weatherby of Seattle, a cousin, and Lawrence Hollenbeck of Rushville on right.

The local couple will visit relatives in the Seattle area this summer.

Signs $53,000 Pact To Battle Archie Moore

DORTMUND, Germany (AP)—Erich Schoeppner, Germany's European light-heavyweight boxing champion, signed a $53,000 contract Friday for a title fight with Archie Moore, world champion of the division.

Andy Niederreiter of New York, European representative of New York's Feature Sports, Inc., said after the signing that the bout would be held before Aug. 15 but added the site still was indefinite. The contract guarantees Schoeppner a purse of $53,000 from the gate receipts plus shares of the radio and TV receipts.

The contract calls for a return bout under the promotion of Feature Sports should the German boxer win. In case of a return bout, Schoeppner would receive 30 per cent of the gate receipts plus a share of radio and TV monies.

Oversight

LEXINGTON, Ky.—(NEA)— An apparently sure-fire method of playing the horses was revealed in the United States District Court in Lexington.

At the trial of two men charged with operating a handbook without a federal gambling stamp, Joseph B. Spink, an investigator for the Treasury Department, testified to making bets in the establishment on seven occasions. Spink reported that he had made a profit of $314.25.

It was obvious that none of the attorneys in the case were horse players.

They overlooked asking Spink what system he followed.

Paret Battles Thompson To A 12-Round Draw

NEW YORK (AP) — Fiery Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba Friday night fought a blistering 12-round draw with poised, old pro Federico Thompson of Argentina and probably earned a title fight with welterweight champion Don Jordan at Las Vegas, Nev., May 27.

The winner of Friday night's telecast scrap in Madison Square Garden was supposed to get the title crack at Jordan and the draw left the matter unsettled.

But shortly after the fight ended, NBA executive Tony Petronella said he would recommend that Paret meet Jordan on the original May 27 date with the winner to take on Thompson within 90 days.

Paret and Jordan agreed but Thompson said he would have no part of it.

"Enther I fight Jordan or I get a return fight with Paret," said the 32-year-old Argentine champion who made his U.S. debut Friday night. "I won't go along with anything but that. I think I won the fight. I wasn't at my best but I should have knocked him out four times but I let him get away."

First Two Games Of NBA Playoffs Slated For Boston

NEW YORK (AP) — The first two games of the National Basketball Assn. final round playoffs will be staged in Boston, Eastern Division champion, on Sunday afternoon and Tuesday night. Association president Maurice Podoloff announced the schedule Friday.

The third and fourth games will be played in the home city of the Western Division champion Saturday, April 2, and Sunday afternoon, April 3. Minneapolis and St. Louis each has won three games in the best-of-seven western semi-finals and will play the decisive contest Saturday afternoon.

Downstate Prep Notes

By JOHN CAMPBELL

Peoria Manuel star cager Floyd Taylor finished the season by nosing out Dick Quinn of East Peoria high for the top scoring honors for all games played in the Peoria area. Taylor finished the campaign with the most points and the highest average. Quinn led in field goals and second in the average department with 18.3 and had 203 field goals. Rick Lepossa was third highest scorer and fourth place went to Terry Hatterman of Limestone beating Spalding's Mike Humphrey by one-tenth of a point.

Paul Judson has resigned as head basketball coach at Mattoon high after two years and he is expected to coach in Northern Illinois prep circles next season. His teams at Mattoon high won 20 and lost 29 during his short stay and the school board felt he should resign at this time.

Ethan Blackaby of Canton and a soph standout at the University of Illinois in football last season is a strong candidate for the outfield this spring. Del Coleman of Canton is a member of the Illinois track team while Dave Downey of Canton is among the top frosh cagers at the Champaign campus and he will be a strong candidate for the varsity next year under Coach Harry Combes.

Kincaid high is looking for four new foes in basketball next season as the "Ponies" dropped out of the strong Mid State loop and are playing in the MSM conference again. Effingham replaced the Kincaid entry in the Mid State having dropped out of the Eastern Illinois conference. White Hall will host the Third Annual Illinois Valley Holiday tourney next December and Roodhouse will have the conference meet May 10. Virginia will compete in the conference until the close of the school term in June 1961. Several high schools are being considered to replace the Cass County high school but none has been selected by the committee.

Collinsville ,Litchfield, Canton, Springfield and Decatur will have several "starters" back next season in basketball and don't be surprised to see these teams being among the rated fives by the polls come next December. Bridgeport, Granite City, Alton and Pinckneyville might join this list next year with several lettermen back for the 1960-61 season.

Farmington football mentor Walter Grebe is anxious to fill an open date in football of September 23 as the date is open since ISD will not play the "Farmers" having scheduled Havana instead according to the Farmington football boss. Ron Patterson is one of the finest pitchers in the Peoria area this season and the Farmington high flinger is only a junior.

John Meinen, athletic director at Bradley U., said recently "You know, Ozzie (Orsborn) has quite a reputation as a basketball coach in the East. He's put on a plane with the best in the business by other coaches and writers."

Wednesday was the date for the Peoria Manuel-East Peoria high baseball game at Russell field. The diamond could not be found due to the snow and the game was postponed but no later date has been set. Manual is the defending champ in the Mid-State Eight loop with a 13-1 conference record last year. Other clubs will start the baseball competition next week.

The first and second all-star teams of the Spoon River conference were named Tuesday night at Beardstown in the meeting of the loop officials. The first team named included Buck of Beardstown, Graham and Oetgen of Macomb, Ruffatto of Lewistown and Prince of Havana. The second team included Robertson of Beardstown, Scott and Trout of Bushnell-Prairie City, Mullen of Havana and Hanning of Macomb.

George Wilson of Marshall (Chicago) was named to the 1960 Champaign News Gazette All-State team. It was the third consecutive year Wilson, who led the Marshall five to the State title in 1958, has made the News-Gazette All-State basketball team. Only two Illinois high school basketball players in the 27 year history of the selections had accomplished this feat previously, Dwight Eddelman of Centralia and Lou Boudreau of Thornton of Harvey. The first team — Jerry Sloan, McLeansboro; Bernie Mills, Dunbar (Chicago Dunbar); George Wilson, Marshall (Chicago); Rich Falk, Galva and John Love, Ottawa.

SEND 5 TO MINNEAPOLIS

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — The Boston Red Sox Friday sent five men, including bonus infielder Carl Yastrzemski, to their Minneapolis farm.

Also optioned were infielder Jim Mahoney, catcher Jim Pagliarone, pitcher Tracy Stallard and outfielder Lee Howell.

Yastrzemski, $80,000 bonus infielder from Notre Dame, has been the sensation of the Sox training camp because of his hitting ability. He was returned to the American Assn. club, which holds his contract, to brush up on his glove work.

White Has Retired

Cleveland-Boston Trade Nullified By Commissioner

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—The controversial Cleveland-Boston trade Friday was nullified by baseball Commissioner Ford Frick pending official notification from catcher Sammy White that he has retired.

Frick wired general managers Bucky Harris of the Red Sox and Frank Lane of the Indians ordering the return of utility man Jim Marshall to Boston and catcher Russ Nixon to Cleveland.

The orders officially are labeled "temporary" because Frick still must receive from White his retirement papers.

However, Frick said he acted on the ground White publicly has announced his retirement.

Boston traded White and Marshall for Nixon March 16. Three days later, without reporting to the Indians, White said he was quitting because of a heavy investment in a $1,500,000 bowling center in Boston and that he could consider continued playing only in a Boston uniform.

Nixon has expressed his preference for the Red Sox because they raised his salary and he believes Lane will merely trade him off again. The catcher says he will confer with American League president Joe Cronin in the hope he can work under a contract the Red Sox gave him.

Manager Billy Jurges of the Sox told Nixon to turn in his uniform Friday while explaining the situation. Nixon will remain with the Boston club until Saturday when the team can drop him off at Tucson during an exhibition game with the Indians.

Frick's wire called Harris' attention to major league rule 12f, which provides a trade shall be voided on the bona fide retirement of a player . . . and the consideration returned to the assignee club.

The last time White was contacted he still had not mailed the official retirement papers to Frick.

Until he does and no matter how much White insists he has quit for good, there is nothing to prevent White from returning to the Red Sox. Harris has said he doesn't want White under the circumstances. But the door is still open for negotiations.

Gordon Says Indians Stronger Now Than They Were A Year Ago

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Manager Joe Gordon says his Cleveland Indians are stronger now than they were in spring training a year ago.

He sees a potential for scoring a lot of runs and a vastly improved infield defense over the club that finished second in 1959.

In the pitching department everyone watches to see if left-hander Herb Score can regain winning form. Gordon says both Gary Bell and Jim Berry, a pair of 23 - year - old right - handers, should be improved this campaign. Bell posted a 16-11 record in 1959 with Perry at 12-10.

"Score could come around and surprise everyone," says Gordon. In his last exhibition game outing Herb was hit hard in the first inning but struck out six of seven batters he faced in a three-inning stint.

Power comes from a group including Rocky Colavito, Tito Francona and Woody Held, although a shoulder operation has kept Held sidelined during the spring work.

"Colavito could hit 40 to 50 home runs, Francona 20 to 25 and Held 25 to 35," Gordon estimated. "And John Romano is potentially a good power hitter."

In addition, 6-foot-6 rookie outfielder Walter Bond has shown tremendous power this spring. The infield probably will line up with Vic Power at first, ex-National leaguer Johnny Temple at second, either Held or veteran George Strickland at shortstop and Bubba Phillips at third.

Cleveland gave up 19-game winner Cal McLish to get Temple from Cincinnati. Phillips came from the Chicago White Sox along with Romano.

"Both Power and Temple could hit .300," says Gordon to point up the fact his infield isn't just a good-field outfit.

Colavito hit 42 homers last year and Francona belted at a .363 clip. They have two of the outfield jobs sewed up with Jimmy Piersall expected to open in center although he has competition from former pro football halfback Carroll Hardy.

Joe's problem this spring seems to be in getting his pitching staff selected and ready. He's looking over a big group.

Jim (Mudcat) Grant posted a 10-7 mark last year, his second with the Indians.

The team's catching situation has been up in the air because of the controversy over the catchers' trade which sent Russ Nixon to the Red Sox for Sammy White, who later retired. Commissioner Ford Frick Friday voided the deal and ordered Nixon returned to the Indians.

As I See It

by E. W. BROWN

Ever since someone asked "Why Can't Johnnie Read?" there's been a big spotlight on education. Everybody has a theory . . . but they can't all be right. In many parts of the U.S. students in the 6th to 12th grades have been getting tests on their ABCs. If they don't know the alphabet by the time they hit the 12th year they'd better learn it PDQ. The tests are supposed to show whether pupils know enough for easy use of the dictionary and telephone directory. That's getting down to rock bottom. We always thought the ABCs were important so people could read and understand . . . and could communicate their thoughts to others. With the world getting more complex every day, how come education seems to be getting simpler?

A Tennessee landlady complained in court that her roomer was 244 weeks behind in his rent. Looks as though she's the victim of an idle roomer. But it's no idle rumor that E. W. Brown is the place to come when you want a good used car. Every car on our lot has been thoroughly checked and any necessary repairs made before being offered for sale. We don't have "the finest cars in town", nor the "lowest prices" for you can always buy something cheaper and you usually get what you pay for. But we do have good cars, fairly priced and honestly represented. Come in and see E. W. BROWN, 406 South Main. Phone 5-4333.

TV NEWS

by DON SHUMAKER

One of the most quoted cracker-barrel philosophers on TV is the "pappy" of the Maverick brothers, Beauregard Maverick. On almost every episode of the popular ABC-TV "Maverick" series, one or the other of the Maverick brothers, Bret (James Garner) or Bart (Jack Kelly), dispenses a sample of the unique brand of philosophy they learned at pappy's knee. And in almost every case the fatherly advice seems to tend more toward the "practical" side of life then the idealistic.

Take for example Pappy's theories on gunfighting: "Son, it's not how fast you draw that counts, but what you draw when you draw." And further: "If all the men who lived by the gun were laid end to end . . . I wouldn't be surprised." Beauregard also advises his sons on fair-play: "Son, it isn't how you play the game . . . it's whether you win or lose." And Pappy Beau's views on success? "If at first you don't succeed . . . try something else." With this sort of background, it's not hard to see why the brothers Maverick are among the less heroic "heroes" on TV . . . and why, with this sort of off-beat humor, the "Maverick" series is one of the top-rated shows on TV. And it's not hard to see why Shumaker TV & Appliance is the place to buy that next TV set. Not only do we feature RCA Victor TV sets, famous for quality and dependability in TV, but just as important, we provide expert after-the-sale service. Royal Neighbors Meet In Greene

PATTERSON — Twenty-two members of the local Royal Neighbors Camp met Thursday evening, March 24, for their regular meeting which was originally postponed due to bad weather. Oracle Mary Nagle presided over the business meeting during which the flag was presented by Mrs. Minnie Steelman and a report was given by Recorder Nona Owdom.

The relief committee reported that Mrs. Bertha Barnett was hospitalized. A card was sent to her from the group, and also one was sent to John Prindee, a member who is confined to his home. A note from Mrs. Opal Irlam thanked the members for sending her a card.

The name of David Dawdy was balloted upon for transfer from juvenile to adult membership and the name of Elizabeth Ball was presented for social membership. Both were accepted.

After the closing of the camp and the coin collection, the group adjourned to the dining tables where refreshments were served by Mrs. Mary Nagle and Mrs. Marilyn Ford. Decorations were in St. Patrick's Day motif.

The remainder of the evening was spent playing games with Mrs. Mildean Bruce receiving the door prize given by Mrs. Bertha Nicholson.

They'll Do It Every Time By Jimmy Hatlo

He Learns While He Earns

TWO FEET ...FIRMLY PLANTED!

The typical newspaperboy in your neighborhood is living proof that there is a big difference among the youth of today. This lad stands erect when he faces the world; there's a smile on his lips; and his two feet are firmly planted. There's nothing cocky about his attitude—yet he is confident, ready for any challenge, eager and able to accept responsibility. He has the best job in the world for developing the most important qualities of leadership—a job which gives him a practical education to supplement that which he gets in the classroom. And he is learning to put leisure time to constructive use. Only on this job—running his own business—could he learn so much in so short a time—and earn money doing it!

97% of parents interviewed said newspaper route experience taught their son to accept responsibility.

with a NEWSPAPER BUSINESS of his own and his parents behind him a GREAT FUTURE lies ahead

MAYOR GETS A TICKET?

HOBBS, N.M. (AP) — Mayor W. W. Yoakum parked his car in front of city hall with extra care. He even checked to make sure he was within the white parking lines.

Minutes later he had a ticket — for parking diagonally in a parallel parking zone.

Bokker realized that he was on the prairie, that a bullet had creased his scalp. How deep the crease was he could not determine. But he was alive.

How long he had lain unconscious on the prairie he had no way of knowing. A moon was up, a faint crescent that dimly lighted the prairie. The stars were bright.

Bokker climbed unsteadily to his feet. The aching in his head became duller.

He began walking. His head throbbed, but pain had to be borne. He trudged along. The yellowness in the west became lighter and after some time became faint pinpricks of lights.

A little while later Bokker heard a faint gunshot. Yes, that was Pawnee City ahead of him. He cut the railroad tracks, followed them for a little while, then circled so that he would enter the town from the south.

He crossed Main Street, at the outskirts of town and noted that there were still quite a few horses tied at the hitchrails. The saloons were still doing a thriving business.

Counting the buildings from Kiowa Street, he reached the back of the little shack that housed his office. Instinct made him move with caution, even after he saw that the window through which he had followed MacDonald Pierson was open.

He was a bare half-dozen feet from the window when his nostrils were assailed by smoke. Cigar smoke. Fresh cigar smoke.

Someone was inside his place, seated or lying on his cot; someone smoking a cigar.

Bokker moved quietly away from the window. He continued down the alley. He counted buildings again and reached the little frame one occupied by the Bon Ton Millinery Shop. Ruth Compton slept behind her shop, as did Bokker.

He was in a precarious position. He was unarmed and hunted by a man, or men, who were trying to kill him. Trow was back of it, of course. But more than one man had attacked him on the way from Acorn. Chaffee had been south of the tracks, driving Ruth Compton in a buckboard. Someone else had been with Trow. Someone who knew he would be in Acorn and would be returning to Pawnee City in the dark.

Presently his line of thinking changed. What had happened to Ruth Compton?

Bokker moved toward the window of Ruth Compton's bedroom, behind her millinery shop. He reached it. The window was closed, a shade inside was drawn to the sill.

Bokker tested the window. The catch inside was locked, but the window was a poor fitting one.

Bokker found his penknife, opened it and slipped it between the two window halves. He found the catch, pressed hard to the left. His knife blade went through. The catch was open.

He raised the window a full six inches in one quick movement and without a squeak, then repeated the procedure. Finally he had the window sufficiently high to permit his ingress into the bedroom beyond.

Carefully he stooped and permitted the window shade to flap against the sill. He was the inside the room now, in total darkness. The room was small, he knew, and would contain a bed, possibly two. He listened and heard breathing and locating the source of it, made out a deeper shadow that was a bed.

He took a step forward—and stepped on a loose board.

A gasp told him that the occupant of the bed had awakened.

He lunged forward in the darkness. His knees struck a bed and he reached out. A scream started and Bokker, in panic, shot out his hands. They struck a face, smothered the rest of the scream.

Ruth Compton was caught at a disadvantage but she had a lithe strength and she was fighting with every ounce of fury in her body.

"Ruth," Bokker continued desperately, "don't—it's Phil Bokker!"

She stopped fighting then, but her body was tensed. He held a hand over her mouth. "I was ambushed near Acorn," Bokker said, talking very fast. "I was wounded and I've just come back to Pawnee City. Someone's in my place, waiting to kill me. I—I haven't got a gun."

She could not reply, of course, and he tentatively raised his hand a fraction of an inch. If she tried to scream he would clap it down again. She didn't scream however.

"Let me up!"

He sat on the edge of the bed inches from her.

"I've got to get a gun, Ruth," he said quietly.

"So you can kill again?" she threw at him.

"So I can keep from being killed. What—what happened after you left Acorn?"

"Nothing. What did you expect would happen?"

"But you must have heard shooting."

"We heard shooting, all right," Ruth said, "but I've heard shooting every night since I came to Kansas. The marshal stayed with me all the way to Pawnee City if that's what you mean."

"Then it was Trow." Bokker paused.

Ruth's voice came from the darkness. "I don't like this, you coming into my bedroom at night."

An electric shock seemed to shoot through Bokker. He reached out suddenly, his hand touching Ruth's nightgowned figure, brushing it. She pulled away instantly, but Bokker knew. "It's Raytown it was you!"
